But Expects Confirmation

Warren Says He'll Stay If Senate Spurns Fortas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Earl Warren says he will stay on as chief justice of the United States if the Senate does not confirm Abe Fortas as his successor.

But, Warren told a news conference Friday, he expects Fortas to be approved despite the declared opposition of 19 Republican senators and he believes Fortas will be "a great chief justice."

"I am obliged to (stay on)," Warren said. "I suppose that under the oath I am obliged to perform the duties of my office. I neither expect nor hope that would be a fact."

GOP Foe Silent

Michigan's Robert P. Griffin, leader of the Republican opposition bloc, declined comment on Warren's declaration. There was no immediate reaction from the others, scattered across the country for the long July 4th weekend.

But the Republicans, who claim unnamed supporters among Southern Democrats, say their campaign is based on principle, more than personalities.

They have accused President Johnson of "cronyism" in naming Fortas as chief justice and long-time Texas friend Homer Thornberry as an associate justice. They are mainly opposed, however, to what they call a "lame duck" president making court appointments.

They said they would press ahead with their campaign even when Democratic Senate Leader Mike Mansfield declared last week that he expected Warren to stay on if he had to and in effect gave his colleagues a choice between Warren and Fortas.

Mansfield's comments were viewed by some of the Republicans as an effort to weaken any Southern Democratic support. The Southerners have been loudly critical of the court under Warren and presumably would find little difference between Warren and Fortas who often have voted together.

Selection Defended

In talking with newsmen in the court's east conference room Warren stoutly defended Johnson's authority as well as his selections.

Johnson, said Warren, is no more a "lame duck" president than any other president serving his last term in office. The chief justice rejected the idea that Johnson should have left the nominations to the next President, saying: "I thought that as long as a man is president he has a right to perform the duties of the office."

Lavish in praise of Fortas, Warren said he had "a great record" on the court and earlier as a lawyer, teacher of law and government administrator.

Asked also what he thought of Thornberry, now a U.S. Circuit Court judge in New Orleans, Warren said he did not know him as well but that he believed he will become "an excellent justice."

The chief justice said he called Johnson the morning of June 13 to say he was retiring and that the telephone conversation, followed by an immediate visit to the White House, was their first talk on the matter. He said they did not discuss a successor.

"I would not dare to broach a subject of that kind myself," Warren declared. "I do not believe it would be in character to do so."

Recess Work Set

The chief justice said he left his retirement date open on a June 13 letter to Johnson so he could stay on to handle the court's administrative work during the summer recess.

He said another reason was to overcome the "danger of 4-to-4 decisions" when the new term begins in October.

Warren said he had been pondering retirement for a number of years and that the decision was "a purely personal thing." He ruled out health as a reason, saying it "has been very good."

Ray Confers With Hanes On Defense

Attorney Discusses Case During Talks In London Prison

LONDON (AP) — James Earl Ray's American lawyer talked with him in prison today and said he got "names and other leads" to build a case for the defense of the accused assassin of Martin Luther King Jr.

Arthur J. Hanes of Birmingham, Ala., met with Ray for an hour in an interview room at Wandsworth Prison, Hanes said afterward he found the conditions somewhat restrictive.

British prison officials did not permit him an interview in confidence such as usually accorded a British lawyer, he said.

Hanes and Ray were separated by a glass screen. Hanes said that when he wanted to exchange something confidential with Ray he would either whisper or write or pass notes to him via a prison guard.

The Alabama lawyer said he was beginning to build his case and organize a defense for the day that Ray might be extradited by the British to stand trial for the murder of the American civil rights leader.

"Our meeting was most helpful, most fruitful and beneficial," Hanes said. "We got to know each other better. He is relaxed and feels good. He is perfectly rational, sane and lucid."

Hanes spoke to reporters on emerging from the prison. He said he had no cause to complain about the restrictions placed upon him because "that's the system here."

Apparently alluding to security, Hanes said: "I think the procedure over here is rather good. There have been people hurt in other cases like this and I didn't like that at all."

Hanes declined to give any details about the names or other information Ray had given him. He also refused to answer a question about Ray's political orientation.

Hanes said he plans to leave London Sunday and did not foresee another trip to Britain to interview Ray unless the need arises.

He said Ray had been receiving "many messages of support from the United States and he is grateful for it. He also has received many offers of help for his defense."

Baker Seeks Race Track Near Beaver

Beaver County will be proposed as the site of a major thoroughbred race track complex next week, Michael Baker Jr., engineering executive, revealed today.

Baker announced two possible sites will be suggested to the Pennsylvania Racing Commission next Wednesday at Harrisburg.

Head of the widely-known Michael Baker Jr. engineering firm of Rochester, Baker made his announcement on the heels of an announcement at Pittsburgh Friday of a $20 million sports complex in the Pittsburgh district.

Harry Schreiber, 28-year-old executive of a trucking firm at Pittsburgh, said he and three partners have applied for a license from the racing commission.

He said the new complex, to be built on one of two proposed sites within minutes from downtown Pittsburgh, would include a thoroughbred track and two other tracks.

Baker said this morning he and a group of 15 western Pennsylvania industrialists and professional men plan to file a "statement of interest" with the commission.

Their petition will be presented by former Pennsylvania Governor

Termed 'Very Ill'

Lung Ailment Worsens Dr. Blaiberg's Condition

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Dr. Philip Blaiberg, who has lived more than six months with a transplanted heart, is "very ill" with a lung affliction, Groote Schuur Hospital said today.

The hospital had announced Friday that pulmonary complications "are giving rise to concern." Medical Supt. Dr. Jacobus Burger said today Blaiberg still was very ill.

In addition to the lung trouble, so far not specified, Blaiberg is recovering from hepatitis. The hospital said the liver condition was improving and unofficial reports said he enjoyed a hearty meal including eggs and cheese Friday.

But when the lung problem struck, hospital staff kept an all-night watch in his sterilized room.

Court Grants Ohio Power Picket Limit

STUEBENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Power Co., was granted two court orders Friday restraining pickets at two of its premises here where the firm said striking employees blocked entrances.

Jefferson County Common Pleas Court Judge Arthur L. Hopper handed down injunctions limiting the number of pickets to six at the company's general office building and to nine at its warehouse plant.

Supervisors are keeping operations going at many Ohio Power facilities where workers are striking over new union contracts.

About 1,400 workers were idled by the walkouts last weekend of the Utility Workers Union, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and the Electric Service Union.

No new negotiating sessions are scheduled.

Blaiberg, 59, the world's longest surviving heart transplant patient, received the new organ Jan. 2 in an operation performed by Dr. Christiaan N. Barnard, who pioneered such surgery.

To date 24 heart transplants have been performed in nine countries and Blaiberg is one of seven surviving recipients. Two months after his transplant, Blaiberg was driving his car on downtown shopping expeditions.

Doctors discovered Blaiberg had hepatitis when he returned to the hospital for routine tests in May. At one time his condition deteriorated to the point where doctors feared for his life, and Dr. Barnard interrupted an overseas trip to rush to his bedside.

The new complication in Blaiberg's case developed little more than a week before a conference of heart transplant surgeons in Cape Town, site of the world's first transplant operation seven months ago.

Barnard performed the operation Dec. 3, 1967, on Louis Washkansky, who died of pneumonia 17 days later.

Barnard will host the July 13-16 symposium, expected to attract Dr. Adrian Kantrowitz, who performed the first heart transplant in the United States, and Dr. Denton A. Cooley of Houston, Tex., who has performed more heart grafts than any other surgeon.

In Canada, the Montreal Heart Institute said Gaelan Paris, the world's 22nd heart recipient, is recovering so rapidly since his June 20 operation that no further medical bulletins would be issued.

New Trial Sought For Garvin

Two Penciled Postcards Introduced Into Hearing

An unusual twist developed in a traffic manslaughter case Friday in Common Pleas Court at Lisbon as counsel for Glenn C. Garvin, 43, of Smiths Ferry Rd. 1, argued a motion for a new trial.

Both Judge Joel H. Sharp and Defense Counsel Robert Hartford of East Palestine reported receiving postcards reading, "Don't blame that boy for hitting Tennessee. I told that band director all about it. He didn't hit anything. E. Coleman, 307 Carolina Ave."

The penciled notes were on cards mailed July 2 at Chester.

Judge Sharp said he would defer a ruling on the new trial motion. He turned over his postcard to Assistant Prosecuting Atty. John B. McDonald for an investigation.

Everett Coleman, 70, of 307 Carolina Ave., Chester, was the state's only eyewitness at the trial which began May 13. McDonald said he doubts that Coleman wrote the cards. McDonald, who tried the case, also said he does not understand the reference to "that band director."

Coleman testified he was standing on the sidewalk in front of Reark's Cigar Store on the Diamond here and saw Garvin's car strike the pedestrian. He knew only as "Tennessee" and knock him out into 6th St.

Garvin was convicted of "homicide by vehicle" in the death of Lawrence Mathes, 62, formerly of Dresden Ave., who died of a fractured skull Feb. 8, five days after the accident.

Coleman testified Garvin was driving south on St. Clair, ran through a red light, hit "Tennessee," who was walking east to west in the north crosswalk at St. Clair and 6th, then continued into 6th and struck an eastbound auto driven by Har-

Security Bolstered To Prevent Student Anti-Viet Marches

By FRANK CORMIER, Associated Press Writer
SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — President Johnson told the chief executives of Central America today he wants to know "what more we can do together."

Johnson, on the first leg of a journey that will make him the first U.S. president to visit all five Central American republics in a single trip, said in remarks prepared for his airport arrival at this, the smallest nation:

"I come to San Salvador to learn. I come to find out from my fellow presidents what our nations have achieved toward improving the lives of the people. I come to ask what more can we do together."

From the airport Johnson was to go by motorcade through streets where 2,000 public university students demonstrated Friday night against him and the presidents of El Salvador, Costa Rica, Honduras, Nicaragua and Guatemala.

There were no incidents as the students marched down a main street in front of the U.S. Embassy, but leaders called for a bigger turnout today.

Some of the students carried placards calling Johnson "the murderer of Vietnam" and saying "Get out of Vietnam." Others referred to the summit meeting as "the dragon and five mosquitos."

National Guard troops pledged full security for Johnson's arrival.

By Monday night, Johnson will have visited all five countries comprising the full membership of the seven-year-old Central American Common Market.

In a few years, Johnson said, the five countries have virtually

Area Man, 65, Killed When Struck By Car

A 65-year-old Frankfort Springs farm worker was injured fatally when struck by an auto pulling a camper trailer on Route 168 just north of Frankfort Springs Friday night.

Thomas Fullum of Georgetown RD 1 died at Weirton General Hospital about an hour after the mishap at 7:15 a third of a mile north of the small community.

Pennsylvania state police at Carnegie said he was struck by the wide mirror on an auto driven by Kenneth H. Gilmer, 31, of 103 Smith St., New Cumberland.

Gilmer told officers he was heading south in a 1963 auto pulled the camper, and when he came over the crest of a hill he saw the pedestrian in the center of the highway.

Gilmer said he swerved to right to avoid hitting the man, but the mirror struck him and he was hit again by the trailer.

The victim was taken to the Weirton hospital with head and internal injuries.

There was about $300 damage to the auto and trailer, officers reported.

Young Musicians Killed

Viet Cong Ambush U.S. Entertainers, Slay Two

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong guerrillas ambushed four young American jazz musicians and an Army sergeant escort driving near Saigon today on an isolated road.

Two teen-age members of the group—Brandi Perry and the Bubble Machine—were killed when they tried surrendering with their hands in the air. Two others, including 20-year-old singer Paula Levine of North Hollywood, Calif., and a U.S. soldier were wounded.

"I played dead and that's the only reason I'm alive today," the attractive dark-haired Miss Levine said at the U.S. Army's 93rd Evacuation Hospital where she was treated for fragment wounds in the back and legs.

The others wounded were Jack Bone, 18, of Los Angeles, and a 21-year-old soldier escorting the group, who was in serious condition.

Identities of the dead were withheld until their families could be notified.

Advised To Return

The musical group had started out late in the day for the Vietnamese coastal resort of Vung

Tau, about 45 miles southeast of Saigon, to play for American troops. Halfway to their destination, they were stopped by South Vietnamese militia guards who advised them to turn back.

A few miles along on their return trip, they ran into the ambush. Miss Levine said she crouched on the floor while the men got out, first thinking they were being fired on mistakenly by friendly troops. As they raised their arms in the air, the Viet Cong opened up again.

On the northeast frontier, U.S. Marines charging through heavy enemy artillery and mortar fire killed 78 North Vietnamese troops in a day-long battle Friday, the U.S. Command reported. Four Marines were killed and 42 wounded.

The Marines were sweeping coastal marshlands when they came under enemy fire. American artillery, tanks and divebombers joined the counterattack. The North Vietnamese pulled out at dark.

In other fighting in the northern war zone, U.S. troops reported killing 68 enemy soldiers.

General Fund Of City Slated For '69 Boost

The city government's general fund is expected to total $400,937 in 1969, an increase of $9,541 from the $391,396 in expenditures forecast for the current year.

The totals are shown in the city's budget for the next calendar year, on which the annual public hearing was held Friday noon in the offices of Auditor Lawrence J. Zollinger and Treasurer Bert A. Dawson. No residents appeared to examine the figures.

The budget is scheduled for action by City Council, probably at its next regular meeting July 15. The figures then will be forwarded to the County Budget Commission at Lisbon, the agency which will make the final determination on the amounts the city may allocate for next year.

The figures will be used when the 1969 appropriation ordinance is enacted in March of next year. All Ohio subdivisions are required to submit their budgets.

Cites Uncommitted Delegates

Rocky Remains Certain Of Open GOP Convention

By The Associated Press
Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says there are enough uncommitted delegates to assure an "open convention" when the Republican Party meets in Miami Beach next month to pick a presidential candidate.

"Today there are over 200 uncommitted delegates," he said Friday as he met with reporters while vacationing in Hawaii.

These fence-sitters "are shifting all over the country," the New York governor said.

Rockefeller said that if he loses the fight to the nomination he will support the winner, whether it be Richard M. Nixon or any other Republican.

Denies 'Disunity'

In the meantime, he said, he is unfazed by charges that he is sowing disunity in the party.

"I'm simply repeating what he said in writing and speeches and pointing out where I differ with him," he said of Nixon. "I am trying to offer a choice to the Republican Party—and to have a choice there has got to be differences."

Rockefeller conferred briefly with Hawaii's GOP convention delegates, but the other major presidential contenders treated Friday as a day of abstention from speechmaking and public political muscle-flexing.

They unwound in places and ways of their own choosing—Nixon in Miami, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy in Washington and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, McCarthy's rival for the Democratic nomination, in Minnesota.

Nixon Sets Pace

It was a rare cease-fire, perhaps the last until November. Nixon said Friday night as he attended a quiet 20th birthday dinner for daughter Julie that this weekend would be the last plateau and that from now on he will be working nonstop.

Humphrey relaxed at his lakeside home in Waverly, Minn., but planned to mount the stump again tonight in Poplar Bluff, Mo., for a Truman Day rally.

George Wallace, American Independent Party candidate, was also booked for a speech tonight in Ohio.

Housing Inspections To Begin On Monday

Inspections required by a new housing and building code will be launched Monday at 10 a.m. in the Pleasant Heights area.

Chester M. Brown, housing and building inspector, will make the inspections with the aid of Fire Chief Alfred Vandyne and a representative of the Health Department.

The inspections are scheduled to continue regularly until all housing units and all other buildings in the city have been inspected. With approximately 7,200 structures in the city, completion of the citywide check may require several years.

INDIAN TOWNSHIP, Maine (AP) — About 40 Passamaquoddy Indians have conducted a sit-down demonstration at a logging site in this forested township. The Indians contend the Georgia Pacific Co. is logging on land that is theirs under a 1794 treaty. At issue are 19,000 acres of timber which both parties claim.

Young Musicians Killed

Viet Cong Ambush U.S. Entertainers, Slay Two

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong guerrillas ambushed four young American jazz musicians and an Army sergeant escort driving near Saigon today on an isolated road.

Two teen-age members of the group—Brandi Perry and the Bubble Machine—were killed when they tried surrendering with their hands in the air. Two others, including 20-year-old singer Paula Levine of North Hollywood, Calif., and a U.S. soldier were wounded.

"I played dead and that's the only reason I'm alive today," the attractive dark-haired Miss Levine said at the U.S. Army's 93rd Evacuation Hospital where she was treated for fragment wounds in the back and legs.

The others wounded were Jack Bone, 18, of Los Angeles, and a 21-year-old soldier escorting the group, who was in serious condition.

Identities of the dead were withheld until their families could be notified.

Advised To Return

The musical group had started out late in the day for the Vietnamese coastal resort of Vung

Tau, about 45 miles southeast of Saigon, to play for American troops. Halfway to their destination, they were stopped by South Vietnamese militia guards who advised them to turn back.

A few miles along on their return trip, they ran into the ambush. Miss Levine said she crouched on the floor while the men got out, first thinking they were being fired on mistakenly by friendly troops. As they raised their arms in the air, the Viet Cong opened up again.

On the northeast frontier, U.S. Marines charging through heavy enemy artillery and mortar fire killed 78 North Vietnamese troops in a day-long battle Friday, the U.S. Command reported. Four Marines were killed and 42 wounded.

The Marines were sweeping coastal marshlands when they came under enemy fire. American artillery, tanks and dive-bombers joined the counterattack. The North Vietnamese pulled out at dark.

68 Enemy Claimed

General Fund Of City Slated For '69 Boost

The city government's general fund is expected to total $400,937 in 1969, an increase of $9,541 from the $391,396 in expenditures forecast for the current year.

The totals are shown in the city's budget for the next calendar year, on which the annual public hearing was held Friday noon in the offices of Auditor Lawrence J. Zollinger and Treasurer Bert A. Dawson. No residents appeared to examine the figures.

The budget is scheduled for action by City Council, probably at its next regular meeting July 15. The figures then will be forwarded to the County Budget Commission at Lisbon, the agency which will make the final determination on the amounts the city may allocate for next year.

The figures will be used when the 1969 appropriation ordinance is enacted in March of next year. All Ohio subdivisions are required to submit their budgets.

Weekend's Outlook?

Perfect With Capital P

A perfect weekend is shaping up for residents of the tri-state area.

The forecast calls for clear and cool tonight — perfect for sleeping — and fair and warmer Sunday — perfect for outings.

Tonight's low will be in the 50s and Sunday's high is expected to be in the 80s.

Cites Uncommitted Delegates

Rocky Remains Certain Of Open GOP Convention

By The Associated Press

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says there are enough uncommitted delegates to assure an "open convention" when the Republican Party meets in Miami Beach next month to pick a presidential candidate.

"Today there are over 200 uncommitted delegates," he said Friday as he met with reporters while vacationing in Hawaii.

These fence-sitters "are shifting all over the country," the New York governor said.

Rockefeller said that if he loses the fight to the nomination he will support the winner, whether it be Richard M. Nixon or any other Republican.

Denies 'Disunity'

In the meantime, he said, he is unfazed by charges that he is sowing disunity in the party.

"I'm simply repeating what he said in writing and speeches and pointing out where I differ with him," he said of Nixon. "I am trying to offer a choice to the Republican Party—and to have a choice there has got to be differences."

Rockefeller conferred briefly with Hawaii's GOP convention delegates, but the other major presidential contenders treated Friday as a day of abstention from speechmaking and public political muscle-flexing.

They unwound in places and ways of their own choosing—Nixon in Miami, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy in Washington and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, McCarthy's rival for the Democratic nomination, in Minnesota.

Nixon Sets Pace

It was a rare cease-fire, perhaps the last until November. Nixon said Friday night as he attended a quiet 20th birthday dinner for daughter Julie that this weekend would be the last plateau and that from now on he will be working nonstop.

Humphrey relaxed at his lakeside home in Waverly, Minn., but planned to mount the stump again tonight in Poplar Bluff, Mo., for a Truman Day rally.

George Wallace, American Independent Party candidate, was also booked for a speech tonight in Dayton, Ohio.

Housing Inspections

To Begin On Monday

Inspections required by a new housing and building code will be launched Monday at 10 a.m. in the Pleasant Heights area.

Chester M. Brown, housing and building inspector, will make the inspections with the aid of Fire Chief Alfred Vandyne and a representative of the Health Department.

The inspections are scheduled to continue regularly until all housing units and all other buildings in the city have been inspected. With approximately 7,200 structures in the city, completion of the citywide check may require several years.

New Officers Set Goals During Meeting Of Lions

Newly-elected officers discussed their goals for the forthcoming year during the noon meeting of the Lions Club Friday at the Travelers Hotel.

Among the first to speak at "Meet Your Officers Day" was Richard Allison, a member of the board of directors, who proposed the group become more active in sports, especially golf, and also enter teams in leagues such as bowling.

James Sigler, also a member of the board, discussed the annual picnic to be held in the near future. Allison and James McKinnon will serve on the picnic committee, Sigler said.

Allison went on to name the Leo Club — a junior Lions Club — as one of the major projects which should be accomplished during the coming year.

Don Wolfe, treasurer, outlined the major duties of the treasurer and proposed economic changes, especially in the club newsletter.

Wolfe also outlined a modified nursing scholarship program to meet the rising costs of training.

Ralph Compas, second vice president, lauded Lionism as "the secular club which has the closest affinity to Christianity."

Ed Valor, secretary, reported the membership of the club is 75 and Fred C. Kane, president said his goal is to raise that to 100.

Winding up the meeting, Kane reported the club will participate in the Pottery Festival next year and called for 100 per cent participation by members in various projects.

Court Income Falls By $127

Municipal Court revenue hit $5,021 in June, a drop of $127 from the $5,148 in May, it was shown today in the monthly report of Clerk Wilbur J. Harmon.

The city treasury received $4,091 out of last month's revenue, a decline of $185 from the $4,276 it was paid from the preceding month's receipts.

The city's share of the revenue was comprised of $384 in costs from civil cases, $3,432 in fines, costs and forfeitures in criminal actions and $274 from citations resulting from Ohio Highway Patrol cases.

In addition to the amount paid the city, the court turned over $274 to the state treasury, $523 to the county treasury and $94.50 to the Law Library Association.

The total amount handled by the court last month was $10,664, a gain of $912 from the $9,752 handled in the preceding month. The sums handled last month included $5,062 in the civil branch and $5,601 in the criminal branch.

A breakdown of cases showed: 44 civil cases filed in June, 37 disposed of and 153 left pending; 11 small claims cases filed, 10 disposed of and 12 pending; 110 city criminal cases filed, 92 disposed of and 118 pending; and 86 state criminal cases filed, 89 disposed of and 109 pending.

Firm Rejects Chinese Demand For Damages

LONDON (AP) — Vickers-Zimmer, a British-German engineering firm whose contract with Red China has broken up in charges of fraud and espionage, will refuse to pay the $1.56 million which Peking demands as compensation.

Vickers-Zimmer had a $6 million contract to build a synthetic fiber plant in Lanchow, north-west China. The official New China News Agency said the contract was annulled after Peking municipal court found the company guilty of fraud and spying.

Legislators Rap OSU On Race Policy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Two state legislators, charging that "deplorable racist policies" exist at Ohio State University, threatened Friday to call for a "fullscale legislative investigation" if something isn't done to correct the situation.

Reps. Thomas E. Hill of Cleveland and William F. Bowen of Cincinnati said they plan to ask for a conference with OSU President Novice G. Fawcett, the board of trustees and a representative of the attorney general's office to discuss "discriminatory practices" at OSU.

The two legislators met with newsmen at the hotel here where the Congress of Racial Equality is holding its national convention.

Hill and Bowen, both Negro, charged that the indictment of 34 black students allegedly involved in the April 26 seizure of the OSU administration building was a "racist reaction" since there were "about 200 white students involved who were not indicted."

They apparently referred to a separate demonstration at the administration building the same day by students protesting U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Bowen said in an interview after the news conference that he hopes to meet with Gov. James A. Rhodes to ask him to appoint a Negro to the OSU board of trustees.

Bowen said he also would like to see some Negro full professors on the OSU teaching staff, and wants a stop to "discriminatory practices" in off-campus housing and in extra-curricular activities, such as football and cheerleading.

Whether the two legislators will call for an investigation depends on what action is taken, Bowen said.

Meanwhile, Gordon B. Carson, OSU vice president, termed the discrimination charges "ridiculous," adding that Negro students "get the same education as everybody else."

He said Ohio State had a full professor who was Negro last year, but he resigned. "There has never been anything to prevent black professors from joining the faculty," he said.

Earlier Release Due Short Tour GI's, Army Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soldiers returning from Vietnam, Korea or other "short-tour" overseas areas soon will be eligible for up to five months early discharge.

The Army, announcing this Friday, said the new policy will go into effect Aug. 1. Present policy allows early release of up to 90 days.

The Army said "short-tour" areas are those where a man serves less than 18 months if unaccompanied by his family and less than 24 if he has his family along.

"In the past, the majority of individuals assigned to units in the United States, after their return from short-tour areas, have been with their units for too short a time to justify retention on active duty," the Army said in explaining the policy change.

The regulation, however, will not apply to soldiers returning to the United States with more than five months. This will give men serving in Vietnam or South Korea a chance to extend their tours to qualify for early separation, the Army said.

Discrimination Ban Adopted By FCC For Radio Stations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Broadcasters who engage in racial discrimination will not be able to get their licenses renewed, under a new Federal Communications Commission policy.

The commission announced the new policy Friday and proposed at the same time a new rule under which broadcasters would be required to file with renewal applications a statement showing what they are doing to promote employment and programming aimed at minority groups.

A spokesman for the National Association of Broadcasters in Washington said the organization would have no comment until it could study the commission's notice.

The FCC estimated it would take four to six months to put the proposed rule into effect which would allow for filing of petitions by all interested parties and possible public hearings.

Henry Geller, FCC general counsel, said the new rule also would require broadcasters to post notices in their stations and to explain on employment applications that they are pledged not to discriminate against anyone on the basis of race.

The FCC said complaints a station is discriminating on the basis of race in programming and hiring will be referred to the Federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission or to the appropriate state fair employment group, whichever has jurisdiction.

The FCC said it will act itself when substantial complaints are lodged against a station which fall under neither federal nor state civil rights provisions.

In its notice, the commission said the federal equal employment law applies to all employers with 25 or more employees. Between 80 and 90 per cent of television stations fall in this category but it covers only 10 per cent of radio stations, the FCC said.

Personalities In The News

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Dizzy Gillespie, the man with the hot horn, gave the Newport Jazz Festival a happy afternoon Friday.

Gillespie, in Bermuda shorts, knee socks and a hippie medallion, entertained the crowd not only with his music but a number of side remarks.

He identified one number as "Swing Low, Sweet Cadillac" and sang the lyric, "I looked over Jordan and what did I see, an Eldorado comin' after me."

At night, the big bands took over, including those of Duke Ellington, Count Basie and Woody Herman.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who normally puts in a six-day week plus some time on Sunday, is spending a long weekend at home.

State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey said Friday that Rusk, last at his office on Wednesday, plans to return to work Monday.

MARAKECH, Morocco (AP) — Princess Arenberg, an American citizen, was married Friday in a civil ceremony to Duke Emmanuel d'Uzes, a member of one of France's oldest noble families.

The bride, 34, formerly was Peggy Bedford. She was married previously to Thomas Bancroft and Prince Arenberg.

The duke, 39, a chemical engineer, is an executive of an insecticide firm here.

Private Pilot Barred From Air 'Forever'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A man who worked his way up to a top pilot's job with a major airline before it was discovered he held only a private license has been barred permanently from flying anything.

The National Transportation Safety Board said Friday it had upheld earlier rulings in the case of Jimmie H. Lane, 35, and had closed the book on him.

The Federal Aviation Administration discovered early last March that Lane, then of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., had been flying as a pilot for Eastern Airlines since 1957 although he held only a private pilot's license. That license authorized him to fly only single-engine planes, and did not qualify him to carry passengers.

The FAA said Lane altered the certificate to make it resemble the card of an air transport pilot.

After attending Eastern's pilot training school, Lane advanced progressively during 11½ years to the command of the piston-engine Constellation and then the four-engine Electra propjet, into the $20,000-a-year salary class.

He flew the busy New York-Washington shuttle service regularly, and had a perfect safety record.

He was unmasked, finally by an FAA inspector checking his competence to become a DC9 jet captain.

Eastern promptly fired him, and last March 4 the FAA ordered emergency revocation of his only flight document, his private pilot's certificate.

Lane, now listed by the FAA as of 7 Pin Oak Drive, Trenton, N.J., appealed to the National Transportation Safety Board, contending that with his long experience and accident-free record he should at least be allowed to continue flying small planes.

The Safety Board's chief hearing examiner, Joseph C. Caldwell Jr., conducted an oral hearing at Miami and upheld the FAA.

The Safety Board in turn upheld that decision to end the matter.

Calm Returns To Paterson

PATERSON, N.J. (AP)—Police with shotguns marching 10 abreast broke up a crowd at the scene of a fire without incident and calm returned today to the city's Puerto Rican areas hit by four consecutive nights of disorder.

Officers said there were no arrests at the fire scene but reported that nearly 30 persons had been arrested—mostly on minor charges—in other incidents Friday night and early today.

Mayor Lawrence F. Kramer has announced plans to meet today with Puerto Rican community leaders in an effort to end the disturbances.

Minor incidents of window smashing occurred until shortly before midnight when a fire broke out in a hardware store on Main Street, the heart of the area which has been the focal point of disorders.

As helmeted police converged on the fire scene they were jeered and cursed.

They ordered all persons off the sidewalks and porches in an eight block area near the fire and dispersed the crowd without arrests.

The streets were littered with garbage cans and other items hurled by residents. Several cars occupied by newsmen were pelted with rocks.

Shortly afterward, a brawl broke out among Puerto Rican youths a few blocks away. Police dispersed the crowds.

Elsewhere, in scattered locations, several fires were started with fire bombs. Police Commissioner Edward Englehardt said.

AWOL Soldier Takes Own Life In Jail Cell

CLEVELAND (AP) — A 17-year-old soldier, absent without leave from Fort Dix, N.J., was found hanged in the Shaker Heights City Jail Friday. Police said it was an apparent suicide.

Jay G. Wilson, AWOL from his basic training unit since June 24, was found with a chain from an upper bunk around his neck. The youth, who had been staying with his grandmother in Cleveland Heights, was arrested earlier Thursday after a high-speed motorcycle chase across three suburbs.

58 Delegates In Area Await Union's Talks

Fifty-eight delegates from East Liverpool district locals will attend the 74th annual convention of the International Brotherhood of Operative Pottery, which will open Monday, July 15, at Vancouver, British Columbia.

E. L. Wheatley, president, will bang the gavel at 9 a. m. to launch the meeting in the Hotel Vancouver. About 175 delegates are expected in all from locals throughout the U. S. and parts of Canada.

The meeting is scheduled to continue through Friday, July 19. One of its last official acts will be selection of the convention city for 1969.

Many area delegates will make the trip by plane, leaving next Saturday. Those planning to drive or travel by train will leave earlier. For instance, a Penn. Central train will leave Beaver Falls Thursday at 12:08 a. m., carrying many potters from Beaver Falls, East Palestine, Salem and Alliance. It is due in Seattle Saturday at 7:45 a. m. and in Vancouver at 3:38 p. m. the same day.

Here's a list of the delegates from East Liverpool:

Local 124: Frank M. Allison, Sherwood Robinson, Ruth Moore, Jessie Emerson and Clarence Moore; Local 140: Norma M. Winkle; Local 141: Victor Dorrell, William Wooley, James Elliott and Noel Gillespie.

Local 148: Ross Urie and Emory Hart; Local 163: Laura Krawiec and Esther Dillon; Local 172: Charles Leisure, Arnold Fillipone and Raymond Shoshan; Local 195: Mildred Ward and Villa Carraher.

Local 320: Robert Clutter, Clair Coleman, James Moss and Hugh Eberhart; Local 321: Vesta Dugman, Helen Laughlin, Gail Britton, Lester McElhane, Roy Hart, George Henthorn and Hazel Smith, and Local 328: Dorothy Nutter.

Here are the delegates from the other area locals:

Life Can Be Cheap, Reports Yippie Group

NEW YORK (AP) — You can get anything from food to a buffalo free if you follow instructions in a pamphlet issued by the Yippies—the Youth International Party.

Introductory offers can net free records, books, and merchandise, says the treatise, or you can even get free vegetables and meat if you know where to go.

On the free bison bit, the pamphlet advises that the U.S. government "in order to keep the herds at a controllable level, will give you a real live buffalo if you can guarantee shipping expenses and grazing area."

Wallace Cancels Columbus Visit; Slated At Dayton

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The director of field operations for George C. Wallace's Ohio presidential campaign announced early Saturday that the former Alabama governor has postponed his scheduled visit here Sunday.

Wallace had been scheduled to address a rally in the Jet Stadium baseball park Sunday afternoon.

William E. Shepler of Columbus said that after conferring with Wallace aides in Montgomery, Ala., it was decided "that a future appearance would be more advantageous to our efforts to qualify Gov. Wallace for the Nov. 5 presidential ballot."

Shepler would not comment on whether there was any connection between Wallace's cancellation and the fact that the Congress of Racial Equality national convention is in progress here and will be winding up on Sunday.

Shepler said Wallace will speak as scheduled Saturday night in Dayton, 60 miles southwest of here. He addresses a $25-a-plate dinner at 6:30 p. m. and then goes to a local arena to speak at a public rally at 8 p. m.

Gillespie, in Bermuda shorts, knee socks and a hippie medallion, entertained the crowd not only with his music but a number of side remarks.

He identified one number as "Swing Low, Sweet Cadillac" and sang the lyric, "I looked over Jordan and what did I see, an Eldorado comin' after me."

At night, the big bands took over, including those of Duke Ellington, Count Basie and Woody Herman.

Private Pilot Barred From Air 'Forever'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A man who worked his way up to a top pilot's job with a major airline before it was discovered he held only a private license has been barred permanently from flying anything.

The National Transportation Safety Board said Friday it had upheld earlier rulings in the case of Jimmie H. Lane, 35, and had closed the book on him.

The Federal Aviation Administration discovered early last March that Lane, then of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., had been flying as a pilot for Eastern Air Lines since 1957 although he held only a private pilot's license. That license authorized him to fly only single-engine planes, and did not qualify him to carry passengers.

The FAA said Lane altered the certificate to make it resemble the card of an air transport pilot.

After attending Eastern's pilot training school, Lane advanced progressively during 1½ years to the command of the piston-engine Constellation and then the four-engine Electra propjet, into the $20,000-a-year salary class.

He flew the busy New York-Washington shuttle service regularly, and had a perfect safety record.

He was unmasked, finally, by an FAA inspector checking his competence to become a DC9 jet captain.

Eastern promptly fired him, and last March 4 the FAA ordered emergency revocation of his only flight document, his private pilot's certificate.

Lane, now listed by the FAA as of 7 Pin Oak Drive, Trenton, N.J., appealed to the National Transportation Safety Board, contending that with his long experience and accident-free record he should at least be allowed to continue flying small planes.

The Safety Board's chief hearing examiner, Joseph C. Caldwell Jr., conducted an oral hearing at Miami and upheld the FAA.

The Safety Board in turn upheld that decision to end the matter.

58 Delegates In Area Await Union's Talks

Fifty-eight delegates from East Liverpool district locals will attend the 74th annual convention of the International Brotherhood of Operative Pottery, which will open Monday, July 15, at Vancouver, British Columbia.

E. L. Wheatley, president, will bang the gavel at 9 a. m. to launch the meeting in the Hotel Vancouver. About 175 delegates are expected in all from locals throughout the U. S. and parts of Canada.

The meeting is scheduled to continue through Friday, July 19. One of its last official acts will be selection of the convention city for 1969.

Many area delegates will make the trip by plane, leaving next Saturday. Those planning to drive or travel by train will leave earlier. For instance, a Penn. Central train will leave Beaver Falls Thursday at 12:08 a. m., carrying many potters from Beaver Falls, East Palestine, Salem and Alliance. It is due in Seattle Saturday at 7:45 a. m. and in Vancouver at 3:38 p. m. the same day.

Here's a list of the delegates from East Liverpool:

Local 124: Frank M. Allison, Sherwood Robinson, Ruth Moore, Jessie Emerson and Clarence Moore; Local 140: Norma M. Windle; Local 141: Victor Dorrell, William Wooley, James Elliott and Noel Gillespie.

Local 148: Ross Urie and Emory Hart; Local 163: Laura Krawiec and Esther Dillon; Local 172: Charles Leisure, Arnold Fillipone and Raymond Shoshan; Local 195: Mildred Ward and Villa Carraher.

Local 320: Robert Clutter, Clair Coleman, James Moss and Hugh Eberhart; Local 321: Vesta Dugman, Helen Laughlin, Gail Britton, Lester McElhane, Roy Hart, George Henthorn and Hazel Smith, and Local 328: Dorothy Nuttner.

Here are the delegates from the other area locals:

Life Can Be Cheap, Reports Yippie Group

NEW YORK (AP) — You can get anything from food to a buffalo free if you follow instructions in a pamphlet issued by the Yippies—the Youth International Party.

Introductory offers can net free records, books, and merchandise, says the treatise, or you can even get free vegetables and meat if you know where to go.

On the free bison bit, the pamphlet advises that the U.S. government "in order to keep the herds at a controllable level, will give you a real live buffalo if you can guarantee shipping expenses and grazing area."

Capers come two ways, packed in brine and in salt. As a general rule, the salt should be rinsed off the capers before using.

Wallace Cancels Columbus Visit; Slated At Dayton

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The director of field operations for George C. Wallace's Ohio presidential campaign announced early Saturday that the former Alabama governor has postponed his scheduled visit here Sunday.

Wallace had been scheduled to address a rally in the Jet Stadium baseball park Sunday afternoon.

William E. Shepler of Columbus said that after conferring with Wallace aides in Montgomery, Ala., it was decided "that a future appearance would be more advantageous to our efforts to qualify Gov. Wallace for the Nov. 5 presidential ballot."

Shepler would not comment on whether there was any connection between Wallace's cancellation and the fact that the Congress of Racial Equality national convention is in progress here and will be winding up on Sunday.

We've got more than 100,000 trained trouble-shooters to help AAA members

Protection for motorists is knowing that no matter when or where you have a breakdown, there's help nearby.

That's the idea behind AAA's Emergency Road Service... and 10,500,000 members now enjoy this around-the-clock protection... seven days a week.

No matter where you travel—around the corner or around the country—AAA is never far away. There are 24,000 AAA road service installations from coast to coast, and each one is staffed by experienced mechanics (well over 100,000!) ready to assist in emergencies.

A call is all it takes to have help on the way.

To many members, this service and protection alone is well worth the cost of an AAA membership. Yet it's just one of many AAA services. You'll never have trouble on the road with so many expert trouble-shooters backing you up. Call your AAA club for full details.

Peter Monda

CANTON — Services will be held at 1 p.m. Monday in St. George's Romanian Orthodox Church for Peter Monda, 88, of 1432 E. Tuscarawas Ave.

He had been in failing health for a year and died at 6:45 p.m. Wednesday at home. He was the father of Cornell P. Monda, Lisbon school psychologist and psychologist at the East Liverpool Child Counseling Center.

Mr. Monda was born May 30, 1880, in Romania and came to the United States in 1901, locating first in Lisbon. He resided in Leetonia and Salem before moving to Canton more than 60 years ago. He worked in the machine department at the Timken Roller Bearing Co. for 25 years before retirement.

Mr. Monda was a member of St. George's church — his favorite charity, the family said.

His wife, Helen, whom he married July 4, 1903, died June 14, 1964. He leaves a daughter, Mrs. Michael (Helen) Miller of Mentor; three sons, Cornell; John Monda of Saranac, Mich.; and Tarzan Monda of Canton; 11 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

The Rev. Constantin Tofan of St. George's will officiate. Burial will be in Forest Hill Cemetery. Saracusta services will be held at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in the Rossi Funeral Home, 30th St., N.W., where friends may call from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. Sunday.

Crews Speed Garbage And Trash Pickup

Sanitation department crews were out in nearly full force today in an attempt to catch up on the backlog of garbage and trash which accumulated during the recent work stoppage.

Robert E. Vodrey, safety-service director, said three crews are working in the area from 2nd to 7th Sts. today — normally a non-work day. Four crews were called, but only personnel sufficient to operate three trucks, he added.

Vodrey estimated sanitation work will be back to normal by next Saturday.

ets nearly six months in advance.

In contrast to the $400,937 anticipated for next year, the city's actual expenses and balance in 1967 totaled $496,747, the budget shows. The city started 1967 with a balance of $60,368 carried over from 1966, but no balance is anticipated at the end of 1968, the budget shows.

Here's a breakdown on some of the major sources of revenue, comparing them with previous years:

General property tax is expected to yield $50,000 in 1969, compared with $48,038 in 1968 and $69,807 in 1967. Classified property tax income is estimated at $17,750 next year, the same as in 1968. The source yielded $19,479 in 1967.

Sales tax, collected by the state and returned to the city, will produce $40,000 in 1969, compared with $32,450 in 1968 and $32,487 in 1967. Cigarette taxes will bring in $3,300 in 1969, compared with $3,250 in the current year and $3,306 in 1967.

Inheritance tax is estimated at $20,000 in 1969, the same total shown for 1968. The source brought in $15,807 in 1967. The 1-mill firemen's levy is expected to produce $43,600 in 1969, compared with $43,671 in 1968 and $43,630 in 1967. Liquor permits, collected by the state and remitted to the city, will yield $29,000 in 1969. The source will bring in $29,214 this year and produced $40,440 in 1967.

Municipal Court revenue turned over to the city is expected to total $46,000 in 1969, the same total as in 1968. The total was $41,819 in 1967. Parking meter revenue is estimated at $65,000 for next year, the same as in 1968. It totaled $60,824 in 1967. The city income tax, although not included in general fund receipts, is estimated at $440,000 for 1969, compared with $462,439 in 1968. The source produced $402,670 in 1967, the budget shows.

Baker indicated two sites would be offered — one which he owns, a 534-acre tract four miles "from an intersection of the Beaver Valley Expressway." He did not pinpoint it nor the other location.

He said the complex, which would cost between $6 and $10 million, would include a track, restaurant, motel, and other accommodations.

Indonesian Reds Stir New Guerrilla Action

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Indonesian Communists have intensified guerrilla activities in Central and East Java, and about 800 were seized in two recent mop-up operations, the official news agency Antara said today.

Cleveland Stockyard To Cease Operations

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Union Stockyards Co. will hold its final cattle auction next Wednesday, then close its livestock operations July 13 after 87 years.

Jacob I. Rosenbaum, company president, said Friday it would be impractical to continue the operation on the 27-acre site at 3200 W. 65th St.

'Dear Uncle Ho'

Viet Defectors Write To Hanoi

SAIGON (AP) — "Dear Uncle Ho," life in South Vietnam is better than the suffering in the North, says a letter purportedly signed by 55 North Vietnamese defectors and currently being beamed over government propaganda broadcasts.

Addressed to Ho Chi Minh, the 78-year-old North Vietnamese president, the letter was said today to have been signed by 55 former soldiers of the Quyet Thang—Determined to Win—Regiment who volunteered for an infiltration assignment into the South last month.

It is being broadcast by the Voice of Freedom, a government radio station that beams propaganda exclusively to North Vietnam, and by Radio Saigon which reaches listeners in the South.

'Sincere Word' For Ho

Saying they wanted to address "some sincere words" to Ho, the defectors, according to the broadcast, wrote:

"With an absolutely zealous patriotism we responded to your appeal by energetically volunteering to go to South Vietnam, kill Americans and save our fatherland and our people from the domination of imperialism."

"We have remembered your advice well. That advice was that when arriving in South Vietnam, we would be heartily welcomed and supported by the people in South Vietnam and that the troops of the South Vietnamese government have been badly demoralized and that if we were captured by them we would be killed immediately."

"But oh, dear Uncle, your advice is contrary to the reality that meets us here. When our troops came to any place here the people abandoned their houses and properties, and then carried their children and evacuated. They ran from us. They also refused to furnish us with supplies and food."

Peter Monda

CANTON — Services will be held at 1 p.m. Monday in St. George's Romanian Orthodox Church for Peter Monda, 88, of 1432 E. Tuscarawas Ave.

He had been in failing health for a year and died at 6:45 p.m. Wednesday at home. He was the father of Cornell P. Monda, Lisbon school psychologist and psychologist at the East Liverpool Child Counseling Center.

Mr. Monda was born May 30, 1880, in Romania and came to the United States in 1901, locating first in Lisbon. He resided in Leetonia and Salem before moving to Canton more than 60 years ago. He worked in the machine department at the Timken Roller Bearing Co. for 25 years before retirement.

Mr. Monda was a member of St. George's church — his favorite charity, the family said.

His wife, Helen, whom he married July 4, 1903, died June 14, 1964. He leaves a daughter, Mrs. Michael (Helen) Miller of Mentor; three sons, Cornell, John Monda of Saranac, Mich., and Tarzan Monda of Canton; 11 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

The Rev. Constantin Tofan of St. George's will officiate. Burial will be in Forest Hill Cemetery. Saracusta services will be held at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in the Rossi Funeral Home, 30th St., N.W., where friends may call from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. Sunday.

Firm Sets Records

ORRVILLE, Ohio.—The J. M. Smucker Co. established new highs in both sales and profits for the year ended April 30. Sales were $45,071,129, compared with $41,980,384 for 1967. Net earnings were $2,807,578, compared with $2,762,578.

Crews Speed Garbage And Trash Pickup

Sanitation department crews were out in nearly full force today in an attempt to catch up on the backlog of garbage and trash which accumulated during the recent work stoppage.

Robert E. Vodrey, safety-service director, said three crews are working in the area from 2nd to 7th Sts. today — normally a non-work day. Four crews were called, but only personnel sufficient to operate three trucks, he added.

Vodrey estimated sanitation work will be back to normal by next Saturday.

ets nearly six months in advance.

In contrast to the $400,937 anticipated for next year, the city's actual expenses and balance in 1967 totaled $496,747, the budget shows. The city started 1967 with a balance of $60,368 carried over from 1966, but no balance is anticipated at the end of 1968, the budget shows.

Here's a breakdown on some of the major sources of revenue, comparing them with previous years:

General property tax is expected to yield $50,000 in 1969, compared with $48,038 in 1968 and $69,807 in 1967. Classified property tax income is estimated at $17,750 next year, the same as in 1968. The source yielded $19,479 in 1967.

Sales tax, collected by the state and returned to the city, will produce $40,000 in 1969, compared with $32,450 in 1968 and $32,487 in 1967. Cigarette taxes will bring in $3,300 in 1969, compared with $3,250 in the current year and $3,306 in 1967.

Inheritance tax is estimated at $20,000 in 1969, the same total shown for 1968. The source brought in $15,807 in 1967. The 1-mill firemen's levy is expected to produce $43,600 in 1969, compared with $43,671 in 1968 and $43,630 in 1967. Liquor permits, collected by the state and remitted to the city, will yield $29,000 in 1969. The source will bring in $29,214 this year and produced $40,440 in 1967.

Municipal Court revenue turned over to the city is expected to total $46,000 in 1969, the same total as in 1968. The total was $41,819 in 1967. Parking meter revenue is estimated at $65,000 for next year, the same as in 1968. It totaled $60,824 in 1967.

The city income tax, although not included in general fund receipts, is estimated at $440,000 for 1969, compared with $462,439 in 1968. The source produced $402,670 in 1967, the budget shows.

Baker indicated two sites would be offered — one which he owns, a 534-acre tract four miles "from an intersection of the Beaver Valley Expressway." He did not pinpoint it nor the other location.

He said the complex, which would cost between $6 and $10 million, would include a track, restaurant, motel, and other accommodations.

Indonesian Reds Stir New Guerrilla Action

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Indonesian Communists have intensified guerrilla activities in Central and East Java, and about 800 were seized in two recent mop-up operations, the official news agency Antara said today.

A military spokesman said captured documents showed several Chinese traders financed the guerrilla operations in the poor but heavily populated regions.

Cleveland Stockyard To Cease Operations

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Union Stockyards Co. will hold its final cattle auction next Wednesday, then close its livestock operations July 13 after 87 years.

Jacob I. Rosenbaum, company president, said Friday it would be impractical to continue the operation on the 27-acre site at 3200 W. 65th St.

'Dear Uncle Ho'

Vict Defectors Write To Hanoi

SAIGON (AP) — "Dear Uncle Ho," life in South Vietnam is better than the suffering in the North, says a letter purportedly signed by 55 North Vietnamese defectors and currently being beamed over government propaganda broadcasts.

Addressed to Ho Chi Minh, the 78-year-old North Vietnamese president, the letter was said today to have been signed by 55 former soldiers of the Quyet Thang—Determined to Win—Regiment who volunteered for an infiltration assignment into the South last month.

It is being broadcast by the Voice of Freedom, a government radio station that beams propaganda exclusively to North Vietnam, and by Radio Saigon which reaches listeners in the South.

'Sincere Word' For Ho

Saying they wanted to address "some sincere words" to Ho, the defectors, according to the broadcast, wrote:

"With an absolutely zealous patriotism we responded to your appeal by energetically volunteering to go to South Vietnam, but Americans and save our fatherland and our people from the domination of imperialism."

"We have remembered your advice well. That advice was that when arriving in South Vietnam, we would be heartily welcomed and supported by the people in South Vietnam and that the troops of the South Vietnamese government have been badly demoralized and that if we were captured by them we would be killed immediately."

"But oh, dear Uncle, your advice is contrary to the reality that meets us here. When our troops came to any place here the people abandoned their houses and properties, and then carried their children and evacuated. They ran from us. They also refused to furnish us with supplies and food."

TV Rights Cited

"The soldiers of the ARVN

(Army of the Republic of Vietnam) have a very high spirit of fighting and were also very kind. They defeated us, but even so gave us kind treatment with humanity. . . They cared for our wounds and gave us food and recreation and let us watch television, movies and exercise in sport, etc. . .

"Besides all this we would like to present to you the following: The GVN (government of South Vietnam), ARVN troops and South Vietnamese people have initiated a benevolent open arms policy, welcoming our comrades to rally because of the clemency of this policy."

"The standard of living in South Vietnam is very high. Here people are leading a happy, comfortable and easy life, full of animation. This is quite a difference from the suffering life of the people of North Vietnam."

"We earnestly ask you to think of and have mercy on the young generation and we ask you not to force them to make any sacrifice for you and the (Communist) party any more. At last, we would like to extend our warm concerns for you."

The letter did not say when or where the 55 North Vietnamese capitulated to government forces.

U.S. sources, who provided a copy of the letter, said it was written by one of the 55 defectors and the rest agreed this was what they wanted to say.

Bandit Takes $1,500

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Central Trust Bank branch in the Western Hills section was robbed of $1,500 in cash Friday night by a man who handed a teller a note, ordering her to hand over the money.

Police said the teller, Miss Patricia Schwab, 20, told them the man, in a customer line, handed her a note instructing her to give him $4,200.

"He that scatters thorns, let him not go barefoot."

Miss Minnie Peters

Miss Minnie H. Peters, 66, of 117 Grant St., Newell, was found dead at 8:30 a.m. at the home of her brother, Harold O. Peters of Newell, her lone survivor.

She was born July 18, 1901, in Jackson County, W. Va., a daughter of the late John Peters and Elizabeth Spear Peters. She had resided in Newell since 1915.

Miss Peters was a finisher at the former Ceramic Specilities Co. of East Liverpool for 15 years. She was a member of the Newell Church of the Nazarene and the Willing Workers Class of the church.

Services will be held Monday at 2 p.m. in the Martin Funeral Home, with the Rev. C. Harold Smith of the church officiating. Burial will follow in Locust Hill Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday afternoon and night.

Helen Rockenhauser

Services were held today for Mrs. Helen Rockenhauser, 51, formerly of 414 Sugar St., at the Dawson Funeral Home. Burial followed in Lake Park Cemetery, Youngstown.

Mrs. Rockenhauser died Thursday at 3:15 p.m. at City Hospital following an eight-week illness.

She was born at Wellsville Dec. 18, 1916, a daughter of the late Homer Peck and Carolyn Craig Peck. She has lived in East Liverpool the last five years.

Survivors include two daughters: Mrs. Hilda Barton of East Liverpool and Mrs. Rosetta Mizarro of Cleveland; a son, Edgar Rockenhauser of Wellsville, and three sisters, Mrs. Leora James of East Liverpool, Mrs. Cora Mae Smith of Wellsville and Mrs. Mary Jane Rice of Cleveland.

Harold H. Hall

Harold H. Hall, 60, of Palmetto, Fla., a former city resident, died at 8 a.m. Friday in the Grovemont Extended Care Center at Bradenton, Fla., following a long illness.

Mr. Hall was born in East Liverpool Dec. 15, 1898, a son of the late Robert T. Hall and Rosa Robb Hall. He had resided at Florida the last 10 years, living previously in Steubenville, where he was an insurance agent.

He was a member of the Palmetto Presbyterian Church and served as an elder.

Mr. Hall is survived by his widow, Mrs. Margaret Golden Hall, at home.

The body will be returned to East Liverpool Sunday and services will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the Chapel at River-view Cemetery. Burial will follow there.

Friends may call at the Dawson Funeral Home Monday.

Clemente Vigliotti

Clemente (Viotti) Vigliotti, 83, of 891 Virginia Ave., Midland, died Friday morning at Beaver County Hospital following a lengthy illness.

Born in Italy, he formerly resided in Swissvale, Pa.

Mr. Vigliotti is survived by two sons, William C. Viotti and Clemente J. Viotti of Swissvale; five daughters, Mrs. Antonette Masters and Mrs. Angeline Martinetti of Midland, Mrs. Ann Cimino and Mrs. Lydia Camillo of Swissvale; 15 grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren.

Requiem Mass will be held Monday at 9 a.m. in Madonna Del Castello church of Swissvale. Burial will follow there.

Friends may call at the Perrone Funeral Home at 7455 Church St., Swissvale, after 2 p.m. today.

Egypt Does A Turnabout

They are calling it a "surprise turnabout" — Egypt's unexpected offer to accept a United Nations peace-keeping force on her soil against as part of an Arab-Israeli settlement.

Some diplomatic observers see it as a hopeful sign for peace in the turbulent Middle East.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad, speaking in Copenhagen, Denmark, is reported to have said: "We recognize realities and Israel is one of them. Now we want peace."

AT LEAST PART of his statement is believable, Israel certainly is a reality. But whether or not Egypt wants peace remains to be seen. It has not been long (April 29) since Egypt's President Abdul Nasser asserted that another war with Israel was inevitable.

At that time he said that Egypt might have to fight alone as the other Arab states were "not yet" able to integrate their military plans.

Why, in less than three months, has there been such a change in the pronouncements of Egypt? There seems to be nothing in the news to indicate cause for such a change.

Until a realistic explanation for the switch in position is given, the announcement must remain suspect.

Apparently that is the way Israel looks at it also. Political circles there look on the offer with skepticism, declaring, "We have heard this kind of declaration many times in the past." As long as the Arabs stick to the formula of no direct negotiations, there will be no peace.

Still there is some room for hope that the restoration of a U.N. force in Egypt might lead to the establishment of a more peaceful atmosphere. The expulsion of just such a force by Egypt last June is considered one of the major factors which led to the six-day war between Israel and the Arab nations.

There have been energetic efforts recently on the part of British, American and Russian diplomats to strengthen the conciliation mission of Gunnar Jarring, special U.N. envoy to the Middle East.

A NUMBER OF top-level American diplomats have been or soon will be in the Middle East lending credence to reports that Russia and the United States may be able to impose a settlement between the Arab nations and Israel if the U.N. mission fails.

If Egypt sees this as a reality, it could explain her turnabout as a gradual abandonment of her hard-nosed position of three months ago, in preparation for being forced to accept a settlement imposed by the two superpowers.

The Indomitable Spirit

Another blow has been struck in behalf of those people considerably over the age of 30.

It was delivered by 59-year-old English merchant, Alex Rose, who has just completed a 354-day around-the-world voyage in a yawl.

It was a low-budget, solo voyage made in a yawl the Englishman pulled from a muddy grave at Yarmouth in 1963.

After being rigged and outfitted with a redesigned interior, the abandoned cutter bulk became the "Lively Lady," a 36.5-foot yawl.

It was just a year ago last May 28 that Sir Francis Chichester, a 65-year-old English yachtsman, put into Plymouth Harbor and finished a 226-day solo circumnavigation of the world. His voyage was made in the 53-foot ketch, "Gipsy Moth IV."

No one has been able to define what it is that drives a man to conquer the sea or conquer a mountain top or meet headon challenges in unexplored regions.

The indomitable, unexplainable spirit that has prodded men into unknown areas of the world and uncharted mental realms has led some to disaster and others to far-reaching discovery.

New discoveries are recorded every day by men pushed along by their will to accomplish something. The discoveries are not always significant, but often they are momentous.

Age certainly is no barrier to achievement. Progress consists of contributions made by young men and old men and others in between.

The business of young people not trusting anyone over 30 and people over 30 looking down upon youth is just so much malarkey.

The sooner the idea of mutual contribution sinks into the minds of those on both sides of the over-and-under-30 line, the quicker results will begin to show from the effort to make some needed changes in the world we call home.

Letter From Max

By Martin Miller

One summer quite a few years ago when jobs were scarce Aunt Flossie very considerably said, "Why don't you come and work for us this summer while school is out."

The work consisted of driving a car, washing it, mowing the lawn, hoeing the shrubs, sweeping spider webs off the eaves, washing windows, beating carpets and anything else a handy teen-ager could do around a house.

Aunt Flossie and Uncle Fred had rented a house on a lake in Michigan for the summer and, as it turned out, the fishing proved to be a big bonus in the summer job.

UNCLE FRED was a retired superintendent of motive power of a large western railroad and a bear for work. That is all he had ever done all his life, just work. This at times made for a strain between him and a teen-ager who was just learning how to work. But as a veteran executive he managed to tolerate the inexperienced teen-ager.

For one thing, he didn't know anything about automobiles because his life had been spent with steam locomotives. He had come up through the railroad shops the hard way, master mechanic and all the rest of it. He even had some inventions to his credit.

It flattered my ego when the car had a flat tire on a dirt road deep in the Michigan woods and he acted quite helpless. But we managed to get the spare put on in place of the flat in about 15 minutes. His compliment was music to the ears. Uncle Fred could be a hard task master but he could be fair, too.

Then, there was the fishing. Unless there was something pressing to be done, he never objected to my going fishing in the rowboat that went with the house. In retrospect it seems that I fished several hours daily, but this is probably an exaggeration.

The catch usually was anywhere from 10 to 25 bluegills and sunfish with an occasional bass or pickerel as a special treat. He never went fishing with me. He had never had time for any sports or recreation in his life and it was too late for him to start.

The kitchen ware went with the house and the frying pans and pots were chaked on the bottoms with a layer of rust and grease. The old super-mechanic could not stand for this so there was only one thing to do. He collared me and the two of us sat in the backyard scraping the crust off those pans until we were down to the bare metal. It just wasn't thrifty to have untidy utensils.

That was some picture. The august superintendent of motive power worrying the grime off a frying pan.

THE DIRT ROADS up there in the back country had a lot of right-angle turns and he at first criticized me for wearing out the brake slowing up for the turns.

"Just take your foot off the gas and let the engine slow up the car," he said. "No sense in burning out the brakes."

He didn't know anything about driving a car. But I compromised by reducing speed and not using the brake any more than was absolutely necessary.

Then one day I was otherwise occupied and he undertook to drive Aunt Flossie to shop in the village. He failed to make one of those right-angle turns on a dirt road and Aunt Flossie was shaken up. The car didn't upset or hit anything but they were both badly scared.

The next day or so he said to me, "You were right about using the brakes to slow up for those curves."

Uncle Fred's whole life had been spent learning the hard way. But he could be fair and admit a mistake.

Faithfully yours,
MAX

The 'Fourth'

There was a time when the Fourth of July meant a great deal more to the American people than it does now.

There used to be many parades and demonstrations of patriotism. There was always throughout the world a keen interest in the celebration of the American revolution.

Today the lack of emphasis on the origin of the holiday is scarcely noticed. Most Americans take this country's independence for granted because they think it isn't being threatened.

They are not apprehensive that a foreign power might gain control — even though more than a billion people have been taken over by Communist imperialism. Such a contingency for this country is considered remote, if not fanciful.

YET THE STEADY procession of nations which have fallen under the yoke of the Kremlin is not fanciful. It is real. The military potential, moreover, of a bloc of countries is being manipulated in a threat to the safety of the United States.

Americans not only don't bother to take note of the historic meaning of the Fourth of July, but they seem little interested in encouraging revolution, for instance, within the enslaved colonies of the Soviet Union. Too many Americans nowadays are accepting the defeatist philosophy of the "status quo"—letting things stay as they are.

There indeed is a crass indifference to the fate of the captive peoples of Czechoslovakia, Poland, Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, East Germany and Cuba.

Even the war to preserve the independence of South Vietnam, which is supported by a substantial part of the armed services of the United States, is being criticized by many Americans, and there are plenty of street demonstrations in which posters are displayed, declaring that Vietnam is "none of America's business."

The Fourth of July should be an occasion for nationwide demonstrations of devotion to the principle of liberation by revolution and worldwide emphasis on America's example — what our colonists here once did to emancipate themselves from tyranny.

A golden opportunity is missed by failing to dramatize and publicize everywhere the immortal principles proclaimed 192 years ago by the founding fathers.

Condensed into simple language, the Declaration of Independence could be applied to the situations existing among the oppressed peoples on every continent in the world. The rules of international and national conduct contained in the declaration are in every sense pertinent today.

If these were taken to heart by the peoples of those countries now living under dictatorships, the whole world might rid itself of the perennial fear of autocratic governments which threaten the peace.

The tendency, however, is to give less thought to the plight of other peoples and more attention to the pleasures of the day. The Fourth of July has become a holiday primarily for recreation.

The national significance of the day is, to be sure, noted here and there by patriotic organizations, but even the television and radio networks usually do not schedule programs devoting special attention to Independence Day.

There is need also for pointed reflection on the concept of evolution as well as revolution. For inside the United States the central government has been moving toward a form of duress not conceived of by the founding fathers. The 13 colonies considered themselves sovereign and equal.

They delegated certain powers to a national government, but they never thought the contract they signed would be construed as meaning that they were to give up any other powers without their consent. Government, they were assured, would always rest upon the consent of the governed.

YET THE TENDENCY has been to erode gradually the rights of the states and to permit a central authority—without amendment of the Constitution in the way prescribed in that document itself—to deprive the people of the rights they have always thought were to be exercised by the states.

A public reading of the Declaration of Independence and of the Constitution might well be featured everywhere throughout the country as a part of the celebration of Independence Day.

This could remind many people of the rights lost by the states through usurpation of power. It might even draw attention to the growth of the cult of expediency which today permits nine justices, never elected by the people, to rewrite the Constitution at will.

Urban Development Needed

Everybody talks about the "urban crisis." Just what is it? Just what is happening to the nation's big cities? Have they become unmanageable? Must they burn? Must there be demonstrations so furious that big city fathers rarely sleep these nights?

I asked John Lindsay, mayor of the land's most behemoth "town," if the megalopolises of this nation are manageable any longer.

He should know best. As a congressman and as Gotham's mayor he knows the worst of two worlds. Where will the money come from as millions continue to pour in on the concrete jungles? Here is what he wrote for this column:

By JOHN LINDSAY
Mayor of the City of New York

NEW YORK — One of the first lessons I learned as Mayor of New York — a lesson I reconfirmed as Vice Chairman of the President's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders — is that no amount of public agonizing over the conditions in our inner cities can substitute for the money needed to rebuild the lives and restore the hopes of millions of forgotten families.

Unfortunately for all of us, the fiscal capabilities of our cities are inadequate to the tasks they must perform today; a paradox of contemporary metropolitan government is that where the needs are greatest, the resources are scarce and already overcommitted.

The migration of millions of the rural dispossessed to the cities in this century, and the subsequent emigration of large numbers of the urban middle class and the businesses that employed them to the suburbs, deprived urban America of much of its revenue potential.

CONSEQUENTLY, cities became places with huge concentrations of revenue-receiving, rather than revenue-producing citizens, while simultaneously most of the revenues raised in the city were drained into federal and state coffers.

Before this rapid urbanization occurred, the historic pattern was for the great wealth of the cities to be brought to bear upon the problems of education and development in the less affluent hinterlands of America.

Urban populations contributed generously to the resources that brought farm-to-market highways to out-state farmers and urban educational standards, particularly through central school systems, to the schools of the countryside.

Now the urban crisis requires that more of our urban resources be channeled back into the cities to alleviate the decay, destitution, and despair that confront them.

Despite the fact that our metropolitan areas account for nearly 75 per cent of the nation's population, 70 per cent of its taxable assessed valuation, and 75 per cent of federal personal income tax collections, neither the federal nor state governments seem willing to recognize the financial plight of the cities, or pay heed to the recommendation of the presidential riot commission "to provide a fuller measure of financial and other resources to urban areas."

This Congress almost dismantled the Office of Economic Opportunity, which runs the Anti-Poverty Program. This means cutbacks in Headstart school programs, community action programs, neighborhood youth programs, and job-training programs in many of our urban areas when the times call for increases, not cutbacks.

The appropriation Congress approved for the Model Cities program was half of what the administration had asked, and the recommended financing of the Rent Supplement program, designed to help moderate-income families find housing outside the ghetto, was cut by 75 per cent.

The amendments to the Social Security Act severely and harshly reduced benefits to the ill under Medicaid, and to welfare families receiving aid to dependent children.

The only truly new program this Congress enacted for the residents of the tempestuous city slums was the Rat Control Bill, and it almost was ridiculed to death in the House of Representatives. Only an outraged public reaction brought it back to life.

The record of state legislatures, often rural-dominated, is just as disheartening and disabling.

IN THIS STATE, for example, just six weeks after the presidential riot commission recommended accelerated action in the fields of employment, housing, education and welfare, the New York Legislature pared $60 million from state assistance for New York City — hitting hardest at social services, education, housing and community development, and health and mental health programs.

Although half the known narcotics addicts in the United States live in New York City, the legislature cut back by 80 per cent the appropriation for the joint city-state Addict Rehabilitation Program.

The legislature effected such drastic reductions in the Medicaid program — going even beyond federal slashes — that it endangered $252 million in federal support for the program if the reductions had not been belatedly modified.

The only truly new urban-assistance program the legislature enacted was a bulldozer bill that established a superagency with the power to clear and redevelop land, largely at local expense and without the invitation or approval of local governments.

OUR CITIES AND LOCAL governments need a new system of financing that will meet more of their needs through the broader, more flexible revenue systems of the state and federal governments. The fiscal distress of the cities demands that a larger share of the taxes collected by the federal and state governments in the cities be returned to the cities through the adoption of revenue-sharing formulas.

The Urbanaid proposal I have been urging the New York State Legislature to adopt is representative of what revenue-sharing can accomplish.

It would more equitably distribute among the local communities of this state a portion of the revenues from the state personal income tax, according to a growth formula based on local effort that would have provided an automatic increase in assistance to localities of 691 per cent between 1948 and 1965, instead of the bare 16 per cent increase communities did realize under a static system of distribution based on population.

In addition, Urbanaid would operate as a block grant to each community, reserving to local governments the right to determine where the need is greatest and the expenditure will do the most good.

The financial distress of our cities demands that the nation reorder its priorities, and defer to a less troubled time the beautification of highways and the development of airplanes that can carry 400 passengers.

The urban crisis has brought us to the crossroads of federalism: The decision is whether the American city will be restored as a vital and viable unit of government, or whether it will descend to the status of an impoverished colony governed by distant and unresponsive authority.

Egypt Does A Turnabout

They are calling it a "surprise turnabout" — Egypt's unexpected offer to accept a United Nations peace-keeping force on her soil against as part of an Arab-Israeli settlement.

Some diplomatic observers see it as a hopeful sign for peace in the turbulent Middle East.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad, speaking in Copenhagen, Denmark, is reported to have said: "We recognize realities and Israel is one of them. Now we want peace."

AT LEAST PART of his statement is believable. Israel certainly is a reality. But whether or not Egypt wants peace remains to be seen. It has not been long (April 29) since Egypt's President Abdul Nasser asserted that another war with Israel was inevitable.

At that time he said that Egypt might have to fight alone as the other Arab states were "not yet" able to integrate their military plans.

Why, in less than three months, has there been such a change in the pronouncements of Egypt? There seems to be nothing in the news to indicate cause for such a change.

Until a realistic explanation for the switch in position is given, the announcement must remain suspect.

Apparently that is the way Israel looks at it also. Political circles there look on the offer with skepticism, declaring, "We have heard this kind of declaration many times in the past." As long as the Arabs stick to the formula of no direct negotiations, there will be no peace.

Still there is some room for hope that the restoration of a U.N. force in Egypt might lead to the establishment of a more peaceful atmosphere. The expulsion of just such a force by Egypt last June is considered one of the major factors which led to the six-day war between Israel and the Arab nations.

There have been energetic efforts recently on the part of British, American and Russian diplomats to strengthen the conciliation mission of Gunnar Jarring, special U.N. envoy to the Middle East.

A NUMBER OF top-level American diplomats have been or soon will be in the Middle East lending credence to reports that Russia and the United States may be able to impose a settlement between the Arab nations and Israel if the U.N. mission fails.

If Egypt sees this as a reality, it could explain her turnabout as a gradual abandonment of her hard-nosed position of three months ago, in preparation for being forced to accept a settlement imposed by the two superpowers.

The Indomitable Spirit

Another blow has been struck in behalf of those people considerably over the age of 30.

It was delivered by 59-year-old English merchant, Alex Rose, who has just completed a 354-day around-the-world voyage in a yawl.

It was a low-budget, solo voyage made in a yawl the Englishman pulled from a muddy grave at Yarmouth in 1963.

After being rerigged and outfitted with a redesigned interior, the abandoned cutter hulk became the "Lively Lady," a 36.5-foot yawl.

It was just a year ago last May 28 that Sir Francis Chichester, a 65-year-old English yachtsman, put into Plymouth Harbor and finished a 226-day solo circumnavigation of the world. His voyage was made in the 53-foot ketch, "Gipsy Moth IV."

No one has been able to define what it is that drives a man to conquer the sea or conquer a mountain top or meet headon challenges in unexplored regions.

The indomitable, unexplainable spirit that has prodded men into unknown areas of the world and uncharted mental realms has led some to disaster and others to far-reaching discovery.

New discoveries are recorded every day by men pushed along by their will to accomplish something. The discoveries are not always significant, but often they are momentous.

Age certainly is no barrier to achievement. Progress consists of contributions made by young men and old men and others in between.

The business of young people not trusting anyone over 30 and people over 30 looking down upon youth is just so much malarkey.

The sooner the idea of mutual contribution sinks into the minds of those on both sides of the over-and-under-30 line, the quicker results will begin to show from the effort to make some needed changes in the world we call home.

Letter From Max

By Martin Miller

One summer quite a few years ago when jobs were scarce Aunt Flossie very considerably said, "Why don't you come and work for us this summer while school is out."

The work consisted of driving a car, washing it, mowing the lawn, hoeing the shrubs, sweeping spider webs off the eaves, washing windows, beating carpets and anything else a handy teen-ager could do around a house.

Aunt Flossie and Uncle Fred had rented a house on a lake in Michigan for the summer and, as it turned out, the fishing proved to be a big bonus in the summer job.

UNCLE FRED was a retired superintendent of motive power of a large western railroad and a bear for work. That is all he had ever done all his life, just work. This at times made for a strain between him and a teen-ager who was just learning how to work. But as a veteran executive he managed to tolerate the inexperienced teen-ager.

For one thing, he didn't know anything about automobiles because his life had been spent with steam locomotives. He had come up through the railroad shops the hard way, master mechanic and all the rest of it. He even had some inventions to his credit.

It flattered my ego when the car had a flat tire on a dirt road deep in the Michigan woods and he acted quite helpless. But we managed to get the spare put on in place of the flat in about 15 minutes. His compliment was music to the ears. Uncle Fred could be a hard task master but he could be fair, too.

Then, there was the fishing. Unless there was something pressing to be done, he never objected to my going fishing in the rowboat that went with the house. In retrospect it seems that I fished several hours daily, but this is probably an exaggeration.

The catch usually was anywhere from 10 to 25 bluegills and sunfish with an occasional bass or pickerel as a special treat. He never went fishing with me. He had never had time for any sports or recreation in his life and it was too late for him to start.

The kitchen ware went with the house and the frying pans and pots were chucked on the bottoms with a layer of rust and grease. The old super-mechanic could not stand for this so there was only one thing to do. He collared me and the two of us sat in the backyard scraping the crust off those pans until we were down to the bare metal. It just wasn't thrifty to have untidy utensils.

That was some picture. The august superintendent of motive power worrying the grime off a frying pan.

THE DIRT ROADS up there in the back country had a lot of right-angle turns and he at first criticized me for wearing out the brake slowing up for the turns.

"Just take your foot off the gas and let the engine slow up the car," he said. "No sense in burning out the brakes."

He didn't know anything about driving a car. But I compromised by reducing speed and not using the brake any more than was absolutely necessary.

Then one day I was otherwise occupied and he undertook to drive Aunt Flossie to shop in the village. He failed to make one of those right-angle turns on a dirt road and Aunt Flossie was shaken up. The car didn't upset or hit anything but they were both badly scared.

The next day or so he said to me, "You were right about using the brakes to slow up for those curves."

Uncle Fred's whole life had been spent learning the hard way. But he could be fair and admit a mistake.

Faithfully yours,
MAX

Urban Development Needed

Everybody talks about the "urban crisis." Just what is it? Just what is happening to the nation's big cities? Have they become unmanageable? Must they burn? Must there be demonstrations so furious that big city fathers rarely sleep these nights?

I asked John Lindsay, mayor of the land's most behemoth "town," if the megalopolises of this nation are manageable any longer.

He should know best. As a congressman and as Gotham's mayor he knows the worst of two worlds. Where will the money come from as millions continue to pour in on the concrete jungles? Here is what he wrote for this column:

By JOHN LINDSAY
Mayor of the City of New York

NEW YORK — One of the first lessons I learned as Mayor of New York — a lesson I reconfirmed as Vice Chairman of the President's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders — is that no amount of public agonizing over the conditions in our inner cities can substitute for the money needed to rebuild the lives and restore the hopes of millions of forgotten families.

Unfortunately for all of us, the fiscal capabilities of our cities are inadequate to the tasks they must perform today; a paradox of contemporary metropolitan government is that where the needs are greatest, the resources are scarcest and already overcommitted.

The migration of millions of the rural displaced to the cities in this century, and the subsequent emigration of large numbers of the urban middle class and the businesses that employed them to the suburbs, deprived urban America of much of its revenue potential.

CONSEQUENTLY, cities became places with huge concentrations of revenue-receiving, rather than revenue-producing citizens, while simultaneously most of the revenues raised in the city were drained into federal and state coffers.

Before this rapid urbanization occurred, the historic pattern was for the great wealth of the cities to be brought to bear upon the problems of education and development in the less affluent hinterlands of America.

Urban populations contributed generously to the resources that brought farm-to-market highways to out-state farmers and urban educational standards, particularly through central school systems, to the schools of the countryside.

Now the urban crisis requires that more of our urban resources be channeled back into the cities to alleviate the decay, destitution, and despair that confront them.

Despite the fact that our metropolitan areas account for nearly 75 per cent of the nation's population, 70 per cent of its taxable assessed valuation, and 75 per cent of federal personal income tax collections, neither the federal nor state governments seem willing to recognize the financial plight of the cities, or pay heed to the recommendation of the presidential riot commission "to provide a fuller measure of financial and other resources to urban areas."

This Congress almost dismantled the Office of Economic Opportunity, which runs the Anti-Poverty Program. This means cutbacks in Headstart school programs, community action programs, neighborhood youth programs, and job-training programs in many of our urban areas when the times call for increases, not cutbacks.

The appropriation Congress approved for the Model Cities program was half of what the administration had asked, and the recommended financing of the Rent Supplement program, designed to help moderate-income families find housing outside the ghetto, was cut by 75 per cent.

The amendments to the Social Security Act severely and harshly reduced benefits to the ill under Medicaid, and to welfare families receiving aid to dependent children.

The only truly new program this Congress enacted for the residents of the tempestuous city slums was the Rent Control Bill, and it almost was ridiculed to death in the House of Representatives. Only an outraged public reaction brought it back to life.

The record of state legislatures, often rural-dominated, is just as disheartening and disabling.

IN THIS STATE, for example, just six weeks after the presidential riot commission recommended accelerated action in the fields of employment, housing, education and welfare, the New York Legislature pared $60 million from state assistance for New York City — hitting hardest at social services, education, housing and community development, and health and mental health programs.

Although half the known narcotics addicts in the United States live in New York City, the legislature cut back by 80 per cent the appropriation for the joint city-state Addict Rehabilitation Program.

The legislature effected such drastic reductions in the Medicaid program — going even beyond federal slashes — that it endangered $252 million in federal support for the program if the reductions had not been belatedly modified.

The only truly new urban-assistance program the legislature enacted was a bulldozer bill that established a superagency with the power to clear and redevelop land, largely at local expense and without the invitation or approval of local governments.

OUR CITIES AND LOCAL governments need a new system of financing that will meet more of their needs through the broader, more flexible revenue systems of the state and federal governments. The fiscal distress of the cities demands that a larger share of the taxes collected by the federal and state governments in the cities be returned to the cities through the adoption of revenue-sharing formulas.

The Urbanaid proposal I have been urging the New York State Legislature to adopt is representative of what revenue-sharing can accomplish.

It would more equitably distribute among the local communities of this state a portion of the revenues from the state personal income tax, according to a growth formula based on local effort that would have provided an automatic increase in assistance to localities of 691 per cent between 1948 and 1965. Instead of the bare 16 per cent increase communities did realize under a static system of distribution based on population.

In addition, Urbanaid would operate as a block grant to each community, reserving to local governments the right to determine where the need is greatest and the expenditure will do the most good.

The financial distress of our cities demands that the nation reorder its priorities, and defer to a less troubled time the beautification of highways and the development of airplanes that can carry 400 passengers.

The urban crisis has brought us to the crossroads of federalism: The decision is whether the American city will be restored as a vital and viable unit of government, or whether it will descend to the status of an impoverished colony governed by distant and unresponsive authority.

DAVID LAWRENCE

The 'Fourth'

There was a time when the Fourth of July meant a great deal more to the American people than it does now.

There used to be many parades and demonstrations of patriotism. There was always throughout the world a keen interest in the celebration of the American revolution.

Today the lack of emphasis on the origin of the holiday is scarcely noticed. Most Americans take this country's independence for granted because they think it isn't being threatened.

They are not apprehensive that a foreign power might gain control — even though more than a billion people have been taken over by Communist imperialism. Such a contingency for this country is considered remote, if not fanciful.

YET THE STEADY procession of nations which have fallen under the yoke of the Kremlin is not fanciful. It is real. The military potential, moreover, of a bloc of countries is being manipulated in a threat to the safety of the United States.

Americans not only don't bother to take note of the historic meaning of the Fourth of July, but they seem little interested in encouraging revolution, for instance, within the enslaved colonies of the Soviet Union. Too many Americans nowadays are accepting the defeatist philosophy of the "status quo"—letting things stay as they are.

There indeed is a crass indifference to the fate of the captive peoples of Czechoslovakia, Poland, Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, East Germany and Cuba.

Even the war to preserve the independence of South Vietnam, which is supported by a substantial part of the armed services of the United States, is being criticized by many Americans, and there are plenty of street demonstrations in which posters are displayed, declaring that Vietnam is "none of America's business."

The Fourth of July should be an occasion for nationwide demonstrations of devotion to the principle of liberation by revolution and worldwide emphasis on America's example — what our colonists here once did to emancipate themselves from tyranny.

A golden opportunity is missed by failing to dramatize and publicize everywhere the immortal principles proclaimed 192 years ago by the founding fathers.

Condensed into simple language, the Declaration of Independence could be applied to the situations existing among the oppressed peoples on every continent in the world. The rules of international and national conduct contained in the declaration are in every sense pertinent today.

If these were taken to heart by the peoples of those countries now living under dictatorships, the whole world might rid itself of the perennial fear of autocratic governments which threaten the peace.

The tendency, however, is to give less thought to the plight of other peoples and more attention to the pleasures of the day. The Fourth of July has become a holiday primarily for recreation.

The national significance of the day is, to be sure, noted here and there by patriotic organizations, but even the television and radio networks usually do not schedule programs devoting special attention to Independence Day.

There is need also for pointed reflection on the concept of evolution as well as revolution. For inside the United States the central government has been moving toward a form of duress not conceived of by the founding fathers. The 13 colonies considered themselves sovereign and equal.

They delegated certain powers to a national government, but they never thought the contract they signed would be construed as meaning that they were to give up any other powers without their consent. Government, they were assured, would always rest upon the consent of the governed.

YET THE TENDENCY has been to erode gradually the rights of the states and to permit a central authority—without amendment of the Constitution in the way prescribed in that document itself—to deprive the people of the rights they have always thought were to be exercised by the states.

A public reading of the Declaration of Independence and of the Constitution might well be featured everywhere throughout the country as a part of the celebration of Independence Day.

This could remind many people of the rights lost by the states through usurpation of power. It might even draw attention to the growth of the cult of expediency which today permits nine justices, never elected by the people, to rewrite the Constitution at will.

completed the market framework and "have moved beyond the purely economic aspects of integration to produce important social advances."

Leadership Need Cited
He pointed to U.S. contributions to the area's self-help effort but said "it must always be so" that the Central Americans themselves provide leadership and determination.

Declaring that the goal, as much as anything is a state of mind, he asserted:

"If we all believe societies can and must change, they will. If we all believe that men can and must cooperate with each other to insure peace and progress, they will."

"If we all believe that poverty and misery, disease and injustice, can and must be eliminated, they will."

"I come to San Salvador knowing this. But I come to learn how we can hasten the day of progress."

Johnson's trip, his first out of the United States since his worldwide tour last December, followed a heavily latin-flavored July 4th weekend divided between work and relaxation at his ranch and a visit to HemisFair, the world exposition at San Antonio.

Much of the work of the common market meeting, in progress since Tuesday, was already accomplished. Foreign ministers and finance ministers labored through the region's humid rainy season to prepare a conference-ending declaration and other documents for signature by the presidents.

Generally regarded as a success, the regional common market represents a move toward economic integration and self-sufficiency that Johnson would like to see duplicated throughout Latin America, in Africa and Asia. In fact, the major purpose of his trip seemed to be to help dramatize his dedication to such goals.

Return Indefinite

There was no firm word on when Johnson would return to Washington, although the White House said the current plan was to fly back immediately following the airport stop in Guatemala.

That would mean a portal-to-portal July 4th holiday weekend journey of 5,900 miles. However, there were some rumors, totally unconfirmed, that the chief executive might extend his tour.

Mrs. Johnson and daughter Luci Johnson Nugent were accompanying him.

Johnson spent much of Friday doing homework for his tour. He also took time out for an informal luncheon meeting at the LBJ Ranch, 75 miles north of San Antonio, with President Rene Barrientos of Bolivia. The South American president was in Texas for observance of Bolivian National Day at San Antonio's HemisFair world exhibition.

The Johnsons will attend Roman Catholic Church services in San Salvador Sunday, appear

Johnson's last trip south of the border was a brief visit to the Mexican border town of Ciudad Juarez, sister city of El Paso, Tex., last fall. John F. Kennedy was the last presidential visitor to Central America, meeting with the presidents of the five nations plus Panama in Costa Rica early in 1963.

Johnson's last trip out of the country was his worldwide tour in December which took him to Australia, Vietnam and Rome.

Sirhan Kin Says Citizenship May Be Denied Him

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The American Civil Liberties Union says it is investigating a claim by Saidallah Sirhan, brother of the man charged with murdering Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, that his U.S. citizenship is being withheld.

Sirhan, 36, said he was scheduled to report to the Los Angeles Naturalization Board to be sworn in June 7. However, after the June 5 assassination, he said he was told not to appear.

U.S. immigration officials said an investigation was pending, but they declined to elaborate.

In jail awaiting trial is Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, 24, charged with the fatal shooting of Kennedy in Los Angeles.

"The denial of citizenship solely because a member of one's family is charged with an offense, is patently the clearest violation of elementary rights," the ACLU's chief defense attorney for Southern California said Friday.

Sirhan's family came to the United States from Jerusalem in 1957.

Meeting Planned In Chicago Strike

CHICAGO (AP) — Striking bus drivers agreed to meet today with Mayor Richard J. Daley, top officials of their union and the Chicago Transit Authority in efforts to end a dispute which has idled half the city's buses.

The agreement Friday night was the first sign of a possible break in the wildcat walkout which began Tuesday morning on the South and West sides and spread to other sections of the city as well. Previous efforts to get all parties to the dispute together had failed.

"I can assure you that we will be there to meet with those people," said a spokesman for the striking union dissidents who call themselves the Concerned Transit Workers.

A few hours earlier the strikers and union representatives had failed to appear at a similar meeting which Daley had called in his City Hall office Friday afternoon. Daley returned from a brief trip to Florida just before calling the meeting.

Inger Marie Walderhaug, Robert C. Lloyd Jr. Wed

The traditions were observed when Miss Inger Marie Walderhaug, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Olav Walderhaug of 832 Bradshaw Ave., became the bride of Robert C. Lloyd Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Lloyd of 1714 Chester Ave., Wellsville, June 22 at 6:30 p. m. in St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church.

The Rev. John R. Skelbred officiated for the double-ring ceremony before an altar banked with yellow and white flowers, palms and candelabra. Mrs. William Riedel Jr. was organist and Mrs. Eileen Brown soloist. Richard Price served as acolyte.

THE BRIDE was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She wore a full-length gown of peau de soie fashioned with a rosepoint lace bodice which featured a scooped neckline and scalloped-edged, long sleeves. The sheath skirt was designed with a detachable chapel train.

Her elbow-length veil of silk illusion was attached to a lace headpiece adorned with pearls and sequins. She carried a cascade of stephanotis, baby breath and tropical green centered with two white orchids.

Miss Marlene Laughlin was maid of honor. Miss Peggy Lloyd, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Marilee Mason and Miss Mary Ellen Bellay were bridesmaids. They appeared in full-length sheath gowns of Nile green crepe fashioned with cotton lace bodices and elbow-length sleeves.

Their headpieces were formed of daisy circlets entwined with yellow tulle. They carried cascade arrangements of white daisies tied with yellow velvet streamers.

Kerry Steffen, cousin of the bridegroom, was flower girl. She wore a gown styled identical to that of the attendants. She carried a cluster of daisies tied with yellow velvet streamers which were accented with daisies.

Mike Chenuault served as best man. Ushers were Jack Sayre, Ed Boehm and Fred Wilson.

The mother of the bride chose a pink lace dress with white accessories and the bridegroom's mother a turquoise knit dress with matching accessories. Corsage of roses complemented their attire.

A RECEPTION for 250 followed at the Calcutta Fire Hall.

where Mrs. Elaine Drane registered guests. The buffet table was centered with a four-tier cake, encircled at the base with daisies and greenery and topped with love birds. The bride's table was covered with wedding bells and crystal candelabra.

Aides were Mrs. Jane Garver, Mrs. Marjorie Milne, Mrs. Nancy Hall, Mrs. Marilyn Rinestone and Mrs. Pauline Drane.

For her honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls and Canada, the bride was attired in a brown and white dress with white accessories. She wore her bridal orchids.

The bride was graduated in 1964 from East Liverpool High School and attended the Western Pennsylvania School of Nurses Training for one year. She was graduated from Ohio Valley Business College as an executive secretary. She is employed as a medical secretary for Dr. Melbourne Burnett and is attending the Kent State Academic Center here.

The bridegroom, a 1963 graduate of Wellsville High School, attended the Pittsburgh School of Electronics. He is employed with the Pennsylvania Central Railroad as a trainman. He is a member of the Army reserves.

The newlyweds are residing in a newly-furnished apartment on Bradshaw Ave.

The bridegroom's parents entertained for the rehearsal dinner party.

Linda Gaye Welch Weds In Ceremonies At Church

Miss Linda Gaye Welch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Welch of Park Pl., LaCrosse, became the bride of Gene R. Karcher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Karcher, also of Park Pl., June 22 at 6 p. m. in the LaCrosse Church of the Nazarene.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Mautz, chaplain at City Hospital. Mrs. Chlores Densmore played a quarter-hour recital of organ music.

GIVEN in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a full-length white nylon lace gown fashioned in A-line styling with a sleeveless bodice. Her elbow-length veil of silk illusion was attached to a seed pearl crown. She carried a bouquet of white carnations centered with a white orchid.

Miss Nancy Karcher, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. She wore a full-length gown of lavender chiffon with matching headpiece. Miss Janice Welch, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and appeared in a turquoise nylon lace gown with matching headpiece. Both wore crystal necklaces, gifts of the bride, and carried arrangements of yellow carnations.

James Shenton served as best man and Howard Roberts, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, as an usher.

The mother of the bride chose a yellow and white suit with matching accessories and the bridegroom's mother a multi-color suit with white accessories. White carnation corsages complemented their attire.

A RECEPTION followed at the LaCrosse fire hall, where the buffet table was centered with a three-tier cake topped with a miniature bridal couple. Mrs. Sandra Roberts, sister of the bridegroom, registered guests.

Toll Climbs On Highways Across U.S.

By The Associated Press
The Independence Day weekend traffic toll across the nation climbed slowly today. The normally hazardous home-ward rush period still lay ahead for many holiday motorists.

The toll stood at 281 in this third day of the four-day weekend.

In a recent nonholiday weekend of the same length the toll was 553.

The National Safety Council has estimated that between 700 and 800 persons could be killed in motor vehicle accidents during the holiday period that began at 6 p. m. Wednesday and ends at midnight Sunday.

In one of the weekend's worst highway crashes, four persons were killed and seven were injured in a two-car collision Friday night northwest of Meriden, Conn.

The traffic toll during last year's four-day Independence Day weekend was a record for the holiday at 732. It also set a record for any summer holiday.

To establish a basis for comparison, The Associated Press conducted a survey of traffic deaths from 6 p. m. Wednesday, June 19, to midnight Sunday, June 23. They survey tallied 553 such fatalities.

CORE Waits Young Speech

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A hard-core faction within the Congress of Racial Equality gumbled its disapproval Saturday of the scheduled visit of Whitney Young Jr., leader of the moderate Urban League, to CORE's annual convention here.

Led by the Brooklyn, N.Y., CORE chapter, about a dozen delegations threatened to "walk out" on Young, whose bi-racial organization stresses jobs and security as the best route to black equality.

The threat of expulsion apparently was successful Friday in preventing the dissidents from embarrassing Roy Wilkins, director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Wilkins said he hoped for a rebirth of the "entente cordiale" that prevailed among civil rights groups before CORE and the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee adopted a "Black Power" philosophy, rejecting racial integration as a practical goal.

Young heads an organization that plans to spend $6 million this year fighting racial inequality. It currently runs a "Street Academy" for school dropouts, re-entry services for black veterans, and a highly successful "Operation Open City" that fights housing bias.

Recently the Urban League, which has active branches in 90 major cities, has attempted to appeal to the Negro masses. Only a few hecklers met Wilkins in the hotel lobby. Before Wilkins spoke, CORE chairman Wilfred Ussery threatened to expel any member who tried to "disgrace" CORE by an incident. None occurred.

Wilkins told the delegates the NAACP will work with CORE toward "racial adjustment to achieve equality" but if CORE intended to build a separate black nation it could not expect the NAACP to help it.

Midland Couple Marries In Ceremonies At Church

The Presentation Catholic Church at Midland was the scene of the wedding of Miss Margaret Ann Gentile and Seaman 3C James Joseph Kovalesky last Saturday at 2 p. m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Gentile Sr. of 536 Penn Ave., Midland. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Kovalesky of 820 Beaver Ave., Midland.

The Rev. Stephen J. Burdis officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Baskets of white flowers banked the altar. The bride placed a bouquet of flowers at the altar of the Blessed Virgin.

GIVEN in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of silk organdy and alencon lace with a detachable wateau train. The gown featured a sabrina neckline and an A-line skirt with appliques of alencon lace and seed pearls, which also bordered the train. Her elbow-length veil of imported silk illusion was held in place by a cluster of lace petals. She wore a six-pence in her shoe, carried a white handkerchief and wore a blue garter in observing the wedding traditions.

She carried a cascade of orchids with stephanotis, ivy and white grapes.

Miss Patricia Joseph was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Jeannette Kazman, sister of the bride, and Miss Kathy Gabor. Miss Angela Marie Gentile of Beaver, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

The attendants were attired identically in long gowns of green chiffon with short sleeves, raised waistlines and back floating panels. Their veils were held in place by bows of green chiffon. Each carried a cascade of yellow daisies accented with orange rosebuds. They wore charm bracelets with wedding charms. These were given them by the bride.

Robert Kovalesky of California was his brother's best man. The ushers were John Kazman, brother-in-law of the bride, and Rudy Krivosia. Christopher Kovalesky was ringbearer for his brother. The bridegroom presented the best man, ushers and the ringbearer initiated jewelry boxes and key chains.

The bride's mother was attired in a beige lace dress with matching coat. The bridegroom's mother wore a blue lace dress with a matching jacket. Each wore an orchid corsage.

Garvin testified he had the green light, did not hit anyone and that the Frontz car hit his. Early in the investigation of the fatality, Garvin wrote a letter about the case to a Lisbon newspaper friend and said, "This smells like murder." On the strength of that statement the friend arranged with the prosecutor's office for Garvin to take a lie-detector test.

James R. Gause, the county polygraph examiner, testified at the trial that the test results were inconclusive and he could make no determination.

completed the market framework and "have moved beyond the purely economic aspects of integration to produce important social advances."

Leadership Need Cited

He pointed to U.S. contributions to the area's selfhelp effort but said "it must always be so" that the Central Americans themselves provide leadership and determination.

Declaring that the goal, as much as anything is a state of mind, he asserted:

"If we all believe societies can and must change, they will. If we all believe that men can and must cooperate with each other to insure peace and progress, they will."

"If we all believe that poverty and misery, disease and injustice, can and must be eliminated, they will. If we all believe that we can hasten the day of progress."

Johnson's trip, his first out of the United States since his worldwide tour last December, followed a heavily latin-flavored July 4th weekend divided between work and relaxation at his ranch and a visit to HemisFair, the world exposition at San Antonio.

Much of the work of the common market meeting, in progress since Tuesday, was already accomplished. Foreign ministers and finance ministers labored through the region's humid rainy season to prepare a conference-ending declaration and other documents for signature by the presidents.

Generally regarded as a success, the regional common market represents a move toward economic integration and self-sufficiency that Johnson would like to see duplicated throughout Latin America, in Africa and Asia. In fact, the major purpose of his trip seemed to be to help dramatize his dedication to such goals.

Return Indefinite

There was no firm word on when Johnson would return to Washington, although the White House said the current plan was to fly back immediately following the airport stop in Guatemala. That would mean a portal-to-portal July 4th holiday weekend journey of 5,900 miles. However, there were some rumors, totally unconfirmed, that the chief executive might extend his tour.

Mrs. Johnson and daughter Luci Johnson Nugent were accompanying him.

Johnson spent much of Friday doing homework for his tour. He also took time out for an informal luncheon meeting at the LBJ Ranch, 75 miles north of San Antonio, with President Rene Barrientos of Bolivia. The South American president was in Texas for observance of Bolivian National Day at San Antonio's HemisFair world exhibition.

The Johnsons will attend Roman Catholic Church services in San Salvador Sunday, appear

Johnson's last trip south of the border was a brief visit to the Mexican border town of Ciudad Juarez, sister city of El Paso, Tex., last fall. John F. Kennedy was the last presidential visitor to Central America, meeting with the presidents of the five nations plus Panama in Costa Rica early in 1963.

Johnson's last trip out of the country was his worldwide tour in December which took him to Australia, Vietnam and Rome.

Sirhan Kin Says Citizenship May Be Denied Him

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The American Civil Liberties Union says it is investigating a claim by Saidallah Sirhan, brother of the man charged with murdering Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, that his U.S. citizenship is being withheld.

Sirhan, 36, said he was scheduled to report to the Los Angeles Naturalization Board to be sworn in June 7. However, after the June 5 assassination, he said he was told not to appear.

U.S. immigration officials said an investigation was pending, but they declined to elaborate.

In jail awaiting trial is Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, 24, charged with the fatal shooting of Kennedy in Los Angeles.

"The denial of citizenship solely because a member of one's family is charged with an offense, is patently the clearest violation of elemental rights," the ACLU's chief defense attorney for Southern California said Friday.

Sirhan's family came to the United States from Jerusalem in 1957.

Meeting Planned In Chicago Strike

CHICAGO (AP) — Striking bus drivers agreed to meet today with Mayor Richard J. Daley, top officials of their union and the Chicago Transit Authority in efforts to end a dispute which has idled half the city's buses.

The agreement Friday night was the first sign of a possible break in the wildcat walkout which began Tuesday morning on the South and West sides and spread to other sections of the city as well. Previous efforts to get all parties to the dispute together had failed.

"I can assure you that we will be there to meet with those people," said a spokesman for the striking union dissidents who call themselves the Concerned Transit Workers.

A few hours earlier the strikers and union representatives had failed to appear at a similar meeting which Daley had called in his City Hall office Friday afternoon. Daley returned from a brief trip to Florida just before calling the meeting.

Inger Marie Walderhaug, Robert C. Lloyd Jr. Wed

The traditions were observed when Miss Inger Marie Walderhaug, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Olav Walderhaug of 832 Bradshaw Ave., became the bride of Robert C. Lloyd Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Lloyd of 1714 Chester Ave., Wellsville, June 22 at 6:30 p. m. in St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church.

The Rev. John R. Skeibred officiated for the double-ring ceremony before an altar banked with yellow and white flowers, palms and candelabra. Mrs. William Riedel Jr. was organist and Mrs. Eileen Brown soloist. Richard Price served as acolyte.

THE BRIDE was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She wore a full-length gown of peau de soie fashioned with a rosepoint lace bodice which featured a scooped neckline and scalloped-edged, long sleeves. The sheath skirt was designed with a detachable chapel train.

Her elbow-length veil of silk illusion was attached to a lace headpiece adorned with pearls and sequins. She carried a cascade of stephanotis, baby's breath and tropical green centered with two white orchids.

Miss Marlene Laughlin was maid of honor. Miss Peggy Lloyd, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Marilee Mason and Miss Mary Ellen Bellay were bridesmaids. They appeared in full-length sheath gowns of Nile green crepe fashioned with cotton lace bodices and elbow-length sleeves.

Their headpieces were formed of daisy circlets entwined with yellow tulle. They carried cascade arrangements of white daisies tied with yellow velvet streamers.

Kerry Steffen, cousin of the bridegroom, was flower girl. She wore a gown styled identical to that of the attendants. She carried a cluster of daisies tied with yellow velvet streamers which were accented with daisies.

Mike Chenuault served as best man. Ushers were Jack Sayre, Ed Boehm and Fred Wilson.

The mother of the bride chose a pink lace dress with white accessories and the bridegroom's mother a turquoise knit dress with matching accessories. Corsage of roses complemented their attire.

A RECEPTION for 250 followed at the Calcutta Fire Hall.

Tri-Parish Plan To Be Launched

The establishment of a tri-parish ministry for Episcopal churches in the area has been announced by the Rev. D. R. Salisbury of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church.

It will involve the joint co-operation of three parish churches — St. Stephen's, St. Matthew's in Chester and the Church of the Ascension in Wellsville.

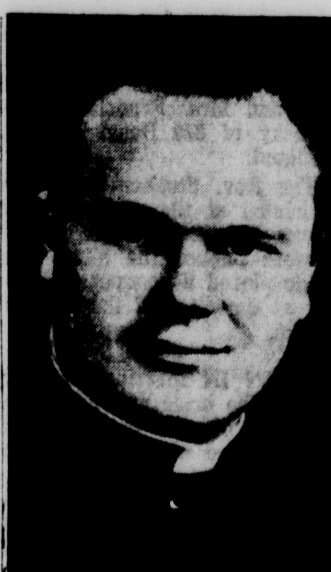

THE REV. William Tempel, a recent graduate of Bexley Hall Seminary at Gambier, Ohio, will assist Rev. Salisbury in providing clerical leadership for the newly created ministry.

Rev. Tempel attended Ohio State University and was graduated from Ohio Northern University after serving in the Army from 1959 to 1962. He had been employed by Halle Brothers Co. in Cleveland and served as director of church music at Christ's Church in Lima.

He also has taught at Lima Central High School before attending the seminary. He, his wife and 19-month-old son will reside at 424 Thompson Ave.

The formation of the tri-parish ministry includes a council consisting of two representatives from each of the three vestries and one each representing the Bishops of Ohio and West Virginia.

THE COUNCIL, together with Rev. Salisbury and Rev. Tempel, will plan and design a program for the new ministry. A three-year trial effort will be given the project, during which time it will be evaluated in terms of accomplishments by the two dioceses and three parishes. The financial support of the program is currently being underwritten in a large part by diocesan funds, but ultimately will have to be supported locally, Rev. Salisbury pointed out.

Tree 'Samples' Are Set Out In Lisbon's Square

LISBON — Nurseryman Bill Fry, formerly of Bellville, "set out" two flowering crab apple trees and two blue spruce on the Square this week.

They are in large concrete "flower pots" poured in his own molds — "a different style for each community."

In a talk to the merchants' committee of the Lisbon Area Chamber of Commerce this week, he proposed 50 trees for the business district. Committeemen told him they would see how many merchants are interested.

The "samples" are in front of the Farmers National Bank and the Firestone Bank, both of N. Park Ave.

Fry said the cost per tree is $60 per year, including watering, fertilizing and pruning, and keeping the pots free of slush in the winter.

Fry has potted trees in the Mansfield business district. He says he intends to locate in Eastern Ohio and provide downtown nursery service for area communities. He plans to talk to Salem Chamber of Commerce members next week.

Church To Mark Communion, Act As Host At Rally

The rites of Holy Communion will be observed immediately following morning worship at the Second Baptist Church Sunday, with the Rev. E. H. Harris in charge, assisted by the Board of Deacons.

At 3 p. m., the church will be host to the Ohio Valley Missionary Union.

Mrs. Reema Samuel is president of the union.

The program will be presented by Mrs. Florence Earley, president of the Mary A. Washington Missionary Society.

Baptizing of candidates and the fellowship of new members will be held at 7 p. m. Music will be by the senior and youth choirs.

The public is invited to attend, Mrs. Samuel said.

Swimmer Hurt At Guilford Lake

LISBON — A Youngstown youth received a dislocated neck and a severed spinal cord about 6:30 p. m. Thursday when he dived from a dock at Guilford Lake State Park.

Anthony Priley, 17, of 3124 South Ave., was taken by the Cotton-Maple ambulance to Salem City Hospital, then moved to St. Elizabeth Hospital in Youngstown.

Park Manager Nelson Hively said the youth and a boy companion were swimming from the Schuler cottage dock in Lakeview Addition. Hively said Priley was conscious, but unable to move his arms or legs. The water is about three feet deep at the end of the dock, Hively said.

Priley's two sisters and a brother-in-law were swimming at the public beach when the accident occurred.

OHIOVILLE — The charter of the Fairview Grange was draped in memory of Lester Herron during a service Tuesday.

Participating were Mrs. Phyllis Dawson, Mrs. Emily Carroll, Mrs. Jane Slusarczyk, Mrs. Ruth McGaffick and Paul Richards.

Slusarczyk, institutional representative for Boy Scout activities, reported, George Thompson, scoutmaster, displayed a new troop flag.

A progress report was given on the completion of refinishing a roof on the grange building.

The next meeting will be July 16 at 8 p. m. when officers of the Beaver County Pomona will be guests. A program is planned, with each family bringing a sheet cake.

The fair in August was discussed when the Fairview Junior Grange met Tuesday night in the hall. Robert Knott is master.

The group made plans to construct items for the booth.

Youth With RFK Note Found Dead In Mexican Cell

JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — A 17-year-old who was arrested because he had a letter containing statements about the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., was found hanged in a psychiatric ward cell, police said today.

Jesus Chacon, Juarez judicial police chief, said the body of Crispin Curiel Gonzalez was found Thursday in the cell at a Juarez hospital. The report said the body was hanging from a rope made of strips of cloth torn from the mattress in the cell.

Gonzalez had been taken to the hospital for psychiatric observation under an order from Mexican federal Dist. Atty. Norberto Salinas.

Salinas said the youth was arrested June 17 after a letter or manuscript fell from his pocket at a concession stand in Juarez. The paper included writings to the effect that the youth had prior knowledge of the slaying of Sen. Kennedy in Los Angeles.

Car, Station Wagon Involved In Accident

A 1960 sedan and a 1967 station wagon were damaged when they collided near Rogers Friday, officers of the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon reports.

The sedan, driven by Minnie Brooks, 38, of 801 McKinnon Ave., and the station wagon, operated by Evelyn Morris, 42, of Columbiana, were damaged moderately in the 7:30 p. m. accident, officers said.

The Brooks woman told patrolmen her car was northbound on County Rd. 428, about a half-mile south of Route 7 when the station wagon, attempting a left turn, crashed into the side of her sedan.

The Morris woman was cited by the patrol for failure to yield the right-of-way.

Composer Claimed

LEONIA, N.J. (AP) — Song writer and vaudeville performer Ben Ryan, who wrote "Inka Dinka Doo" for Jimmy Durante, died Friday at his home here after a long illness. He was 77.

Among Ryan's other better known songs are "Heart of My Heart," "M-I-S-S-I-S-S-I-P-P-I" and "When Frances Dances with Me."

Boy, 7, Treated In Bike Accident

A 7-year-old city youth was treated at City Hospital following a mishap Friday involving his bicycle and a 1966 station wagon.

He is Joseph Winters, son of Richard Winters of 900 Bradshaw Ave. The accident occurred at 7:21 p. m.

David F. Whealdon, 34, of Dayton, driver of the station wagon, told investigating Patrolman J. W. Woods that he was westbound on Bradshaw when the boy on the bicycle darted onto the roadway from between two parked cars.

A witness, William Weir of 327 Lisbon Rd., Wellsville, said there was no contact between the vehicle and bicycle and that the Winters boy fell from the bicycle onto the road. The car was stopped at the time, Weir added.

A MOMENT OF MEDITATION
My God Is Real

On Monday evening, July 8 at 7:00 the Church of Christ will begin its annual Vacation Bible School. There will be classes for all age groups. Everyone is cordially invited to attend. There is no cost or obligation whatever.

The general theme that will be used this year is "MY GOD IS REAL". This should provide a very interesting and informative study.

We live today in an age where it is the popular thing for a person to do, when he stands boldly and either denies the existence of God or he just says that he does not have evidence to make him believe in God. Many teachers have accepted theories (such as the evolution theory) that have caused them to doubt the existence of God and in turn they teach others to have this doubt. It is high time that those who know that their God is real, stand up and speak their piece. When a man boldly affirms that God is dead, we must speak up and let the world know that God is not dead. Such theories as this have come and gone but God still is and ever will be. In our Vacation Bible School course this year, we want to let all know that we still believe in God and in His Word.

It also should be made clear that the life that is lived here without God is indeed a wasted life. The man who receives the most benefit from life here on the earth is the man who believes in God and does His Will. The happiest people on earth are Christian people. The only person who is prepared for life eternal is the person who believes in God and lives for Him.

The man who denies that God exists has nothing to offer the world. He cannot offer one valid reason for a person to live a good life. He cannot show in any way how that his theory has helped mankind. In fact, his theory if followed to its logical conclusion would break down every moral standard that the world has ever known. How would you like to live in a land that has no moral standards? All of our accepted moral standards have their origin with God and His word. Our country has gone too far already in throwing out moral standards. Many are practicing what they call the "New Morality". This is not a proper name. It should be called the "OLD IMMORALITY". The devil has been selling this bill of goods to people for a long time.

We need to stand up and proclaim our belief in God and our acceptance of His way of life.

If you are interested in studying God's word, come each night, July 8 - 12 to our Vacation Bible School. Everyone is welcome. Our theme is great. We hope you will be interested in this period of Bible Study.

Chinese Reds Release 45 Off Fishing Boats

HONG KONG (AP) — Forty-five fishermen seized last Sunday by Red Chinese armed junk and gunboats were released and returned to Hong Kong today.

The fishermen said they believed most of the 16 others seized at the same time were under arrest and faced trial in Chinese courts on charges of aiding refugees to escape from the mainland to the British colony of Hong Kong.

Witnesses Convene

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A four-day convention of Jehovah's Witnesses from southern Michigan, northern Ohio and western Indiana opened here Friday with 12,000 members attending.

Ohioville Area News

Mrs. Evelyn Richards

OHIOVILLE — The charter of the Fairview Grange was draped in memory of Lester Herron during a service Tuesday.

William Slusarczyk, overseer, was in charge.

Participating were Mrs. Phyllis Dawson, Mrs. Emily Carroll, Mrs. Jane Slusarczyk, Mrs. Ruth McGaffick and Paul Richards.

Slusarczyk, institutional representative for Boy Scout activities, reported, George Thompson, scoutmaster, displayed a new troop flag.

A progress report was given on the completion of refinishing a roof on the grange building.

The next meeting will be July 16 at 8 p. m. when officers of the Beaver County Pomona will be guests. A program is planned, with each family bringing a sheet cake.

The fair in August was discussed when the Fairview Junior Grange met Tuesday night in the hall. Robert Knott is master.

The group made plans to construct items for the booth.

Youth With RFK Note Found Dead In Mexican Cell

JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — A 17-year-old who was arrested because he had a letter containing statements about the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., was found hanged in a psychiatric ward cell, police said today.

Jesus Chacon, Juarez judicial police chief, said the body of Crispin Curiel Gonzalez was found Thursday in the cell at a Juarez hospital. The report said the body was hanging from a rope made of strips of cloth torn from the mattress in the cell.

Gonzalez had been taken to the hospital for psychiatric observation under an order from Mexican federal Dist. Atty. Norberto Salinas.

Salinas said the youth was arrested June 17 after a letter or manuscript fell from his pocket at a concession stand in Juarez. The paper included writings to the effect that the youth had prior knowledge of the slaying of Sen. Kennedy in Los Angeles.

Car, Station Wagon Involved In Accident

A 1960 sedan and a 1967 station wagon were damaged when they collided near Rogers Friday, officers of the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon reports.

The sedan, driven by Minnie Brooks, 36, of 801 McKinnon Ave., and the station wagon, operated by Evelyn Morris, 42, of Columbiana, were damaged moderately in the 7:30 p. m. accident, officers said.

The Brooks woman told patrolmen her car was northbound on County Rd. 428, about a half-mile south of Route 7 when the station wagon, attempting a left turn, crashed into the side of her sedan.

The Morris woman was cited by the patrol for failure to yield the right-of-way.

Composer Claimed

LEONIA, N.J. (AP) — Song writer and vaudeville performer Ben Ryan, who wrote "Inka Dinka Doo" for Jimmy Durante, died Friday at his home here after a long illness. He was 77. Among Ryan's other better known songs are "Heart of My Heart," "M-i-s-s-i-s-s-i-p-p-i" and "When Frances Dances with Me."

Boy, 7, Treated In Bike Accident

A 7-year-old city youth was treated at City Hospital following a mishap Friday involving his bicycle and a 1966 station wagon.

He is Joseph Winters, son of Richard Winters of 900 Bradshaw Ave. The accident occurred at 7:21 p. m.

David F. Whealdon, 34, of Dayton, driver of the station wagon, told investigating Patrolman J. W. Woods that he was westbound on Bradshaw when the boy on the bicycle darted onto the roadway from between two parked cars.

A witness, William Weir of 327 Lisbon Rd., Wellsville, said there was no contact between the vehicle and bicycle and that the Winters boy fell from the bicycle onto the road. The car was stopped at the time, Weir added.

A MOMENT OF MEDITATION
My God Is Real

On Monday evening, July 8 at 7:00 the Church of Christ will begin its annual Vacation Bible School. There will be classes for all age groups. Everyone is cordially invited to attend. There is no cost or obligation whatever.

The general theme that will be used this year is "MY GOD IS REAL". This should provide a very interesting and informative study.

We live today in an age where it is the popular thing for a person to do, when he stands boldly and either denies the existence of God or he just says that he does not have evidence to make him believe in God. Many teachers have accepted theories (such as the evolution theory) that have caused them to doubt the existence of God and in turn they teach others to have this doubt. It is high time that those who know that their God is real, stand up and speak their piece. When a man boldly affirms that God is dead, we must speak up and let the world know that God is not dead. Such theories as this have come and gone but God still is and ever will be. In our Vacation Bible School course this year, we want to let all know that we still believe in God and in His Word.

It also should be made clear that the life that is lived here without God is indeed a wasted life. The man who receives the most benefit from life here on the earth is the man who believes in God and does His Will. The happiest people on earth are Christian people. The only person who is prepared for life eternal is the person who believes in God and lives for Him.

The man who denies that God exists has nothing to offer the world. He cannot offer one valid reason for a person to live a good life. He cannot show in any way how that his theory has helped mankind. In fact, his theory if followed to its logical conclusion would break down every moral standard that the world has ever known. How would you like to live in a land that has no moral standards? All of our accepted moral standards have their origin with God and His word. Our country has gone too far already in throwing out moral standards. Many are practicing what they call the "New Morality". This is not a proper name. It should be called the "OLD IMMORALITY". The devil has been selling this bill of goods to people for a long time.

We need to stand up and proclaim our belief in God and our acceptance of His way of life.

If you are interested in studying God's word, come each night, July 8 - 12 to our Vacation Bible School. Everyone is welcome. Our theme is great. We hope you will be interested in this period of Bible Study.

Church Council Weighs New Ties With Catholics

By DICK SODERLUND
Associated Press Writer
UPPSALA, Sweden (AP) — Closer participation, even full integration, by the Roman Catholic Church in specialized work by the World Council of Churches was held out as a strong possibility by one of the Catholic observers to the WCC assembly today.

Father Roberto Tucci, a Jesuit and editor of La Civiltà Cattolica—The Catholic Community—stressed that the question of possible Roman Catholic membership in the WCC cannot be evaded because of the risk of developing two kinds of ecumenism, one WCC-centered and one Rome-centered.

The Jesuit theologian seemed to go a step farther than the report of the joint working group between the Roman Catholics and the WCC.

Psychological and practical obstacles now block possible Catholic membership in the WCC, he said.

The Vatican for the first time is represented at a WCC assembly by an official observers' team, 15-strong, which Friday night received a rousing welcome applause at one meeting.

A further sign of the Vatican's interest came Friday when Pope Paul VI sent a message of encouragement and blessing to the 2,000 participants at the council assembly.

Father Tucci said Roman Catholics "no longer regard themselves as outside spectators who are indifferent or merely curious...but as partners engaged in the same quest for unity."

He said his Church now has moved away from good from the former "return to Rome" view of the ecumenical movement.

Regardless of how the institutional questions finally are answered, "the basic requirement is to continue the joint effort," he said.

"For us Roman Catholics also, the union of all Christians in the one church of Christ cannot be the victory of one church over another, but victory of Christ over our divisions," he declared.

A third speaker, American Prof. Robert Bertram of St. Louis, who represents the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod, emphasized his conviction that among Christians reconciliation and oneness are identical. He defended the emphasis in some ecumenical thinking of "letting the world help write the agenda for the church." The Missouri Synod is the largest conservative Lutheran body to have remained outside the WCC.

The boys were accompanied by Roy McCollum, assistant

Scoutmaster. Also attending was John Onuska, senior patrol leader.

Cub Pack 43 will meet Wednesday, July 24, at Camp Twin Spruce at Leesville Lake.

Mill Creek Group Slates 2nd River Cruise In August

The Mill Creek Valley Historical Association is planning a second historical trip down the Ohio River Aug. 4.

The Gateway Party Liner will leave Rochester at 2 p. m. and return to Rochester at 5 p. m. Tickets for adults and children may be purchased from Mrs. Grace Wilson, secretary, Charles P. Henderson in Midland, Martha Montgomery in Shippensburg, Donald Morgan in Hookstown and Clyde Piquet for Industry and Ohioview.

Piquet, program chairman, is preparing a brochure of historical sites along the route which will be given to passengers as they board. The public is invited.

Food may be purchased at the snack bar on the lower deck. The ticket sale will close Aug. 2, or prior to this if the quota for the cruise is sold out.

Registration Appeal Made For Jefferson

STEBUNVILLE — A new appeal was made today for unregistered voters in Jefferson County to register with the Board of Elections in the Court-house annex, 117 N. 3rd St.

Joseph J. Bruzese, chairman of the board, reminded that the office is open Monday through Friday from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. and on Saturday from 9 a. m. until noon.

Registration will continue through Sept. 25 for the Nov. 5 general election.

Best Hymn Selected

Clarkson Area News

CLARKSON — Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lipp entertained 55 friends of their daughter Penny Tuesday night at the Clarkson Grange Hall in honor of her 13th birthday.

The Mystifying Oracles of Clarkson played for dancing. Games also were enjoyed.

The hall was decorated in keeping with the color scheme of powder blue and hot pink, with streamers and balloons across the hall. The refreshment table was centered with a large decorated blue birthday cake on a hot pink cloth.

Mrs. Lipp was assisted by Sandy and Debra Moore of Fort Myers, Fla., and Miss Janice Hoe.

Food Stamp Figure Hit $40,599 In June

LISBON — The federal food stamp program added $13,568.75 to the buying power of 684 Columbiana County families in June.

They purchased $27,030.25 in stamps and received $13,568.75 in free or bonus stamps for a total of $40,599, compared with $41,953 in May.

Wilbur Warren, food stamp supervisor, said eligibility for this program is determined by the number of persons in the household and the net income coming into the home each month.

Anyone interested may contact him at the County Welfare Department, 117 E. Washington St., from 8:30 a. m. until 4 p. m. Monday through Friday.

150 Women Start In Powder Puff From California

VAN NUYS, Calif. (AP) — Eighty-one planes with women pilots take off today for Savannah, Ga., on a 2,469-mile flight in the 22nd year of the Powder Puff Derby.

Of the 150 women entered in the race, some will be flying solo and some with copilots. There are prizes of $3,000 for the first five places.

The pilots will be permitted to make eight stops, two of them mandatory. The planes must land at Corpus Christi, Tex., and at Greenville, Miss.

The event is sponsored by the Ninety-Nines, holding its international convention at Van Nuys Airport.

The women's flying group was founded by aviatrix Amelia

Earhart. At the first meeting, 99 pilots showed up and from that developed the group's name.

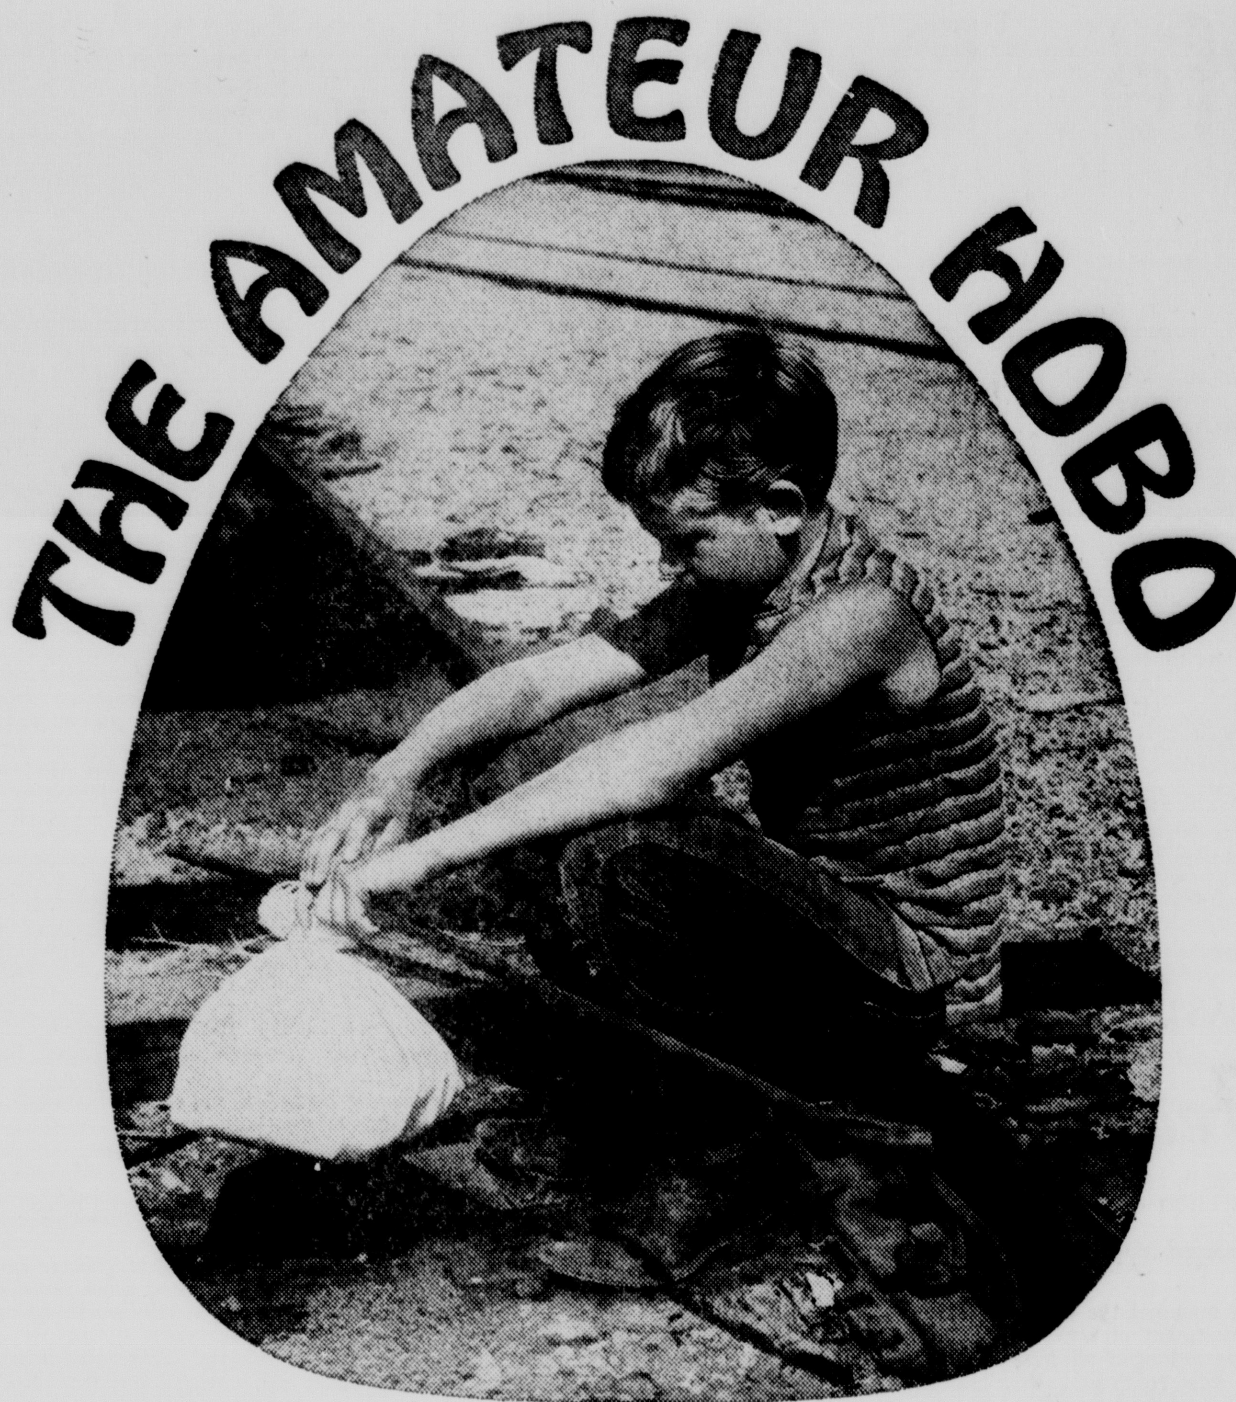

The winners will be determined by their ground speeds. Handicaps are issued before the race and winners won't be known until all planes have crossed the finish line.

Deadline, however, is midnight, July 9.

And So What's New? Queries Dick Tracy

ELGIN, Ill. (AP) — In the year 2000, people will be wearing wrist watches that are "total communications centers," containing devices not only for accurate timing but also for voice and vision.

They'll even contain recorders and simple miniature computers, said Harry B. Aronson, president of the Waltham Watch Co., in Elgin, to dedicate the firm's new facility.

Answer to crisis: Run away from home!

Run away from love to a world where hate often prevails. Run away from understanding to a city that seldom understands. Run from tomorrow's hopes into a desolate and hopeless today.

Sure, Son, there's something wrong at home—something more spiritual than physical would be our guess!

To live as a family we need foundation—something firm and sure—to be confident of when nothing is going our way. To live as a family we need meaning in our relationships; meaning that cannot be eclipsed by the emotions of the moment.

When church bells ring on Sunday morning, they are calling families to worship! Faith is the foundation of love, and understanding and hope. The teachings of Christ give deeper meaning to all relationships.

Can't guarantee you won't get a lickin' for running away. Can't guarantee you won't feel like running away again sometime.

But can guarantee this: When there's the religious foundation and meaning we're talking about, any crisis can be seen in clearer perspective... and solved more sensibly.

Church Council Weighs New Ties With Catholics

By DICK SODERLUND
Associated Press Writer
UPPSALA, Sweden (AP) — Closer participation, even full integration, by the Roman Catholic Church in specialized work by the World Council of Churches was held out as a strong possibility by one of the Catholic observers to the WCC assembly today.

Father Roberto Tucci, a Jesuit and editor of La Civiltà Cattolica—The Catholic Community—stressed that the question of possible Roman Catholic membership in the WCC cannot be evaded because of the risk of developing two kinds of ecumenism, one WCC-centered and one Rome-centered.

The Jesuit theologian seemed to go a step farther than the report of the joint working group between the Roman Catholics and the WCC.

Psychological and practical obstacles now block possible Catholic membership in the WCC, he said.

The Vatican for the first time is represented at a WCC assembly by an official observers' team, 15-strong, which Friday night received a rousing welcome applause at one meeting.

A further sign of the Vatican's interest came Friday when Pope Paul VI sent a message of encouragement and blessing to the 2,000 participants at the council assembly.

Father Tucci said Roman Catholics "no longer regard themselves as outside spectators who are indifferent or merely curious, but as partners engaged in the same quest for unity."

He said his Church now has moved away from good for the former "return to Rome" view of the ecumenical movement.

Regardless of how the institutional questions finally are answered, "the basic requirement is to continue the joint effort", he said.

"For us Roman Catholics also, the union of all Christians in the one church of Christ cannot be the victory of one church over another, but victory of Christ over our divisions," he declared.

A third speaker, American Prof. Robert Bertram of St. Louis, who represents the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod, emphasized his conviction that among Christians reconciliation and oneness are identical. He defended the emphasis in some ecumenical thinking of "letting the world help write the agenda for the church." The Missouri Synod is the largest conservative Lutheran body to have remained outside the WCC.

Woman Hurt By Fall And 17 Others Treated

A Wellsville woman injured in a fall early today was admitted to City Hospital, where 17 others were treated.

Boy Scout News

Boy Scout Troop 470 of Industry has concluded a week's camping trip to Camp Semicon, Butler, Pa.

The boys were accompanied by Roy McCollum, assistant

Cub Pack 43 will meet Wednesday, July 24, at Camp Twin Spruce at Leesville Lake.

Mill Creek Group Slates 2nd River Cruise In August

The Mill Creek Valley Historical Association is planning a second historical trip down the Ohio River Aug. 4.

The Gateway Party Liner will leave Rochester at 2 p. m. and return to Rochester at 5 p. m.

Tickets for adults and children may be purchased from Mrs. Grace Wilson, secretary, Charles P. Henderson in Midland, Martha Montgomery in Shippingport, Donald Morgan in Hookstown and Clyde Piquet for Industry and Ohioview.

Piquet, program chairman, is preparing a brochure of historical sites along the route which will be given to passengers as they board. The public is invited.

Food may be purchased at the snack bar on the lower deck.

The ticket sale will close Aug. 2, or prior to this if the quota for the cruise is sold out.

Registration Appeal Made For Jefferson

STEBENVILLE — A new appeal was made today for unregistered voters in Jefferson County to register with the Board of Elections in the Court-house annex, 117 N. 3rd St.

Joseph J. Bruzese, chairman of the board, reminded that the office is open Monday through Friday from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. and on Saturday from 9 a. m. until noon.

Registration will continue through Sept. 25 for the Nov. 5 general election.

Best Hymn Selected

SOUTH LANCASTER, Mass. (AP) — The Southern New England Conference, a Protestant religious group, says "The Old Rugged Cross" is the best-loved hymn in New England. The group surveyed 60 churches in New England. A spokesman says the hymn also was first in a national poll.

Clarkson Area News

CLARKSON — Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lipp entertained 55 friends of their daughter Penny Tuesday night at the Clarkson Grange Hall in honor of her 13th birthday.

The Mystifying Oracles of Clarkson played for dancing. Games also were enjoyed.

The hall was decorated in keeping with the color scheme of powder blue and hot pink, with streamers and balloons across the hall. The refreshment table was centered with a large decorated blue birthday cake on a hot pink cloth.

Mrs. Lipp was assisted by Sandy and Debra Moore of Fort Myers, Fla., and Miss Janice Hoe.

Penny received many gifts.

Food Stamp Figure Hit $40,599 In June

LISBON — The federal food stamp program added $13,568.75 to the buying power of 684 Columbiana County families in June.

They purchased $27,030.25 in stamps and received $13,568.75 in free or bonus stamps for a total of $40,599, compared with $41,953 in May.

Wilbur Warren, food stamp supervisor, said eligibility for this program is determined by the number of persons in the household and the net income coming into the home each month.

Anyone interested may contact him at the County Welfare Department, 117 E. Washington St., from 8:30 a. m. until 4 p. m. Monday through Friday.

Domestics Plentiful

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Almost 90,000 Africans work as domestic servants in the Johannesburg area, it was announced at a city council meeting. The least estimate of the city's 1.3 million population reported there were 713,000 Africans and a half million whites.

And So What's New? Queries Dick Tracy

ELGIN, Ill. (AP) — In the year 2000, people will be wearing wrist watches that are "total communications centers," containing devices not only for accurate timing but also for voice and vision.

They'll even contain recorders and simple miniature computers, said Harry B. Aronson, president of the Waltham Watch Co., in Elgin, to dedicate the firm's new facility.

Answer to crisis: Run away from home!

Run away from love to a world where hate often prevails. Run away from understanding to a city that seldom understands. Run from tomorrow's hopes into a desolate and hopeless today.

Sure, Son, there's something wrong at home—something more spiritual than physical would be our guess!

To live as a family we need foundation—something firm and sure—to be confident of when nothing is going our way. To live as a family we need meaning in our relationships; meaning that cannot be eclipsed by the emotions of the moment.

When church bells ring on Sunday morning, they are calling families to worship! Faith is the foundation of love, and understanding and hope. The teachings of Christ give deeper meaning to all relationships.

Can't guarantee you won't get a lickin' for running away. Can't guarantee you won't feel like running away again sometime.

But can guarantee this: When there's the religious foundation and meaning we're talking about, any crisis can be seen in clearer perspective... and solved more sensibly.

Life 'Down Under'

By CLARA HALL

After a two-year stay in Australia with a missile project and a jaunt around the world on the return home trip, Dean E. Carpenter has finally brought his family back to their native land.

Dean is married to the former Joan Cozzens, and the family, consisting of daughters, Lynn, 15, Diane, 11, and a son, David, 9, have been visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Cozzens of State Route 2. Mr. Cozzens is traffic manager at the Homer Laughlin China Co. and his wife is the former Lois Patterson of East Liverpool.

A native of Greeley, Colo., Carpenter received his engineer's degree from the Colorado School of Mines and has been associated with the missile program for 13 years. For his two years in Australia he has participated in the "Tri-Partite" program—a joint enterprise of England, Australia and the United States.

He has finished his work there, the first in a series of test launches for "SPARTA," a program to study re-entry phenomenon which took place at the Woomera Range. The launch operation team was headed by a crew of engineers from TRW Systems with Carpenter as manager.

TRW SYSTEMS is prime contractor for the SPARTA program, an acronym for Special Anti-Missile Research Test, Australia. The contract supports project DEFENDER, a study of ballistic missile defense systems being conducted by the Advance Research Projects Agency. The Redstone soon became accustomed to calling the street "esplanade" and the cafeteria "canteen."

Joan did not participate in extra-curricular activities as much as she had in the United States, for she said she went away for the rest. There is a limited social life with the family enjoying sports, mainly boating.

David explained "cricket" and "footie"—our game of football. He said tennis was so popular that lessons were available everywhere. He was a member of Cub Scouts and learned to swim in an Olympic size pool. He enjoyed talking about the kangaroos, how one jumped on a car, causing some consternation. The blacktop highways retain the heat at night, so the animals park there when the air gets chilly. They sit in the dark and cause many a "stumbling" situation. During the daylight, they line up in the shade of the telegraph pole trying to escape the heat.

MEMORIES OF the stay in Australia include the "Coral Sea Celebration" observed the first week of May when the country commemorates the big World War II naval victory. American Navy and Marine personnel are joined by Australian service people in the elaborate festivities. Dean represented the American Naval forces and laid a wreath, and Lynn was part of the American Girl Scout color guard.

"Standdown" is observed during part of December and January when everything shuts down and everyone takes their vacation at the same time.

Lynne discussed school, mentioning the curriculum is similar to that in the states and that even in the high school the teachers change rooms instead of the pupils, that is for all subjects except those in a laboratory. The system is divided into two sections, first through 7th grade and then high school. Most students drop out after the 10th grade.

The governing student council is called the "prefects," and those cited for disobedience are given "yard duty." There are no proms or social events of that type, but the big celebration of the lifetime is the 21st birthday anniversary when a bang-up party is held. The colleges are private schools, and the universities are not co-educational.

UNIFORMS ARE mandatory in the upper grades, and many wear them in the elementary grades. Each division or group has its particular pattern which may be made up or bought ready-made. Most are shirtwaist dresses or a tunic with a white shirt and man's tie. Girls wear heavy duty stockings and straw hats, and jewelry is not permitted. For younger boys the uniform has short pants, and all must wear ties. Jeans are not permitted.

The clothes washing cycle which Lynne learned in home economics was simply — blue it — boil it — rinse it — and iron it. She earned a life-saving certificate and medalion as part of the school swimming curriculum, and spent several sessions at the crippled children's summer camp where she had complete charge of one child.

Diane tried to explain to me how the game "Red Rover" was played, a different style from that in America. She and Lynn both took guitar lessons while they were there. Diane had an interesting time learning that the "chips" in "fish and chips" were french fries; that "lolly water" meant lolly pop, and was disappointed because no pop corn is available anywhere. She told me about the new type of slumber or pajama party with different customs in effect.

JOAN AND Dean spoke on the real "blue laws" in effect — pubs until recently closed at 6 p.m., but now are open until 10. There are no beer parlors anywhere except in the hotels or private clubs. Beer is sold cold, not warm as it is in England, and served with a pressure hose extending the length of the bar. The American fishbowl is called a "schooner," and customers many times are surprised at what they receive after giving the wrong order.

Upon leaving Australia and after some extensive traveling, the family picked up their car in Rome and toured Europe. Mrs. Carpenter mentioned that apart from the Taj Mahal in India, nothing surpasses the beauty of Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Cozzens hadn't seen the children for four years, so the visit is a big treat. The home has many remembrances of Australia, a kangaroo fur ottoman, a kangaroo foot bottle opener, arrangements of dried flowers, beautiful pictures, kangaroo fur purses and many other items.

Dean has left for new assignment at San Bernadino, and his family will join him shortly.

Dean Carpenter, missile project executive, points to the area of Australia where he and his family resided for two years while he was associated with a three-nation missile operation.

Carpenter is shown with his wife, Joan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Cozzens of near Chester, and their children, Lynn, Diane and David.

The Lighter Side

By ROBERT POPP

THE POLICE DEPARTMENT interrogation room, brightly lighted and almost antiseptically clean, echoed with muted conversation between a detective lieutenant, a uniformed officer, a young man stylishly-dressed in a business suit and a frowzy character who seemed to doze frequently as his attention wandered.

The lieutenant, holding a filing folder and shuffling absently through a sheaf of papers, summed up the reason for the conference.

"In view of the fact that a suspect has been taken into custody in connection with the armed robbery of the Drovers and Philanderers National Bank and the alleged loot was found on his person, we must decide which facts are pertinent to the first news release to this reporter in adhering to the new rules promulgated by the American Bar Association for safeguarding the rights of defendants and assuring a fair trial before an unbiased jury. . . ."

"By all means," interjected the young man in the business suit, looking every inch the junior executive. "A restrained handling of the facts from the outset is most important to protecting all the Constitutional rights of the defendant."

"Aw, come off it," the frowzy character said in a rasping monotone. "So the jug got heisted by a torpedo and he got busted within two blocks of the joint by some lucky harness bull — everybody knows that. Why the argument? I want to get some rest before the night's over!"

"ON THE CONTRARY, we must remember that those are only the allegations of the prosecution at this point," the well-dressed young man replied. "The facts will be established in the courtroom, before a jury untainted by wildly speculative stories."

"The ABA says that the first release of the crime story may contain the name and address of the accused, the circumstances of the arrest and the formal charge, but that's about all."

"Why don't you get the United Nations to issue a communique?" the disheveled character broke in. "When Al Capone took a fall, it was on the front page of every newspaper in the country, with pictures and all the trimmings. So a guy lands in the can, why should everybody get so excited about a little thing like that? This is a big waste of time for all of us."

The police lieutenant raised his eyebrows significantly in a glance toward the natty young man and nodded in his direction: "Maybe you should explain this situation," he said. "You're much more familiar with the news safeguards spelled out by the American Bar Association. There's no reason why a free press and the right of a fair trial cannot co-exist."

"Exactly," the young executive type replied. "The Warren Commission called upon the ABA more than three years ago to draw up guidelines for the press, police and the bar in releasing information in crime stories — particularly major crimes. Those guidelines have been laid down in a committee study approved by the ABA House of Delegates. No mention may be made of alleged confessions or the past criminal record of the defendant.

"Speculative stories from the defense and the prosecution in advance of the trial also are barred. In that way, the ABA contends, the minds of prospective jurors will not be tainted with suspicion of guilt of the accused even before the trial begins."

"WELL, WHEN a guy goes to trial he needs a good attorney, not a good press agent," the drowsy, unkempt one said. "When a cop makes a good pinch, he wants to tell about it right away, not a year from now. I don't think you'll ever change human nature that much. Besides, the county jail is full of small-timers that never had their names in the newspaper one way or the other."

"I regret that we have not been able to make this plain to you," the bright young man said. "After all, it's in your own interest."

The lieutenant, obviously bored by the pointless dialogue, gestured to the patrolman.

"We must take this up again in the morning," he said. "Take the prisoner back to his cell and let the reporter out the door. He may have a deadline to meet."

The frowzy character shuffled toward the door, followed by the natty man and the officer.

"Goodnight," the patrolman called, as the unkempt one ambled toward the corridor leading outside. Then he clapped handcuffs on the bank bandit to lead him to a cell.

Stamps In The News

The unusual design featuring automated transactions is featured on a new stamp by the Netherlands. The stamp honors the golden jubilee of Netherlands' "Postal Cheque and Clearing Service" which has nearly 1½ million participants in that country.

The design depicts circles and rectangles of the kind seen nowadays on machine-sorted checks and money orders. In addition there are curved and circular lines similar to those that form the background on paper money. The dates 1918-1968 appear atop the adhesive. The colors are red, black and golden yellow.

Th Postal Cheque and Clearing Service was established by an act which became effective Jan. 16, 1918. At first, local post offices held the accounts, but in 1923 an administration was set up at The Hague. By 1965 the entire service was automated.

Life 'Down Under'

By CLARA HALL

After a two-year stay in Australia with a missile project and a jaunt around the world on the return home trip, Dean E. Carpenter has finally brought his family back to their native land.

Dean is married to the former Joan Cozzens, and the family, consisting of daughters, Lynn, 15, Diane, 11, and a son, David, 9, have been visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Cozzens of State Route 2. Mr. Cozzens is traffic manager at the Homer Laughlin China Co. and his wife is the former Lois Patterson of East Liverpool.

A native of Greeley, Colo., Carpenter received his engineer's degree from the Colorado School of Mines and has been associated with the missile program for 13 years. For his two years in Australia he has participated in the "Tri-Partite" program—a joint enterprise of England, Australia and the United States.

He has finished his work there, the first in a series of test launches for "SPARTA," a program to study re-entry phenomenon which took place at the Woomera Range. The launch operation team was headed by a crew of engineers from TRW Systems with Carpenter as manager.

TRW SYSTEMS is prime contractor for the SPARTA program, an acronym for Special Anti-Missile Research Test, Australia. The contract supports project DEFENDER, a study of ballistic missile defense systems being conducted by the Advance Research Projects Agency. The Redstone soon became accustomed to calling the street "esplanade" and the cafeteria "canteen."

Joan did not participate in extra-curricular activities as much as she had in the United States, for she said she went away for the rest. There is a limited social life with the family enjoying sports, mainly boating.

David explained "cricket" and "footie"—our game of football. He said tennis was so popular that lessons were available everywhere. He was a member of Cub Scouts and learned to swim in an Olympic size pool. He enjoyed talking about the kangaroos, how one jumped on a car, causing some consternation. The blacktop highways retain the heat at night, so the animals park there when the air gets chilly. They sit in the dark and cause many a "stumbling" situation. During the daylight, they line up in the shade of the telegraph pole trying to escape the heat.

MEMORIES OF the stay in Australia include the "Coral Sea Celebration" observed the first week of May when the country commemorates the big World War II naval victory. American Navy and Marine personnel are joined by Australian service people in the elaborate festivities. Dean represented the American Naval forces and laid a wreath, and Lynn was part of the American Girl Scout color guard.

"Standdown" is observed during part of December and January when everything shuts down and everyone takes their vacation at the same time.

Lynne discussed school, mentioning the curriculum is similar to that in the states and that even in the high school the teachers change rooms instead of the pupils, that is for all subjects except those in a laboratory. The system is divided into two sections, first through 7th grade and then high school. Most students drop out after the 10th grade.

The governing student council is called the "prefects," and those cited for disobedience are given "yard duty." There are no proms or social events of that type, but the big celebration of the lifetime is the 21st birthday anniversary when a bang-up party is held. The colleges are private schools, and the universities are not co-educational.

UNIFORMS ARE mandatory in the upper grades, and many wear them in the elementary grades. Each division or group has its particular pattern which may be made up or bought ready-made. Most are shirtwaist dresses or a tunic with a white shirt and man's tie. Girls wear heavy duty stockings and straw hats, and jewelry is not permitted. For younger boys the uniform has short pants, and all must wear ties. Jeans are not permitted.

The clothes washing cycle which Lynne learned in home economics was simply — blue it — boil it — rinse it — and iron it. She earned a life-saving certificate and medallion as part of the school swimming curriculum, and spent several sessions at the crippled children's summer camp where she had complete charge of one child.

Diane tried to explain to me how the game "Red Rover" was played, a different style from that in America. She and Lynn both took guitar lessons while they were there. Diane had an interesting time learning that the "chips" in "fish and chips" were french fries; that "lolly water" meant lolly pop, and was disappointed because no pop corn is available anywhere. She told me about the new type of slumber or pajama party with different customs in effect.

JOAN AND Dean spoke on the real "blue laws" in effect — pubs until recently closed at 6 p.m., but now are open until 10. There are no beer parlors anywhere except in the hotels or private clubs. Beer is sold cold, not warm as it is in England, and served with a pressure hose extending the length of the bar. The American fishbowl is called a "schooner," and customers many times are surprised at what they receive after giving the wrong order.

Upon leaving Australia and after some extensive traveling, the family picked up their car in Rome and toured Europe. Mrs. Carpenter mentioned that apart from the Taj Mahal in India, nothing surpasses the beauty of Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Cozzens hadn't seen the children for four years, so the visit is a big treat. The home has many remembrances of Australia, a kangaroo fur ottoman, a kangaroo foot bottle opener, arrangements of dried flowers, beautiful pictures, kangaroo fur purses and many other items.

Dean has left for new assignment at San Bernadino, and his family will join him shortly.

Dean Carpenter, missile project executive, points to the area of Australia where he and his family resided for two years while he was associated with a three-nation missile operation.

Arsenal manages the program for the ARPA, an agency of the Department of Defense.

Dean managed all missile launch operations, including launch site equipment installations, missile preparations and other operations. The SPARTA program uses refurbished Redstone missiles as boosters with upper-stage solid motors to hurl a series of experimental payloads high above the Woomera Range.

At the top of the trajectory, the Sparta missile upper stage accelerates the payloads back into the earth's atmosphere at ICBM re-entry velocities. As the payloads re-enter, data is acquired by ARPA radar and other sensors.

By using modified operational equipment such as Redstone, the engineers estimate that SPARTA's goal can be achieved at substantially reduced costs compared to using new equipment developed especially for the program.

The Redstone is being used as a booster section of the SPARTA missile with two newly-developed stages for additional re-entry velocity and the newly-designed payload.

The testing re-entry analysis will be brought to America, and following a data symposium to be held in Australia, the results will be shared by the cooperative undertaking.

THERE WERE 5,000 people connected with the Woomera Missile Range owned by the Commonwealth of Australia. The Carpenter family resided in Adelaide where there were 30 families in the American Missile Community. There were just eight families residing at Woomera, and Dean flew to work, coming home for the week-ends.

Life on the continent was very interesting for the Carpenters. The people have a friendly attitude towards the United States and the American flag is displayed very much.

Most people live near the coast with very few in the center of the continent. The Carpenters lived near the Gulf of St. Vincent.

All business places close up at noon Saturday providing a free week-end and much more family life. Only the "deli" remained open for emergency food provision. It is impossible to pick up a sandwich—they are not available—you may just purchase a "pastry" or "pie." The family

Outdoor Notes

By HARRY STEWART
Review Staff Member

PLANS ARE IN THE MAKING for the opening of Highlandtown Lake July 20.

The Division of Wildlife and The Review will co-sponsor a brief program in the morning before the lake is opened to the public for fishing.

A fishing "derby" or contest will be held and prizes offered.

I will meet Tuesday afternoon at Akron with wildlife officials to go over the arrangements. The details will be outlined next week.

The 170-acre lake should provide excellent fishing. It has been years in the making and is a welcome addition to the recreational facilities of Columbiana County.

Certain fishing restrictions will be in force until September. Bass and muskies must be returned. All other fish may be kept.

FISHING on the local scene has been fairly good. Soft craws are beginning to show up in Beaver Creek and are one of the finest baits around.

Some very nice smallmouths are being caught along with numerous small ones.

Now that the nights are getting warmer, action should pick up with surface plugs late in the evening and after dark.

One of the secrets of using surface lures is "take it easy." Pop out a lure next to a weed bed along the shore and leave it there. Wait until the rings in the water disappear. Then twitch your line lightly to give the plug a little movement.

Often this is all it takes to make a bass lunge at the lure. Even in retrieving, the action should be very slow. Sometimes the bass will follow the plug and not hit unless you stop reeling in the line.

Bass get more particular as the summer days grow hotter and the water warms. During the day, it is best to fish the deeper holes. Fish will stay on the bottom near rocks or other obstructions. In the evening, they start moving into shallow water to feed.

Don't pass up a stretch of water just because it is only about a foot deep. The bass often will be there, even if you don't see them. Also, move very quietly for fish are more easily spooked in shallow water.

A LOCAL GROUP of fishermen hit it big in Canada. Making the two week excursion were Robert Bertschy, Raymond Squires and Ricky Squires of Calcutta, Jack Jones of Wellsview, Otis McFadden and Buck McFadden of Grimms Bridge, Jerry Crisp of Lisbon and Darrel Jones of St. Albans, W. Va.

They fished Roger Lake in northern Quebec, portaging down the Ottawa and Roger Rivers to reach the lake.

They caught several walleyes averaging 18 inches. The largest was five pounds. They also landed 54 northern pike from 26 to 40½ inches and 21 bass from three to four pounds. All were caught on artificial lures.

UGLY, BUT INTERESTING. It's a rare angler who hasn't had at least one encounter with the sharp spine found on the dorsal fin and also the pectoral fins of the catfish.

In Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia, the brown bullhead is a year-round customer and one of the most widely distributed members of this family of scaleless fishes.

The bullhead inhabits lakes, ponds and sluggish streams. It normally is a bottom dweller whose menu consists of a wide variety of food items.

The slow-moving bullhead rarely exceeds 12 to 14 inches in length, but can put up a prolonged pulling contest when hooked.

Traditionally, catfish are caught with a cane pole using worms for bait. But more sport is derived from the use of light tackle. A float that holds the bait just off the bottom and a split to hold it vertical are required. Bottom fishing is just as productive.

If variety is the spice of life, then bullhead baits certainly are "spicy" in more than one sense. Some of the favorites with the experts are soured clams, rancid meat, spoiled liver, soap and pieces of sponge rubber soaked in extracts of some of these items.

Many catfish fishermen prefer "chumming". Scatter one of the above catfish baits in your favorite catfish water for a day or two before you wish to fish. The whiskery, flat heads will congregate to feed on the banquet you have provided.

After they have grown accustomed to feeding in this spot, choose a warm, damp evening and visit the spot. Two rods complete with bobbers, a can of your favorite bait and a damp gunny sack to hold your captives complete your equipment. An hour or two should furnish the basic ingredients for a fish fry. Secrecy is necessary lest others find and plunder your chum spot.

For all-around fishing fun and good eating, too, the "cattie" is hard to beat.

A CASE FOR CRAPPIES. The nice thing about crappies is they seem to come by the case.

Catch one. Catch a dozen. That's the way crappie fishing goes, observe the angling fans. This oversized member of the panfish family not only provides plenty of action, but tastes so well in the frying pan he deserves the attention of every angler who picks up a rod and reel.

Since crappies run in schools, where you find one, you will usually find them in great numbers. The quickest way to locate a "bed" is by trolling a small lure or minnow very slowly, covering a wide expanse of water. Very often they'll congregate in spots offshore where they would be difficult to locate by any other means.

In addition to trying various areas, it is wise to troll at different depths, generally between 6 and 15 feet. Since almost every warm water lake contains panfish, patience will eventually pay off.

When a single fish is located, cut the motor and cast in all directions around the boat to find the main school. When you hit it, you'll know soon enough. Flaties are always hungry. When fishing drops off, this is the signal the school has moved on, and is your cue to resume probing again.

The second way to discover crappies is preferred in some quarters, but frowned on in others. Simply join up with other boats which are working over known beds. Crappie fishermen, like their quarry, are usually an accommodating lot.

So while trout and bass are enjoying the publicity, sneak off for a day of crappie fishing. This little rascal seldom lets you down.

HERE WE GO AGAIN. Each year pleas are made to the general public asking they purchase a license before going fishing. And, each year, hundreds are cited for failing to have a valid license.

Often officers hear "I just forgot to buy one," or "I wanted to see if the fish were biting first." Others say "I didn't think you could catch me because I thought I would see you coming in your uniform."

There are instances where a license is not required. These are as follows:

When the person is, (1) less than 18 years of age; (2) identified as receiving a pension from the Ohio Division of Aid for the Aged; (3) physically handicapped and requires assistance to fish according to a doctor's certificate; (4) the individual providing assistance to a handicapped fisherman; (5) fishing only in a private pond; (6) fishing only on land or water which he or his parents own, except where such land is in, or borders on state parks or state owned lakes; (7) fishing only on land and water where he or his parents are tenants and on which he resides; and (8) a member of the Armed Forces carrying current annual leave orders.

So do yourself a favor and buy a license.

BIRD EGG COLLECTING ILLEGAL. People, especially children, find bird nests and eggs not only interesting but so irresistible that hundreds of eggs and nests are collected every spring.

Birds aid man in his battle with insects and weeds. The U.S. Department of Agriculture states that the chinchbug, which destroys 20 million dollars worth of wheat annually, has 29 kinds of bird enemies.

Some birds feed primarily on weed seeds and unfortunately make occasional pests of themselves on farmers' cultivated fruits and grains. While it is probably true that birds do not effect enough pressure upon insects and weeds to eliminate chemical sprays, it's probably equally true that they help prevent severe damage on crops which are not normally sprayed or dusted.

Conservationists recognized the value of protecting nesting birds, as well as their nests, eggs and young. Consequently, laws have been passed which makes it illegal to possess songbirds and waterfowl eggs, nests or their young.

Aside from their practical value, birds have an esthetic importance. These feathered creatures are a welcome part of nature because of their graceful flight, color and cheerful songs.

Birds that seem to be living peaceful lives are actually involved in the never ending struggle for existence. Each of us can help the birds in their perpetual struggle for survival by informing our children of the economic and esthetic values of bird life.

BAD YEAR FOR DUCKS. Waterfowl nesting conditions are far from ideal this year, the Interior Department's Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife is finding in its survey of the northern prairie "duck factory" regions. Potholes are reported exceptionally dry.

The vital breeding grounds include the Dakotas, western Minnesota, eastern Montana, and large parts of Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Manitoba. Potholes are glacier-formed ponds and lakes which are ideal duck nesting sites with the right combination of snow and rain fall.

The May observations of water levels in this region are made by the Bureau in cooperation with the Canadian Wildlife Service, State and Provincial agencies, and Ducks Unlimited, Canada.

Nearly two out of every three ducks which come down the flyways are hatched in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta. Habitat in southern Manitoba and Saskatchewan is reported the worst it has been in the 20 years since the surveys began. Southern Alberta was also described by aerial survey crews as "bad."

A few small pockets in south central Saskatchewan are reported "somewhat better," with natural water to produce some broods. Park lands north of the Bald Prairie also have some fair to good brood water.

Lands in the Dakotas are definitely drier than a year ago, but some areas are "fair." Montana has practically no natural potholes, although stock dams are in fair to good condition.

The situation, which could severely affect waterfowl production, has been caused by a "mild" winter and less than normal rainfall since last summer.

Without considerable rainfall in coming weeks, many ducks, has been caused by a "mild" winter and less than are on the wing.

The Younger Set

TEENS PUT IT TO PARENTS: Teen panelists at the PTA convention in San Diego, Calif., gave parent audience some food for thought. Exotic food, maybe, but well worth tasting and digesting. For one thing parents were urged to stop flitting around to PTA meetings once in awhile and stay home to communicate with their kids. They also indicated irritation at forever being set apart as "teens" in society. Some felt parents were actually too permissive with teens and therefore "allowed" kids to get into trouble.

PSYCHIATRISTS TRY TO EXPLAIN UNREST: "Speedup of evolutionary process more than a revolution." "Not a loss of values but a creation of values out of which will come greater values than ever before." "A struggle toward health in search of a universalistic value system." So say the leaders of the American Psychiatric Association. They came up with "the spit on daddy" handle for teen skepticism regarding traditional value systems in religion, politics, economics and other areas. They went on about the brotherhood of man, transcending materialism, abolishing war and creating a real world government. Statement by one man: "We can look at violence as a sign of health. Certainly in seeking values." The same doctor acclaimed the Columbia University strike as "commendable." Goes on to say, "the older generation does well that which is not worth doing." The net outcome of the meeting was to issue a statement urging adults not to panic at youth unrest.

WEARY QUERY: Nancy Sinatra, of the bleached blond locks, has Hollywood guessing. How could her hair be really long, as it seemed to be in most of her appearances, when it was so short-short in a recent Hollywood charity fashion show? Even the best wig couldn't possibly hide all that thick long blond hair, or could it? By the by, another dark-dressed Italian daughter of a famous singing daddy now is a blonde bombshell. It's pretty Deana Martin, daughter of Dean. It's really an improvement. Let's hope Deana stays blond and beautiful.

DRUG USE THE ANTITHESIS OF SCIENTISM?: Are users seeking effect, feeling, sensation, subjectivity?? The pervasiveness of scientific technology in our culture and its trend toward depersonalization is a reason advanced by some medics for the seeming abandon with which students accept dangerous drugs. One problem: Students in direct "touch" with drugs are far more sophisticated about them than those who seek to teach them about their use! Lawmakers need use-abuse education.

MAHARISHI ON THE SLIDE?: Meditation mentor seems to be losing his glow and go. Being abandoned by the publicity set now that the patina has worn thin. Maharishi Yogi, twirling roses, says of the Beatles, "I'll love them whatever they say. As long as they meditate, they will be mine." Meanwhile, the Beach Boys tour with the round little man was mysteriously cancelled "because of the Maharishi's health." A few days after the cancellation the Maharishi was back at work on a film he is making for Four Star International. Described as an "entertainment" documentary shot in India, Istanbul, Athens and the San Fernando Valley, the film will return the International Meditation Society fifty per cent of the profits after the cost of the film has been recovered. The Maharishi founded the I.M. Society, and it isn't clear how much of the money will reach him as he professes a desire to "reach more people." One sure fact — some of his "heat" has vanished with the exodus of the "name" disciples.

WHEN IN DOUBT. "Some of my relatives were watching, and said I didn't do it right —so this is my second baptism today," remarked Mrs. Paul Robertson of Marion, Iowa, as she emerged from a mass baptism at Omaha, Neb., Friday during the annual Jehovah's Witnesses meeting.

You And The Law

The police cruiser's siren wailed and its red beacon flashed as it pursued the speeding car down the highway. Finally, the police cruiser overtook the car and brought it to a halt.

"Step out of the car," the policeman ordered the driver, "then show me your operator's license."

The driver complied. However, as he got out of the car, a paper sack on the seat tipped over and a large quantity of money spilled onto the pavement.

THE POLICEMAN drew his service revolver and commanded, "All right! Get those hands over your head!"

"What for? I haven't done anything wrong," the driver protested.

"Maybe not, but this looks awfully strange," the policeman replied. The policeman then called to his partner and said, "Search this man and then the car."

"Hold on," the driver protested again. "You can't search the car. You need a warrant to do that. There's nothing wrong here."

"There was a filling station robbery about an hour ago in Centertown," the policeman replied. "The robber escaped in a car similar to yours. You are a prime suspect now in that I've already got you on a speeding charge."

CAN THE policeman search this car without a warrant?

Yes. The search of an automobile is permitted without a warrant because, under certain circumstances, the mobility of the car precludes the feasibility of obtaining one. If there is no "urgency" because of the mobility, then there is no justification for such a search.

The police officer may search or seize articles found in a motor vehicle following an arrest for a "traffic violation." This applies where circumstances provide a reasonable basis for believing that the search is necessary for the officer's protection, to prevent an escape, or the officer has probable cause to believe that a crime has been, is being committed, or is about to be committed.

Outdoor Notes

PLANS ARE IN THE MAKING for the opening of Highlandtown Lake July 20.

The Division of Wildlife and The Review will co-sponsor a brief program in the morning before the lake is opened to the public for fishing.

A fishing "derby" or contest will be held and prizes offered.

I will meet Tuesday afternoon at Akron with wildlife officials to go over the arrangements. The details will be outlined next week.

The 170-acre lake should provide excellent fishing. It has been years in the making and is a welcome addition to the recreational facilities of Columbiana County.

Certain fishing restrictions will be in force until September. Bass and muskies must be returned. All other fish may be kept.

FISHING on the local scene has been fairly good. Soft craws are beginning to show up in Beaver Creek and are one of the finest baits around.

Some very nice smallmouths are being caught along with numerous small ones.

Now that the nights are getting warmer, action should pick up with surface plugs late in the evening and after dark.

One of the secrets of using surface lures is "take it easy." Plop out a lure next to a weed bed along the shore and leave it there. Wait until the rings in the water disappear. Then twitch your line lightly to give the plug a little movement.

Often this is all it takes to make a bass lunge at the lure. Even in retrieving, the action should be very slow. Sometimes the bass will follow the plug and not hit unless you stop reeling in the line.

Bass get more particular as the summer days grow hotter and the water warms. During the day, it is best to fish the deeper holes. Fish will stay on the bottom near rocks or other obstructions. In the evening, they start moving into shallow water to feed.

Don't pass up a stretch of water just because it is only about a foot deep. The bass often will be there, even if you don't see them. Also, move very quietly for fish are more easily spooked in shallow water.

A LOCAL GROUP of fishermen hit it big in Canada. Making the two week excursion were Robert Bertschy, Raymond Squires and Ricky Squires of Calcutta, Jack Jones of Wellsville, Otis McFadden and Buck McFadden of Grimms Bridge, Jerry Crisp of Lisbon and Darrel Jones of St. Albans, W. Va.

They fished Roger Lake in northern Quebec, portaging down the Ottawa and Roger Rivers to reach the lake.

They caught several walleyes averaging 18 inches. The largest was five pounds. They also landed 54 northern pike from 26 to 40½ inches and 21 bass from three to four pounds. All were caught on artificial lures.

UGLY, BUT INTERESTING. It's a rare angler who hasn't had at least one encounter with the sharp spine found on the dorsal fin and also the pectoral fins of the catfish.

In Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia, the brown bullhead is a year round customer and one of the most widely distributed members of this family of scaleless fishes.

The bullhead inhabits lakes, ponds and sluggish streams. It normally is a bottom dweller whose menu consists of a wide variety of food items.

The slow-moving bullhead rarely exceeds 12 to 14 inches in length, but can put up a prolonged pulling contest when hooked.

Traditionally, catfish are caught with a cane pole using worms for bait. But more sport is derived from the use of light tackle. A float that holds the bait just off the bottom and a split to hold it vertical are required. Bottom fishing is just as productive.

If variety is the spice of life, then bullhead baits certainly are "spicy" in more than one sense. Some of the favorites with the experts are soured clams, rancid meat, spoiled liver, soap and pieces of sponge rubber soaked in extracts of some of these items.

Many catfish fishermen prefer "chumming." Scatter one of the above catfish baits in your favorite catfish water for a day or two before you wish to fish. The whiskery, flat heads will congregate to feed on the banquet you have provided.

After they have grown accustomed to feeding in this spot, choose a warm, damp evening and visit the spot. Two rods complete with bobbers, a can of your favorite bait and a damp gunny sack to hold your captives complete your equipment. An hour or two should furnish the basic ingredients for a fish fry. Secrecy is necessary lest others find and plunder your chum spot.

For all-around fishing fun and good eating, too, the "cattie" is hard to beat.

A CASE FOR CRAPPIES. The nice thing about crappies is they seem to come by the case.

Catch one. Catch a dozen. That's the way crappie fishing goes, observe the angling fans. This oversized member of the panfish family not only provides plenty of action, but tastes so well in the frying pan he deserves the attention of every angler who picks up a rod and reel.

Since crappies run in schools, where you find one, you will usually find them in great numbers. The quickest way to locate a "bed" is by trolling a small lure or minnow very slowly, covering a wide expanse of water. Very often they'll congregate in spots offshore where they would be difficult to locate by any other means.

In addition to trying various areas, it is wise to troll at different depths, generally between 6 and 15 feet. Since almost every warm water lake contains panfish, patience will eventually pay off.

When a single fish is located, cut the motor and cast in all directions around the boat to find the main school. When you hit it, you'll know soon enough. Flaties are always hungry. When fishing drops off, this is the signal the school has moved on, and is your cue to resume probing again.

The second way to discover crappies is preferred in some quarters, but frowned on in others. Simply join up with other boats which are working over known beds. Crappie fishermen, like their quarry, are usually an accommodating lot.

So while trout and bass are enjoying the publicity, sneak off for a day of crappie fishing. This little rascal seldom lets you down.

HERE WE GO AGAIN. Each year pleas are made to the general public asking they purchase a license before going fishing. And, each year, hundreds are cited for failing to have a valid license.

Often officers hear "I just forgot to buy one," or "I wanted to see if the fish were biting first." Others say "I didn't think you could catch me because I thought I would see you coming in your uniform."

There are instances where a license is not required. These are as follows:

When the person is, (1) less than 18 years of age; (2) identified as receiving a pension from the Ohio Division of Aid for the Aged; (3) physically handicapped and requires assistance to fish according to a doctor's certificate; (4) the individual providing assistance to a handicapped fisherman; (5) fishing only in a private pond; (6) fishing only on land or water which he or his parents own, except where such land is in, or borders on state parks or state owned lakes; (7) fishing only on land and water where he or his parents are tenants and on which he resides; and (8) a member of the Armed Forces carrying current annual leave orders. So do yourself a favor and buy a license.

BIRD EGG COLLECTING ILLEGAL. People, especially children, find bird nests and eggs not only interesting but so irresistible that hundreds of eggs and nests are collected every spring.

Birds aid man in his battle with insects and weeds. The U.S. Department of Agriculture states that the chinchbug, which destroys 20 million dollars worth of wheat annually, has 29 kinds of bird enemies.

Some birds feed primarily on weed seeds and unfortunately make occasional pests of themselves on farmers' cultivated fruits and grains. While it is probably true that birds do not effect enough pressure upon insects and weeds to eliminate chemical sprays, it's probably equally true that they help prevent severe damage on crops which are not normally sprayed or dusted.

Conservationists recognized the value of protecting nesting birds, as well as their nests, eggs and young. Consequently, laws have been passed which makes it illegal to possess songbirds and waterfowl eggs, nests or their young.

Aside from their practical value, birds have an esthetic importance. These feathered creatures are a welcome part of nature because of their graceful flight, color and cheerful songs.

Birds that seem to be living peaceful lives are actually involved in the never ending struggle for existence. Each of us can help the birds in their perpetual struggle for survival by informing our children of the economic and esthetic values of bird life.

BAD YEAR FOR DUCKS. Waterfowl nesting conditions are far from ideal this year, the Interior Department's Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife is finding in its survey of the northern prairie "duck factory" regions. Potholes are reported exceptionally dry.

The vital breeding grounds include the Dakotas, western Minnesota, eastern Montana, and large parts of Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Manitoba. Potholes are glacier-formed ponds and lakes which are ideal duck nesting sites with the right combination of snow and rain fall.

The May observations of water levels in this region are made by the Bureau in cooperation with the Canadian Wildlife Service, State and Provincial agencies, and Ducks Unlimited, Canada.

Nearly two out of every three ducks which come down the flyways are hatched in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta. Habitat in southern Manitoba and Saskatchewan is reported the worst it has been in the 20 years since the surveys began. Southern Alberta was also described by aerial survey crews as "bad."

A few small pockets in south central Saskatchewan are reported "somewhat better," with natural water to produce some broods. Park lands north of the Bald Prairie also have some fair to good brood water.

Lands in the Dakotas are definitely drier than a year ago, but some areas are "fair." Montana has practically no natural potholes, although stock dams are in fair to good condition.

The situation, which could severely affect waterfowl production, has been caused by a "mild" winter and less than normal rainfall since last summer.

Without considerable rainfall in coming weeks, many ducks, has been caused by a "mild" winter and less than are on the wing.

The Younger Set

TEENS PUT IT TO PARENTS: Teen panelists at the PTA convention in San Diego, Calif., gave parent audience some food for thought. Exotic food, maybe, but well worth tasting and digesting. For one thing parents were urged to stop flitting around to PTA meetings once in awhile and stay home to communicate with their kids. They also indicated irritation at forever being set apart as "teens" in society. Some felt parents were actually too permissive with teens and therefore "allowed" kids to get into trouble.

PSYCHIATRISTS TRY TO EXPLAIN UNREST: "Speedup of evolutionary process more than a revolution." "Not a loss of values but a creation of values out of which will come greater values than ever before." "A struggle toward health in search of a universalistic value system." So say the leaders of the American Psychiatric Association. They came up with "the spit on daddy" handle for teen skepticism regarding traditional value systems in religion, politics, economics and other areas. They went on about the brotherhood of man, transcending materialism, abolishing war and creating a real world government. Statement by one man: "We can look at violence as a sign of health. Certainly in seeking values." The same doctor acclaimed the Columbia University strike as "commendable." Goes on to say, "the older generation does well that which is not worth doing." The net outcome of the meeting was to issue a statement urging adults not to panic at youth unrest.

WEARY QUERY: Nancy Sinatra, of the bleached blond locks, has Hollywood guessing. How could her hair be really long, as it seemed to be in most of her appearances, when it was so short-short in a recent Hollywood charity fashion show? Even the best wig couldn't possibly hide all that thick long blond hair, or could it? By the by, another dark-tressed Italian daughter of a famous singing daddy now is a blonde bombshell. It's pretty Deana Martin, daughter of Dean. It's really an improvement. Let's hope Deana stays blond and beautiful.

DRUG USE THE ANTITHESIS OF SCIENTISM?: Are users seeking effect, feeling, sensation, subjectivity?? The pervasiveness of scientific technology in our culture and its trend toward depersonalization is a reason advanced by some medics for the seeming abandon with which students accept dangerous drugs. One problem: Students in direct "touch" with drugs are far more sophisticated about them than those who seek to teach them about their use! Lawmakers need use-abuse education.

MAHARISHI ON THE SLIDE?: Meditation mentor seems to be losing his glow and go. Being abandoned by the publicity set now that the patina has worn thin. Maharishi Yogi, twirling roses, says of the Beatles, "I'll love them whatever they say. As long as they meditate, they will be mine." Meanwhile, the Beach Boys tour with the round little man was mysteriously cancelled "because of the Maharishi's health." A few days after the cancellation the Maharishi was back at work on a film he is making for Four Star International. Described as an "entertainment" documentary shot in India, Istanbul, Athens and the San Fernando Valley, the film will return the International Meditation Society fifty per cent of the profits after the cost of the film has been recovered. The Maharishi founded the I.M. Society, and it isn't clear how much of the money will reach him as he professes a desire to "reach more people." Cardinals Rally In 9th Then Nip Giants, 4-3, In 12th

Veale's 2-Hitter Stops Cubs, 4-0

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The St. Louis Cardinals and Cincinnati Reds came up with some late-inning lightning Friday night but the thunder belonged to the Houston Astros. And when the day's schedule was over it looked as though an earthquake had struck the National League standings.

The league-leading Cards tied the score with two out in the ninth inning, then edged San Francisco 4-3 on Tim McCarver's run-scoring single in the 12th.

A two-run double by Lee May Jr. in the 12th gave the Reds a 2-0 triumph over Los Angeles. And the light-hitting Astros exploded for five runs with two out in the ninth and outslugged Atlanta 13-9.

In another night game, Chris Short and the Philadelphia Phillies polished off the New York Mets 3-1. Bob Veale spun a two-hitter as Pittsburgh downed the Chicago Cubs 4-0 in an afternoon contest.

St. Louis' come-from-behind victory increased the Cards' lead to nine games over Pittsburgh and Cincinnati, tied for fourth starting the day but now in a virtual deadlock for second. They leaped over the Braves and Giants, each 9½ games back.

Philadelphia moved into sixth place, 11 games out, while the Dodgers dropped to seventh, 12 back. The Mets, Cubs and Astros remained eighth, ninth and 10th, respectively.

Ninth-inning singles by Ed Spiezio, Julian Javier and Curt Flood enabled the Cardinals to send the game into extra innings.

Flood opened the 12th with a single off Joe Gibbon. After Orlando Cepeda forced him, Mike Shannon doubled Cepeda to third and McCarver, who had failed twice in bases-loaded situations, punched a single to left.

The Giants took a 3-0 lead in the sixth on Willie McCovey's sacrifice fly and Jim Hart's two-run homer. But the Cards got two runs back in the seventh on Jim Davenport's three-base throwing error.

Don Drysdale of Los Angeles and George Culver of Cincinnati traded five-hit shutouts through 10 innings but both had left for pinch hitters when May doubled off Don Sutton in the 12th after Tony Perez singled and stole second and Johnny Bench was purposely passed.

Atlanta reliever Claude Raymond, who scored an unearned run in the seventh that gave the Braves a 9-8 lead, retired the first two Houston batters in the ninth before the roof fell in.

Hector Torres singled, Rusty Staub walked and Jim Wynn singled home the tying run. Denis Menke, traded from Atlanta to Houston last winter, then slugged his second homer of the season and Doug Rader followed with his third round-tripper.

Veale, a towering left-hander, retired 22 straight batters from the first to the eighth innings as the Pirates beat the Cubs for their 18th win in 24 games in a surge that has carried them from last place less than a month ago.

They scored all their runs in the fifth on Donn Clendenon's RBI single, Bill Mazeroski's two-run double and a single by Maury Wills.

Short fired a five-hitter, struck out 11 and started a two-run rally with a sixth-inning single as the Phillies topped the Mets. Tom Seaver had held the Phils hitless until Richie Allen tripled to open the fifth and scored on Tony Taylor's sacrifice fly.

Drops Second Game

Post 374 Falls To Columbiana

Post 374 was surprised by Columbiana and dropped its second contest of the season while having a winning streak interrupted.

Columbiana came up with five runs in the fourth inning then went on to score an 8-3 victory Friday on the Columbiana diamond.

Post 374 committed four errors and Columbiana also took advantage of several bases on balls.

Columbiana sent 11 batters to the plate in the fourth inning and chased starting pitcher Mike Caruso.

The winners went on to score three more runs in the seventh inning.

Post 374 sent two runs across the plate in the sixth inning and added one more in the seventh.

T. Weikart paced Columbiana with three hits in three trips.

Tom Chambers collected two of Post 374's five hits. Shilling was the winning pitcher, scattering five hits and striking out seven batters. He did not issue one walk.

Post 374 will play Cadiz at Colt Field Sunday at 3:30 p.m.

Hotel Nine, Medics Gain LL Victories

Travelers Hotel, which has wrapped up the American Division title in the Little League, scored a 21-7 victory over Veteran Plate Glass and the Medics gained a 2-1 victory over Parsons in another game.

Travelers, which compiled a 17-1 record for the season, collected 16 hits including home runs by Bob Boughner and Pete Shaw. Shaw also had two other hits for the winners. Boughner was the winning pitcher. For Veteran Glass, Robbins collected three hits.

In a pitcher's battle, Greg Golding of the Medics won the decision over Mark McGeehan. Golding gave up five hits and McGeehan six.

The Medics scored a run in the first inning and the winning run in the fourth. Parsons' lone rally came in the last of the fourth. Roby Ward and Dick Hocking had two hits each for the winners.

Goes To Lakers For 3 Players, Cash

Chamberlain Joins West, Baylor

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Wilt Chamberlain, the Philly 76ers' brilliant but stormy center who fashioned the dunk shot into a modern-day sports legend, has been traded to the Los Angeles Lakers for three players and cash, the Associated Press has learned.

Chamberlain, greatest offensive player in National Basketball Association history, was dealt to the West Coast team for center Darrall Imhoff, guard Archie Clark and forward Jerry Chambers. The amount of cash involved was not disclosed.

It also was learned Friday that Jack Ramsay, 76ers' general manager for three years, was chosen as the new coach to fill the post vacated by Alex Hannum. Hannum, only coach to lead the team to an NBA title, resigned recently to go with the Oakland club of the rival American Basketball Association.

The trade was expected to be announced next Monday or Tuesday. But Chamberlain, contacted in San Francisco Friday night by the Los Angeles Times, said there will be no announcement concerning him on either of those days because he hopes to meet with 76er owner Irv Kosloff at that time and "wind up my business or settle it with the 76ers." He added:

"There can be no trade involving me without my permission."

"I do like the West Coast and expect to wind up here. I don't know right now exactly where I will wind up, but I think I'm going to make a move."

The trade obviously solved a dilemma that has troubled the 76ers since the end of the 1967-68 season. Ramsay admitted the 76ers were having trouble signing the record-breaking 7-foot-1 star—as is the case every year.

Although the general manager would neither confirm nor deny the trade, he also said that "it appears unlikely that we will sign him" for the 1967-68 NBA season.

"If you're looking for odds," Ramsay said, "I'd have to say that they were not in favor of my signing him. And if we didn't sign him... we'd have to find another solution."

Asked flatly, "Has Chamberlain been traded?" Ramsay replied:

"No comment. We have made no statement and we have no comment to make on that."

In Los Angeles, the Lakers' management took the same posture. Laker owner Jack Kent Cooke and General Manager Fred

Schaus were reported to be out of the city. However, informed sources noted that the Chamberlain deal has been a persistent rumor and the Lakers' management have never issued a strong denial, only "no comment."

With Chamberlain going to Los Angeles he will join two other stars of the NBA, Jerry West and Elgin Baylor to form an awesome scoring machine.

The 32-year old Chamberlain a Philadelphia product, has been a controversial figure on and off the court despite his obvious brilliance among pro basketball's elite.

It was the contract impasse among other things, which apparently led to the deal. Chamberlain, among the highest-salaried athletes at $250,000-a-year plus, reportedly wanted more money, plus a say in the naming of the team's coach.

Paul Brown Returns To Sidelines

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Paul Brown, one of football's renowned coaches, has ended five years of inactivity and says, "It really doesn't feel like I've been away."

Looking trim and tanned in a black baseball cap with the letters CB engraved in orange, Brown watched about 50 rookies check into the first camp of the Cincinnati Bengals Friday.

Brown is coach, general manager and part owner of the Bengals, newest entry in the American Football League.

"This is like an adventure for me," said the 58-year-old former Cleveland coach who molded the Browns into one of the top powers in the National Football League.

The Bengals opened camp here at Wilmington College, and 30 more rookies are due Saturday before the veterans check in July 10.

The new club already has sold 18,000 season tickets, the biggest advance sale for any sport in Cincinnati history and the biggest in the league for an expansion club.

Bob Gibson Is Named Player Of Month

CINCINNATI (AP) — Right-hander Bob Gibson, whose five consecutive shutouts for St. Louis last month almost matched Don Drysdale's record, has been selected as the National League's "player of the month" for June.

He received 43 of 50 votes cast by baseball writers and broadcasters participating in the monthly poll.

Trevino Holds Stroke Lead In Buick Firing

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (AP) — Lee Trevino, the 28-year-old super sensation of the PGA circuit, and late-blooming veteran Julius Boros were the front runners going into today's third round of the $125,000 Buick Open at Warwick Hills.

Trevino, who gained fame with his victory in the U.S. Open, shot a four-under-par 68 over the 7,001-yard, par 72 course Friday to move him to the lead after two rounds.

Added to his 70 in the first round, his 138 total score gave him a one-stroke lead over the 47-year-old Boros.

Steady with his long game and putting with a new club, Boros carved a 60 out of Warwick. Boros needed 30 putts in each round. He said he changed putters after the Cleveland Open, where he finished way off pace last week.

Trevino made the turn at 33, three under par, with the help of an eagle on the par 5, 491-yard 13th hole.

Two strokes off the pace at 140 were Tom Weiskopf, the second leading money winner on the PGA tour; Fred Marti of Baytown, Tex., and 25-year-old John Stevens of Wichita, Kan.

Marti was six under when a severe weather warning caused a half-hour halt in play late in the day. He came back and bogied the 16th and 17th holes to wind up with a 70.

Best Game I Ever Pitched Says Veale After 2-Hitter

CHICAGO (AP) — Hold it a minute. Don't concede the National League pennant to the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Cardinals appear to be making such a runaway of things that someone already has figured out the magic number and even delved into what the race would look like under a divisional setup.

But the Pittsburgh Pirates, in general, and southpaw Bob Veale, in particular, don't think they're out of it and proved it again Friday with a 4-0 victory over Chicago on Veale's two-hitter.

This made it eight victories in the last nine games for the Pirates who started their charge

Chester Nine Wins Fourth Straight, 7-2

The Chester Merchants won their fourth straight game by defeating Wellsville, 7-2, in the County League.

Bob Juszczak was the winning pitcher giving up three hits and single runs in the first and fourth innings. Chester scored two runs in the first and three in the fourth before adding single tallies in the fifth and sixth frames.

Juszczak helped his own cause with a triple while Clutter collected two hits. Moorehead had two of Wellsville's three hits.

Freehan Belts 2 As Tigers Roll

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Fourth of July was over, but that didn't stop Bill Freehan from firing a couple of more rockets out of Tiger Stadium.

The husky All-Star catcher cannonaded Oakland pitching with a pair of three-run homers Friday night in powering the American League-leading Tigers to an 8-5 victory over the Athletics.

Freehan now has 14 homers — five in the last five games, all of them victories for the Tigers, who have won 10 of their last 11.

In other AL action, Boston topped Minnesota 4-2, the Chicago White Sox beat Washington 4-2, the New York Yankees nipped Baltimore 2-1 and Cleveland beat California 5-1.

Freehan climaxed a four-run Detroit first with a 400-foot shot. His second blast came in the fifth and carried 430 feet into the left centerfield stands.

The six runs batted in gave Freehan 45 for the season. Last year he had 20 homers and 74 RBI.

Three of Oakland's runs Friday night came on Danny Carter's homer. The Athletics have lost seven straight.

Ken Harrelson started Boston on its way to a fifth straight victory by clubbing a three-run homer in the first inning. He now has 17 with 60 RBI. Cesar Tovar homered for the Twins who were replaced in fourth place by Boston.

Luis Aparicio and Duane Josephson provided the Chicago power and enabled Bob Priddy to get his first victory against four losses although he needed relief help from Wilbur Wood.

Aparicio hit a solo homer in the first, and Josephson got a two-run shot in the second. Priddy allowed Washington three hits before running into control trouble. Wood held the Senators hitless over the final three innings.

Pitcher Fritz Peterson singled to lead off the ninth, advanced on a fly ball and scored on Andy Kosco's two out single for New York's victory.

Peterson, who pitched a three-hitter, retired the first 15 Baltimore batters before Andy Etchebarren tripled in the sixth and scored on Mark Belanger's sacrifice fly.

Larry Brown drove in three runs with a pair of singles in Cleveland's victory over California. Two of his RBI came in a three-run ninth.

Sonny Siebert lost his shutout in the ninth of the rain-delayed game when Don Mincher homered. Stan Williams relieved following a walk and got the final out.

In Hancock County Court

Waterford Park Wins Case Against Jockeys

NEW CUMBERLAND — Waterford Park won a court case Friday involving the right of management to exclude any person, including jockeys, from entering the track. The decision may affect tracks throughout the country.

Hancock County Circuit Judge James McClure ruled against three jockeys who had filed a petition for re-admittance after they had been banished from the track last spring.

He said the track has the right to exclude anyone from its premises, including personnel issued licenses by the West Virginia State Racing Commission.

The suit was brought by jockeys Russell Applebee, Milton Dalgo, and Robert Wilkerson. They forced a summons against the Park and its three stewards charging their banishment was in violation of the state racing statutes.

Upon hearing the court's verdict, Waterford Park president James Edwards said, "I have always felt that it was the right of track owners to be selective despite the fact that anyone licensed is at the track at the invitation of the owner. I am delighted over the ruling."

Russians May Walk Off With Wimbledon Title

By GEOFFREY MILLER

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — The first Open Wimbledon Tennis Tournament, starting the world's highest paid professionals, could end up today with two unsung Russians winning a title for the sheer pleasure of it.

Alexander Metreveli and Olga Morozova were battling for the mixed doubles crown, the first Russians ever to reach a Wimbledon final.

The pair faced Australian amateurs Ken Fletcher and Mrs. Margaret Smith Court, winners of the title three times in the last five years.

The Soviet pair, topped two professionals, Fred Stolle of Australia and Mrs. Ann Jones of Britain, 6-3 12-10 in the semi-finals Friday.

Metreveli, 24, had previously caused an upset in the men's singles by eliminating veteran Los Angeles pro Pancho Gonzales.

Metreveli later fell to Dennis Ralston, the Bakersfield, Calif., pro, but Metreveli and Miss Morozova, 17, downed Gonzales and another pro, Rosemary Casals of San Francisco, on their way to the semifinals.

Meanwhile Mrs. Billie Jean King faced the tense atmosphere of the center court today in a bid to preserve the shaky reputation of the pros.

The dynamic little star from Long Beach, Calif., will defend her women's singles crown against Australian amateur Judy Tegart.

Later Mrs. King and Miss Casals were scheduled to meet Mrs. Jones and Francoise Durr of France in an all-pro women's doubles final.

Bill Toomey Defends His Decathlon Crown

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A field of 30 all-round track and field athletes, headed by defending champion Bill Toomey, go into action in the first half of the national AAU decathlon championship today.

A three-time champion, Toomey lives here but competes for the Southern California Striders. Injuries have prevented him from all-out practice drills in the 10 decathlon events.

Cardinals Rally In 9th Then Nip Giants, 4-3, In 12th

Veale's 2-Hitter Stops Cubs, 4-0

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON Associated Press Sports Writer

The St. Louis Cardinals and Cincinnati Reds came up with some late-inning lightning Friday night but the thunder belonged to the Houston Astros. And when the day's schedule was over it looked as though an earthquake had struck the National League standings.

The league-leading Cards tied the score with two out in the ninth inning, then edged San Francisco 4-3 on Tim McCarver's run-scoring single in the 12th.

A two-run double by Lee May* in the 12th gave the Reds a 2-0 triumph over Los Angeles. And the light-hitting Astros exploded for five runs with two out in the ninth and outslugged Atlanta 13-9.

In another night game, Chris Short and the Philadelphia Phillies polished off the New York Mets 3-1. Bob Veale spun a two-hitter as Pittsburgh downed the Chicago Cubs 4-0 in an afternoon contest.

St. Louis' come-from-behind victory increased the Cards' lead to nine games over Pittsburgh and Cincinnati, tied for fourth starting the day but now in a virtual deadlock for second. They leaped over the Braves and Giants, each 9 1/2 games back.

Philadelphia moved into sixth place, 11 games out, while the Dodgers dropped to seventh, 12 back. The Mets, Cubs and Astros remained eighth, ninth and 10th, respectively.

Ninth-inning singles by Ed Spiezio, Julian Javier and Curt Flood enabled the Cardinals to send the game into extra innings.

Flood opened the 12th with a single off Joe Gibbon. After Orlando Cepeda forced him, Mike Shannon doubled Cepeda to third and McCarver, who had failed twice in bases-loaded situations, punched a single to left.

The Giants took a 3-0 lead in the sixth on Willie McCovey's sacrifice fly and Jim Hart's two-run homer. But the Cards got two runs back in the seventh on Jim Davenport's three-base throwing error.

Drops Second Game

Post 374 Falls To Columbiana

Post 374 was surprised by Columbiana and dropped its second contest of the season while having a winning streak interrupted.

Columbiana came up with five runs in the fourth inning then went on to score an 8-3 victory Friday on the Columbiana diamond.

Post 374 committed four errors and Columbiana also took advantage of several bases on balls.

Columbiana sent 11 batters to the plate in the fourth inning and chased starting pitcher Mike Caruso.

The winners went on to score three more runs in the seventh inning.

Post 374 sent two runs across the plate in the sixth inning and added one more in the seventh.

T. Weikart paced Columbiana with three hits in three trips.

Goes To Lakers For 3 Players, Cash

Chamberlain Joins West, Baylor

By RALPH BERNSTEIN Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Wilt Chamberlain, the Philadelphia 76ers' brilliant but stormy center who fashioned the dunk shot into a modern-day sports legend, has been traded to the Los Angeles Lakers for three players and cash, the Associated Press has learned.

Chamberlain, greatest offensive player in National Basketball Association history, was dealt to the West Coast team for center Darrall Imhoff, guard Archie Clark and forward Jerry Chambers. The amount of cash involved was not disclosed.

It also was learned Friday that Jack Ramsay, 76ers' general manager for three years, was chosen as the new coach to fill the post vacated by Alex Hannum. Hannum, only coach to lead the team to an NBA title, resigned recently to go with the Oakland club of the rival American Basketball Association.

The trade was expected to be announced next Monday or Tuesday. But Chamberlain, contacted in San Francisco Friday night by the Los Angeles Times, said there will be no announcement concerning him on either of those days because he hopes to meet with 76er owner Irv Kosloff at that time and "wind up my business or settle it with the 76ers." He added:

"There can be no trade involving me without my permission."

"I do like the West Coast and expect to wind up here. I don't know right now exactly where I will wind up, but I think I'm going to make a move."

The trade obviously solved a dilemma that has troubled the 76ers since the end of the 1967-68 season.

Ramsay admitted the 76ers

Paul Brown Returns To Sidelines

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Paul Brown, one of football's renowned coaches, has ended five years of inactivity and says, "It really doesn't feel like I've been away."

Looking trim and tanned in a black baseball cap with the letters CB engraved in orange, Brown watched about 50 rookies check into the first camp of the Cincinnati Bengals Friday.

Brown is coach, general manager and part owner of the Bengals, newest entry in the American Football League.

"This is like an adventure for me," said the 58-year-old former Cleveland coach who molded the Browns into one of the top powers in the National Football League.

The Bengals opened camp here at Wilmington College, and 30 more rookies are due Saturday before the veterans check in July 10.

The new club already has sold 18,000 season tickets, the biggest advance sale for any sport in Cincinnati history and the biggest in the league for an expansion club.

Bob Gibson Is Named Player Of Month

CINCINNATI (AP) — Right-hander Bob Gibson, whose five consecutive shutouts for St. Louis last month almost matched Don Drysdale's record, has been selected as the National League's "player of the month" for June.

He received 43 of 50 votes cast by baseball writers and broadcasters participating in the monthly poll.

Players In NFL Threaten Strike Over Pension Plan

By The Associated Press

Only one demand seems to be preventing settlement of the feud between the National Football League Players Association and NFL club owners.

After days of rumors, NFL players Friday, for the first time openly, threatened to strike unless their demands for a pension plan are met.

John Gordy, all-pro offensive guard with the Detroit Lions and players association president, said in a statement, "As long as the owners refuse to resolve the pension problems, we have no choice but to take appropriate action."

Another players' spokesman said appropriate action meant a strike.

Howard Mudd of the San Francisco 49ers, said, "The offer on the owners' part is not satisfactory. Our demand is not unreasonable."

Mudd spoke to Don Yehl of the Midland, Mich., Daily News in a telephone interview from his home in Redwood City, Calif. Mudd played prep football in Midland.

He said professional baseball players currently get $11,000

monthly at age 65 while NFL players with at least five years of experience are given $450.

Gordy and others who met last weekend at Detroit with owners' representatives reportedly asked for contributions of $100,000 from each of the 16 NFL clubs to swell the pension account. The figure was reportedly too high for the owners.

However, Mudd was optimistic about a settlement of the dispute. "The end is in sight," he said.

His 49ers hope to open their rookie camp next week. Other teams have scheduled later opening dates.

Vince Lombardi, general manager of the Green Bay Packers, said Friday night in a television interview in Green Bay he hopes personal discipline will dissuade NFL players from a strike which could keep summer training camps idle.

It was Lombardi's first public comment on the salary and pension talks since they began.

Lombardi said owners have agreed to 21 of 22 demands of the players.

A Packers' players spokesman said players would not report to training camp July 10 unless all demands are met.

Meanwhile, Carroll Rosenbloom, owner of the Baltimore Colts, suggested the NFL consider suspending operations this year because of the threatened strike.

Rosenbloom told the Baltimore Evening Sun that if the league suspended operation for one year, the players "would realize what they are missing."

Bob Lurtsema, a starting defensive tackle with the New York Giants, told the Midland Daily News Friday that three of the four major demands had been met, with the exception being the pension issue.

Lurtsema, who works during the off season in Midland, said a settlement has been reached whereby second year men will receive a minimum salary of $12,000 and third year men $13,000.

There are no announced meetings between players and owners in efforts to solve the pension squabble. Owners reportedly do not oppose the idea of a pension plan, but the amount of money involved is in dispute.

Blair-Morse Wins 6-2 In Colt League

Blair-Morse came up with five runs in the first inning then protected the lead to score a 6-2 victory over Riverview Florists Friday in the Colt League.

Jim Lynch was the winning pitcher and scattered five hits. Larry Marshall, the losing hurler, only gave up four hits. Kemple led Blair-Morse with two hits including a double and Reed doubled for the winners. Steve Cochran's two base blast was the big hit for Riverview.

Wednesday night Blair-Morse whipped Lawyers 14-0 in a game called after four innings. Jim Lynch allowed only one hit. Terry Boyd had a homer and single. Scott Dubberly two triples and a single. Vic Reed a double and two singles. Kim Kemple three hits and Steve Murray a double. Loser Dan Kristy got the lone hit for the Lawyers.

Larry Brown Keeps Up Hot Hitting Pace

CLEVELAND (AP)—"This is a pretty good month for me," Larry Brown laughed after Cleveland beat the California Angels Friday night, 5-1.

Brown, who was batting .200 going into the game, drove in three runs with three singles and figures maybe he has come out of a slump he was never really in.

That's why he joked about a month's supply of hits in one night.

"I was talking to (catcher) Duke Sims the other day," the Indians' shortstop continued. "I haven't been in a slump all year. I've hit the ball fairly consistently."

Brown singled home a run in the fourth inning after Duke Sims walked and stole second.

Cleveland had a 2-0 lead in the eighth and added three more. Brown drove in two.

Joe Azcue singled and Sims and Max Alvis walked, loading the bases. Brown rapped a single to left off reliever Marty Pattin to lock it up for starter Sonny Siebert (9-5). Alvis scored on Vern Fuller's sacrifice fly.

Siebert needed help from Stan Williams in the ninth after Don Mincher clouted his eighth homer of the season. Roger Repoz followed with a single and Tom Satriano walked with two outs.

Calvary, Oakland Win In Slo-Pitch League

Calvary Methodist defeated Boyce Methodist, 11-6, and Oakland Free Methodist romped over First Free Methodist, 29-4 in the Church Slo-Pitch League Friday.

Logston clubbed a home run, triple and single and Dickey was four - for - four to pace Calvary. Pete Webb again led Boyce with three hits.

Oakland produced 30 hits in its one-sided victory. Joe Comfort had four hits for Oakland while Lee Goddard had three hits.

Yankees, Colts, Apaches Score HIHS Victories

The Hammondsville Yankees, Highlandtown Colts and the Highlandtown Apaches scored victories in the HIHS League Friday.

The Yankees routed the Salineville Cubs, 28-1, with Brad Railing walloping two home runs. Rick Workman was the winning pitcher.

The Highlandtown Colts produced a 15-6 victory over the No. 16 Tigers with Tom Stewart receiving the pitching victory.

John Talbott homered and drove in another run as the Highlandtown Apaches blanked the Salineville Chiefs 2-0. Jeff Conway was the winning pitcher.

'Hurt' Sets Record

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Jim Hurtubise, driving an Offenhauser, powered Indianapolis type roadster, set a world record of 191.983 miles per hour Friday for a closed course in a special run around Daytona International Speedway.

The first "Father's Day" celebration in the U. S. was sponsored by the Ministerial Association and the YMCA of Spokane, Wash., June 19, 1910.

Litten Nine Pounds Pony Foe By 19-1

Litten's surprised Burbick's with a 19-1 pounding Friday in the Pony League.

The big innings for the winners were the third and fifth when they scored eight and seven runs respectively.

Litten's came up with 19 hits including a home run by Dutch Wright and three hits by Steve Smith.

Players In NFL Threaten Strike Over Pension Plan

Only one demand seems to be preventing settlement of the feud between the National Football League Players Association and NFL club owners.

After days of rumors, NFL players Friday, for the first time openly, threatened to strike unless their demands for a pension plan are met.

John Gordy, all-pro offensive guard with the Detroit Lions and players association president, said in a statement, "As long as the owners refuse to resolve the pension problems, we have no choice but to take appropriate action."

Another players' spokesman said appropriate action meant a strike.

Howard Mudd of the San Francisco 49ers, said, "The offer on the owners' part is not satisfactory. Our demand is not unreasonable."

Mudd spoke to Don Yehl of the Midland, Mich., Daily News in a telephone interview from his home in Redwood City, Calif. Mudd played prep football in Midland.

He said professional baseball players currently get $1,100

monthly at age 65 while NFL players with at least five years of experience are given $450.

Gordy and others who met last weekend at Detroit with owners' representatives reportedly asked for contributions of $100,000 from each of the 16 NFL clubs to swell the pension account. The figure was reportedly too high for the owners.

However, Mudd was optimistic about a settlement of the dispute. "The end is in sight," he said.

His 49ers hope to open their rookie camp next week. Other teams have scheduled later opening dates.

Vince Lombardi, general manager of the Green Bay Packers, said Friday night in a television interview in Green Bay he hopes personal discipline will dissuade NFL players from a strike which could keep summer training camps idle.

It was Lombardi's first public comment on the salary and pension talk since they began.

Lombardi said owners have agreed to 21 of 22 demands of the players.

A Packers' players spokesman said players would not report to training camp July 10 unless all demands are met.

Meanwhile, Carroll Rosenbloom, owner of the Baltimore Colts, suggested the NFL consider suspending operations this year because of the threatened strike.

Rosenbloom told the Baltimore Evening Sun that if the league suspended operation for one year, the players "would realize what they are missing."

Bob Lurtsema, a starting defensive tackle with the New York Giants, told the Midland Daily News Friday that three of the four major demands had been met, with the exception being the pension issue.

Lurtsema, who works during the off season in Midland, said a settlement has been reached whereby second year men will receive a minimum salary of $12,000 and third year men $13,000.

There are no announced meetings between players and owners in efforts to solve the pension squabble. Owners reportedly do not oppose the idea of a pension plan, but the amount of money involved is in dispute.

3 Post Verdicts In Minor League

Rogers' Drive-In, Tri-State Appliance and Pusateri's scored victories in the Minor League Friday.

Rogers' showed 16 hits to back up the pitching of Craig Dray who struck out 13 batters in a 16-9 win over Potters Bank. Leading the hitting department were Gill, Barber and Taylor with three each. B. Wetzel had a triple, double and single for the losers.

Tri-State came up with 18 hits including three hits each by Michael Woods and Dick Reed to post a 17-12 victory over Potters Savings and Loan. Kim Wakefield had three hits in a losing cause.

Pusateri's broke a 9-9 tie by scoring three runs in the top of the sixth to down M & A Motors, 12-9.

Mike O'Hanlon was the winning pitcher while J. O'Hanlon and B. Thayer had three hits each and D. Bickel two doubles for Pusateri's. R. Kitteridge stroked two doubles and a single for M & A.

Saute lots of onion and green pepper and heat with tomato sauce and drained canned kidney beans; sprinkle with grated cheddar cheese and serve with hamburgers.

14-Year-Old Ties One Swim Mark, Sets Other

By RON RAPOPORT Associated Press Sports Writer SANTA CLARA, Calif. (AP)—Little Sue Pederson had one world record taken away from her almost before she got it. And she doesn't figure the one they did give her is going to last very long either.

In one hectic half hour at the Santa Clara International Invitational swim meet Friday, 14-year-old Susan tied one world record, lost the race she tied it in, was told it probably won't be a world record after all and then went out and broke another record.

The fun began in the women's 200-meter individual medley where Susan, from the Arden Hills Swim Club of Carmichael, Calif., faced the world record holder, Claudia Kolb, who hadn't been beaten since Susan did it two years ago.

It looked as if Miss Pederson had done it again, but the judges, one mechanical and one human, gave the race to Miss Kolb. The problem was that the times agreed upon by the three stop watches on each girl had Susan in 2:25.0, tying the world

"Tiger" Twists

Tails Of Police

LISBON — Police were relieved Friday night to get rid of "The Tiger"—a 10-year-old Canton runaway who damaged three doors in the detention room and broke a panel out of one.

Policeman John Vokovich picked him up at 10:15 a.m. yesterday. The next 10 hours were "all boy."

Canton police and juvenile authorities advised he was a runaway and said his parents would come for him.

They arrived at 5:50 p.m., but the boy was gone. Vokovich said the lad crawled through a hole in the door about 3:30 p.m. while he (the officer) was at the County Welfare Department trying to get some help for him.

Sheriff's Deputy Robert Wellington located the runaway at 6:05 p.m. walking along the Lisbon-Columbiana Rd. (Route 164) and returned him to Policeman Phil Prasco at Village Hall.

The parents had decided not to wait and were on their way back to Canton when the boy was returned. Juvenile authorities arrived at 8:20 p.m. They told police he has a long record in Stark County Juvenile Court.

LEGAL NOTICE

LEGAL NOTICE
BETTY JANE PALDON, whose present place of residence is 27 Sherman Avenue, Wyoming, N.Y., will take notice that on the 18th day of June, 1968, the plaintiff, WALTER G. PALDON, filed his petition against her in the Court of Common Pleas of Columbiana County, Ohio, in Case Number 53191, praying for a divorce on the grounds of gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty. Said cause will be for hearing on or after the 26th day of August, 1968.

WALTER G. PALDON, Plaintiff
By John B. McDonald, Attorney
E. L. Review: June 22, 26, July 6, 13, 20, 27, 1968.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our husband, father and grandfather Wilson Tams who passed away one year ago yesterday, July 5th. Not dead to us who loved him. Not lost, but gone before. He lives with us in memory. And will for ever more.
Loving Wife, Daughters and Grandchildren.

In memory of ALFRED G. ROYD who passed away one year ago today, July 6th. Nothing can ever take away the love a heart holds dear. Fond memories linger every day. Remembrance keeps him near. Sadly missed by the family.

Junior Editors Quiz on U.S. TERRITORIES

QUESTION: What is the story of United States lands?

ANSWER: All but 15 of our states — the original 13 with the addition of Texas and California — were once territories or parts of them, meaning areas under a federal government but not equal in rights to a state. The Republic of the Philippines was once a U.S. territory, but is now an independent nation. Alaska and Hawaii were the last territories which became states. Puerto Rico was a territory until it became a commonwealth, which gives it self-government under the protection of the U.S. At present, the U.S. has five main territories and dependencies. These are, in the Americas, the Virgin Islands and the Panama Canal Zone; and in the Pacific Ocean, American Samoa, Guam, Wake and some other Pacific islands. In our map we show states with large flags, the commonwealth with a middle-sized one, and territories with smaller ones. There are also trust territories administered by the U.S. under the U.N. — far too many to show on our map. Recently the United States has been encouraging groups of the Pacific Islands to move toward self government.

Psychologist Appointed

Koloski Named Warden At Ohio Pen; Maxwell III

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Marion J. Koloski, a powerfully built veteran penologist who believes most men can be rehabilitated, is the new warden of Ohio Penitentiary.

Director Martin A. Janis of the Ohio Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction named Koloski Friday to replace ailing warden Ernest Maxwell, 59, who retires at the end of July.

Although Koloski's appointment does not become official until Maxwell's retirement, he will take over the duties Monday while Maxwell remains hospitalized from "complete exhaustion."

Maxwell and one of his deputies, Ralph Ketchum, 61, were hospitalized following long hours of work during and after the June 24 rioting and fire at the penitentiary.

They were in fair condition at Riverside Hospital Friday.

Maxwell has long suffered from a chest and lung ailment and had planned to retire early in July.

Began Career In 1949

Koloski, 46, has been head of the Chillicothe Correctional Institution the past two years. A trained psychologist, he began his career at the penitentiary as a psychologist in 1949, became a corrections captain, then deputy warden and in 1963 was named superintendent of the Mansfield Reformatory. A native of Pontiac, Mich., he was graduated from Ohio State University's School of Social Administration with a major in corrections and earned his master's degree there.

Koloski, a ruddy complexioned, 6-foot, 5-inch, 265-pounder, says his psychology training will help him in his new job.

He said while at the Mansfield and Chillicothe institutions he observed that "many inmates have as much goodness as they do bad qualities. They need hope."

"My philosophy is to distinguish between inmates who want to help themselves and those who want to wallow in their own self pity," he said.

Rev. Schuck is associated with the Village Missions. Mrs. Schuck is the former Miss Irene Shell of Rogers.

Toledo FOP Presses To Keep 2 From Jobs

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The Fraternal Order of Police here said Friday it would seek legal help to block the appointment of two men scheduled to graduate from the Toledo Police Academy Saturday.

James Tierney, Toledo FOP President, said the two men have past police records. But city manager William Gross said it was his understanding that the men had only juvenile records and have had clean records since.

Beverly Youth Killed

BEVERLY, Ohio (AP) — Thomas Harold Offenberger, 6, son of Mrs. and Mrs. Harold Offenberger, was killed Friday when pinned between two tractors at his father's feed and grain supply business here. Cause of the accident was not known.

Police Head Gives Warning In Pittsburgh Fire Bombing

PITTSBURGH, Pa. — Police Supt. James W. Slusser has given a stern warning to those persons who've been throwing firebombs in the city.

He said persons who take a firebomb in their hands, "are quite likely to die . . . They're quite likely to be shot in the process of that bombing."

Slusser made the remark on WJAS radio station's "Comment" program Thursday. Slusser had not been scheduled to appear on the program but came to the studio after listening to an interview with the Rev. Leigh Jarvis, a minister from Pittsburgh's Northview Heights.

Slusser made the statement after Jarvis had said, "It has been inferred that I condone firebombing, stone throwing and general disturbances. I am for law and order but I'm also concerned with the use of overforce on the part of the police department."

Slusser's comment came after a series of firebombings in the city over the past several weeks. The latest incident happened Thursday night when persons tossed a lighted gasoline bomb into a store in the Garfield section. Police said there was minor damage.

Firebombings in the Hazelwood section early Thursday gutted three buildings and injured six persons. Fire Chief Harry Keller estimated damage at about $40,000.

Following the bombings, Slusser had issued an order to all policemen to "use every means at your command" to protect the safety of innocent lives.

Leaders of the Pittsburgh Chapter of the United Negro Protest Committee, the Poor People's campaign and several clergymen said Slusser's remarks have been "harsh and vindictive."

They said they're going to arrange a meeting with Mayor Joseph M. Barr to discuss Slusser's comments and incidents of "alleged brutality."

Psychologist Appointed

Koloski Named Warden At Ohio Pen; Maxwell III

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Marion J. Koloski, a powerfully built veteran penologist who believes most men can be rehabilitated, is the new warden of Ohio Penitentiary.

Director Martin A. Janis of the Ohio Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction named Koloski Friday to replace ailing warden Ernest Maxwell, 59, who retires at the end of July. Although Koloski's appointment does not become official until Maxwell's retirement, he will take over the duties Monday while Maxwell remains hospitalized from "complete exhaustion."

Maxwell and one of his deputies, Ralph Ketchum, 61, were hospitalized following long hours of work during and after the June 24 rioting and fire at the penitentiary.

They were in fair condition at Riverside Hospital Friday.

Maxwell has long suffered from a chest and lung ailment and had planned to retire early in July.

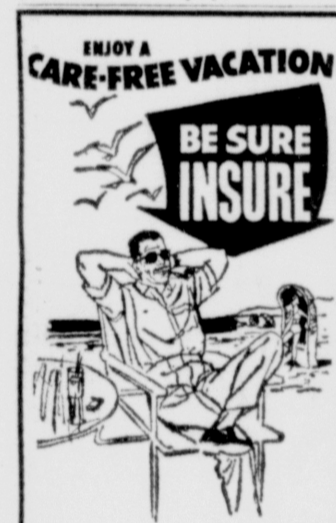

Began Career In 1949

Koloski, 46, has been head of the Chillicothe Correctional Institution the past two years. A trained psychologist, he began his career at the penitentiary as a psychologist in 1949, became a corrections captain, then deputy warden and in 1963 was named superintendent of the Mansfield Reformatory. A native of Pontiac, Mich., he was graduated from Ohio State University's School of Social Administration with a major in corrections and earned his masters degree there.

Koloski, a ruddy complexioned, 6-foot, 5-inch, 265-pounder, says his psychology training will help him in his new job.

He said while at the Mansfield and Chillicothe institutions he observed that "many inmates have as much goodness as they do bad qualities. They need hope."

"My philosophy is to distinguish between inmates who want to help themselves and those who want to wallow in their own self pity," he said.

Today In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas J. Dodd contends a flood of foreign military surplus firearms will enter the United States before new import restrictions take effect unless President Johnson moves to prevent it.

The omnibus crime control bill recently enacted takes effect Dec. 1.

In a letter to the President Friday, Dodd said since the bill was passed importers have been scrambling to obtain licenses to bring in large quantities of weapons. The trend could be seen even before the bill was enacted, he said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The bill providing stiff penalties for persons who desecrate the flag has been signed into law by President Johnson.

The controversial measure started through the legislative mill in 1967, when feeling ran high in Congress over antiwar demonstrations that included burning and other acts of disrespect to the flag.

The new law permits fines of up to $1,000 and imprisonment for as long as a year for persons who knowingly burn, deface, defile, mutilate or trample on the flag or any representation of it.
